TIRE PRICE-FIXING PLOT CHARGED

Russia Vetoes Three Nations' U. N. Petitions

Albania, Mongolia Bids Are Rejected

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Soviet Union cast its twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth vetoes in the Security Council late today to reject applications from Ireland, Portugal and Trans-Jordan for membership in the United Nations.

The council also rejected Soviet-supported Albania and Outer Mongolia.

It then voted unanimously to recommend the admission of the Arab Kingdom of Yemen and the new Dominion of Pakistan. The two Moslem states will become the 56th and 57th members when given routine sanction by the General Assembly meeting in New York September 16.

Nine Support Applications

It was the second time in a year that Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromkyo had invoked the special big power privilege in the council to upset majority votes which would have added Ireland, Portugal and Trans-Jordan to the roster.

Poland joined Russia in opposing Portugal but abstained on Ireland and Trans-Jordan. The other nine of the 11 council members supported the three.

Applications from Albania and Outer Mongolia were rejected by their failure to win the necessary seven out of 11 council votes—just as they failed in 1946 when first offered.

The United States and Britain opposed both Albania and Outer Mongolia but the veto did not apply in this case because neither mustered the seven affirmative votes required for approval. Both of them were supported only by Russia, Poland and Syria.

Soviet Demand Rejected

The delegates then rejected a Russian demand for postponement of applications from Austria, Italy, Rumania, Hungary and Bulgaria on the grounds that the peace treaties had not been ratified. They will be taken up Thursday.

The United States, spearheading the drive for consideration of the four former Axis countries and Austria immediately, was supported by France, Brazil and Belgium while the others abstained.

Indonesian Session Moved Up

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 18 (AP)—An emergency session of the United Nations Security Council was called for tomorrow mornuing on the Indonesian question after Russia insisted in an implied slap at the United States late today that speedy action was imperative to thwart "diplomatic pressure."

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko told the council that the situation was serious not only because fighting had broken out anew but because pressure were being exerted to force the Indinesians to accept decisions "by-passing the Security Council."

The council was originally scheduled to resume debate on the Indonesian dispute Thursday, but in view of Gromyko's statement and a similar appeal for speed by Australian Delegate Col. W. R. Hodgson the meeting was moved up to 10:30 a. m. (EDT) tomorrow.

State Rests In Trial Of Heiress, Boy Friend

SANTA ANA, Calif., Aug. 18 (AP)—The state rested its case today against Louise Overell, 18-year-old heiress, and her husky boy friend, George Gollum, 21, accused of slaying her parents.

As the state concluded its case the jury was excused until next Thursday.

Otto Jacobs, chief of the girl's defense, quickly launched into arguments to strike certain portions of testimony in the 13-week trial which he claimed pertained only to Gollum, not to his client.

Before the state rested, Prosecutor Eugene D. Williams said he wished to review testimony as to the clothing Gollum wore the morning of March 15. Financier and Mrs. Walter E. Overell were found dead after a blast that night which wrecked their yacht.

Idea Of One Overseas Airline Turned Down

Truman Group Says Competition Needed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 — (AP) — President Truman's air co-ordinating committee today rejected the idea of a single airline for all American commercial flying abroad.

The so-called "chosen instrument" plan, subject of sharp exchanges in the recent Senate committee investigation of Howard Hughes' plane contracts, was turned down by the administration officials on three grounds:

1. That competition stimulates development;

2. That the single line plan would allow a small group of individuals to "interfere in policies of great national interest; and

3. That there is no national security need for it.

Figured In Hughes Hearing

The "chosen instrument" policy figured in the Hughes hearing when the California plane builder and movie producer accused Sen. Brewster (R-Me.), chairman of the Senate War Investigating Committee, of offering to call off the inquiry if Hughes would merge his Trans World Airline with Pan American Airways and support the one-international-line plan. Brewster, one of the sponsors of a bill for a single international airline, denied he had made any such proposition.

The White House made public today's lengthy committee statement on aviation policy without comment from Mr. Truman.

It was prepared as an advisory document at his request by the coordinating committee, made up of high-level government officials, and transmitted to the temporary air policy commission, a non-government group created by the President last July to aid him in formulating general air policy.

The document called for "continuation of competition among United States airlines in the international field," and added:

Competition Offers Stimulus

"Competition offers the greatest stimulus to development by the United States of new operating techniques and equipment, and the only means of keeping from the hands of one small management group the power to interfere in policies of great national interest.

"From the point of view of national defense, there are no factors making necessary a step toward the so-called 'chosen instrument' at this time."

The statement asserted the United States should maintain aviation forces strong and effective enough to repel any attack and "to launch an air offensive which will cripple any aggression at its source."

'Gas-Hungry' B-17 Motor Is Blamed For Ocean Crash

Air And Sea Search For Atcheson Futile

HONOLULU, Aug. 18, (AP) — The navigator of the Army B-17, which crashed at sea Saturday midnight and apparently cost the lives of Ambassador George Atcheson, Jr., and nine others, blamed the disaster today on a "gas-hungry" engine and head winds that exhausted the fuel.

Fifteen planes and 12 ships continued their search of the crash area some 65 miles west of Pearl Harbor all day today in futile hunt for the bodies of Atcheson and three Army men still unaccounted for.

Capt. T L. Rider, one of three survivors, meanwhile gave the first full account of the pre-crash minutes of tense decision.

A resident of Ponca City, Okla., he is in the 147th General Hospital with a broken arm.

He had navigated the same B-17 over the same route several times without incident.

Couldn't See Surface of Water

Rider said the pilot, Capt. K. R. Still, considered trying to reach the island of Kauai, northwest of Oahu and trying to land on the beach, but abandoned this idea and instead chanced "ditching" the gasless plane.

He said that in the murky, squally night, none of the crew could see the surface of the water and knew nothing of surface wave and wind conditions.

Of the 13 men aboard the B-17 when it ran out of fuel en route from Tokyo to Washington, five bodies were recovered Sunday, another was seen to sink, and three survivors were rescued. This made a total of six known dead and four, including Atcheson, not accounted for.

No Letup In Search

The men participating in the intensive search said frankly that they held no hope of finding anyone alive in the tossing, shark-infested waters.

On the remote possibility, however, the Hawaiian Sea Frontier continued without letup the hunt which began when the pilot sent his first distress signal while still in the air Saturday night.

The missing were not identified, aside from Atcheson, who with the rank of ambassador was Gen. MacArthur's political adviser in the Japanese occupation and chairman of the four-power council for Japan.

Those rescued were Col. Harvey Huglin, Fairfield, Iowa; Capt. T. L. Rider, Ponca City, Okla., who suffered a broken arm, and Sgt. L. C. Holland, Colmesneil, Tex., who suffered head injuries. Both the latter were members of the eight-man plane crew.

Waitress' Story Of Rape Checked

NILES, Mich., Aug. 18. (AP)—State police today investigated the story of a 22-year-old waitress that she was kidnaped by a "very polite" negro who raped her four times during five hours of captivity.

Police Sgt. Paul Fredericks said the account was given by Miss Jean Myers who he said told of being forced at 3 a. m. from a car in which she was parked with Sherman Frizzell, 22, on a road south of the city limits.

The young woman returned to her home this morning but was taken later to the state police post for questioning, officers said.

Sgt. Fredericks said she was not bruised or otherwise mistreated except for the reported assaults. She submitted to her captor, he quoted her, because "he threatened to beat me if I tried to get away." She said he did not display a gun.

She described the negro as about 32, tall and sturdily built, and said he was "very polite" and "pretty nice" to her except during the attacks, Fredericks said.

Fredericks said the negro was declared to have tied up Frizzell and left him on the ground after robbing him of his watch and a billfold containing $16, then driving off with Miss Myers in his own car.

Navy Reports Adm. King's Condition Still Serious

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The condition of Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King remained serious tonight.

The wartime chief of naval operations and commander-in-chief of the fleet has hardening of the arteries and indications of a mild stroke without paralysis.

The Navy this morning issued this statement:

"Fleet Adm. King rested well during the night. His general condition remains unchanged, still considered serious."

Late in the day the Navy said there had been no change.

Jamboree Mishap

MOISSON, France, Aug. 18 (AP)—Eight Belgian boys were injured today in the collision of two miniature trains which marred the official closing day of the World Boy Scout Jamboree.

Hospital authorities said one boy suffered such a severe leg injury that doctors at first considered an amputation necessary. It was decided later not to remove the leg.

Terror Threat Is Not Carried Out In Vienna

Deadline Passes; Buildings Guarded

VIENNA, Tuesday, Aug. 19. (AP)—American security troops stood guard at four buildings in the American zone of Vienna early today as the result of a telephoned tip that Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground organization, would attempt to blow up the buildings at 12:05 a. m., but at 1 a. m. no sign of any attackers had been seen.

An anonymous call to an Austrian policeman said Irgun members planned to plant explosives in the United States Legation and two power stations in the American zone of the city, and to discharge them at five minutes after midnight.

Notification of military police brought a heavy guard to those buildings and to the home of United States Minister John G. Erhardt an hour before the reported deadline.

Operations were directed from military police headquarters opposite one of the threatened power plants.

Anti-British Terrorism

This was the first terrorist threat against American installation in Austria, although a British army leave train was derailed while passing through the American zone on August 12 and a British officer's hotel billet was damaged by a bomb earlier.

Col. H. B. Hurless, United States Provost Marshal for Vienna, said an unknown person telephoned an Austrian civilian policeman at approximately 9 p. m. local time, with the information of the impending attacks.

The policeman immediately informed American military police headquarters.

In addition to regular military police, the special investigation section of the Criminal Investigation Department and the counter intelligence units also were alerted.

Irgun Zvai Leumi has its headquarters in Palestine, where it has carried on a campaign against British authority for months and claimed credit for dozens of acts of anti-British terrorism, but is known to have agents and operators throughout Western Europe.

An American military spokesman said Saturday that United States authorities were confident the attacks on British forces in Austria were the work of Irgunists and that the organization was operating among displaced persons camps in the American zone.

DPs Have More Freedom

He explained that the American authorities have given displaced persons in their zone more freedom of action than the other occupying powers have permitted in theirs.

A number of Jewish displaced persons are known to have travelled to Palestine and returned to Austria recently, he said.

The spokesman indicated that the American occupation authorities in Austria were contemplating stringent measures to suppress anti-British terrorism in their zone.

The Americans arrested Gosior Henoch, a Polish Jew believed to have organized the attack on the British train, but were unable to prevent the attack itself.

Henoch still is being held by the Americans, who have declined to release him to the British on the ground that his case should be handled on a high government level.

15 Senators Sail Oct. 1 To Check U. S. Aid Results

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Chairman Bridges (R-NH), of the Senate Appropriations Committee, announced tonight that 15 members are going to Europe to size up results of America's foreign aid expenditures and "determine the need for the continued large outlay."

Nine Republicans and six Democrats will sail October 1 to tour all occupied areas, Greece, Turkey, Italy, the Balkan countries, France, England and the Netherlands.

"The purpose of the trip," Bridges said in a statement, "is to review the results of expenditures made to date and to determine the need for th continued large outlay of Unitd States taxpayers' funds for the stabilization of Europe."

Ban On Economic Aggression Asked By Cuban Envoy

Hemisphere Military Agency Urged By U. S.

QUITANDINHA, Brazil, Aug. 18 (AP)—Cuba submitted a formal demand today to the Inter-American Conference that any mutual defense treaty adopted by the 20 nations include a clause against "economic aggression."

In a plenary session speech, Dr. Guillermo Belt, Cuban Ambassador to the United States, declared that "simple notification which one state makes against another that it will apply sanctions, or means of economic, financial, or commercial coercion if the other nation does not accede to its demands, should be considered a menace."

U. S. Urges Military Agency

The Cuban move followed an earlier proposal by the United States to a conference committee for immediate conference discussion of a military agency to back a treaty for mutual defense of the hemisphere.

The adoption of such a treaty was the prime purpose for calling the conference.

The American plan called for discussions on the "creation of a military agency and supply of forces," and included a proposal for broadening the discussion of armed attacks to include "other acts and threats of aggression."

Dr. Belt viewed economic measures taken by one country against another as coming within this category.

Sugar Act Protested

The Cuban, who has been protesting vigorously against the 1948 United States Sugar Act, expressed confidence that the conference would unanimously support his demand.

Cuba objects to the provision in the Sugar Act which gives the Secretary of Agriculture power to withdraw or withhold an increase in sugar quotas if foreign countries do not give United States citizens fair and equal treatment. President Truman, in signing the measure, released a letter from United States Secretary of State Marshall asserting that the smaller countries had nothing to fear from the act.

Wyche Leaves To Inspect Lt. Gen. Lee's Command

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18. (AP) — Maj. Gen. Ira T. Wyche, War Department Inspector General, left today by plane to look into published reports of low troop morale and high living by officers in the Mediterranean theater command of Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee.

Wyche is making the inspection trip at the direction of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Chief of Staff. On his arrival here Saturday from a trip to Alaska, Eisenhower told reporters that stories published in this country that Lee was living in lavish fashion would be looked into. The stories were written by Robert Ruark, an American correspondent.

MANY BELIEVED DEAD IN TERRIFIC ARSENAL BLAST AT CADIZ, SPAIN

SEVILLA, Spain, Tuesday, Aug. 19 (AP)—An undetermined number of persons was believed killed last night when a heavy explosion occurred in an arsenal in the southeastern section of Cadiz and unconfirmed reports said Cadiz hospitals were filled with victims of the blast.

Authorities were said to believe that a number of persons were trapped in summer homes along the Bay of Cadiz near the arsenal.

The Sevilla radio issued appeals for owners of ambulances and private automobiles to go to Cadiz, 60 miles southwest of Sevilla, to assist rescue workers, and it was reported that the naval captain general of Cadiz had appealed to nearby ships to render assistance.

British Present Loan Statement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 — (AP) — The Anglo-American conference on England's dollar crisis opened today with a British explanation of why her $3,750,000,000 loan already is more than three-fourths exhausted.

A brief Treasury Department statement at the close of the initial 90-minute session made only glancing reference to the acknowledged theme of the negotiations—the possible easing of British obligations under the loan agreement—but it declared:

"The British officials sketched, in general, the economic developments of the British since the signing of the loan agreement."

This tallied with pre-conference reports that Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, chief American negotiator, wanted an accounting for Britain's spending of the borrowed dollars as well as a blueprint of future economic policies, before talking about any concessions.

Sir Wilfrid Eady, chief of the London delegation, did not disclose the nature of his remarks inside the conference room. He spoke for perhaps half an hour after Snyder called on him for a statement of the British situation. The facts he presented, an official said, were "pretty well known" to the American side of the table.

The Briton, it was said, gave no clue to the type of relief which England is seeking. The delegates on both sides, it appeared, are not planning to get down to brass tacks until technical discussions are held on such problems as England's lagging export trade, the slowness of her production rise, and such plans as may be in mind for balancing her budget.

Midwest Temperatures Are Like Prices--High

[By The Associated Press]

The Midwest's temperatures were just like prices today—high and looking as if they'd stay that way for some time.

For the third successive week, a heat wave greeted week enders returning to their jobs and "unusually high" humidities added to the discomfort through most sections gripped by the heat wave.

The heat wave was in full control of a wide area, including the Southern Great Plains, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Lower Michigan and Southern Wisconsin, with temperatures reaching between 95 and 100.

No relief was in sight before Wednesday night or Thursday.

Information Is Filed Against 19 Defendants

Conspiracy Began In 1935, U. S. Says

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—The federal government, charging a 12-year-old conspiracy to fix tire prices and limit production, filed a criminal information today against 19 defendants including the nation's principal tire manufacturers.

The information, filed in Federal District Court by the Justice Department's anti-trust division, said the defendants eliminated price competition by agreeing "on prices, discounts, allowances, bonuses, classification of customers, uniform warranties, guarantees and adjustment policies, allocation of sales to state, county and municipal government agencies."

Officials of several of the defendant firms quickly denied the government allegations and declared they would contest the suit vigorously.

The alleged conspiracy to fix prices began in May, 1935, the information stated. One of the defendants, the Rubber Manufacturers Association, Inc., of New York, is a tire manufacturers' trade association which, the information said, was maintained "as a means by which the prices of tires and tubes were fixed."

The association said its files on tires were subpoenaed by the Justice Department more than a year ago, but declined comment on the anti-trust suit.

Color Films Anti-Trust Suit

Meanwhile, in Los Angeles, another anti-trust suit was filed charging a conspiracy in production of color motion pictures, with the Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation and Eastman Kodak Company named as defendants.

William C. Dickson, chief of the West Coast anti-trust division, said that if the government won the civil action, it "should make possible an early and substantial increase in color motion pictures for the public."

The information in the tire suit said the yearly production of tires and tubes immediately prior to January 1, 1942, averaged 50,000,000 tires and tubes each, with a combined value of $1,000,000,000.

Since 1942, the productive capacity of the tire and tube industry and annual sales of the products have more than doubled, the government said.

The defendant companies, which include the industry's "Big Four," Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and United States produce more than 90 per cent of the tires and tubes made in the United States, the information said.

John Ford Baecher, first assistant in the Anti-Trust Division, said in Washington the suit was filed after an investigation following receipt of numerous complaints from independent tire dealers.

He added that "the recent decline in the price of tires occurred about 14 months after the issuing of subpoenas and at a time when the investigation was making progress.

Doesn't Make Sense To O'Neil

"The price change occurred also at a time when there had developed a surplus of tires in excess of demand, and was accomplished in part by reduction in list prices and dealers' discounts. The small business dealers alleged that they absorbed much of the price reductions."

William O'Neil, president of General Tire and Rubber Company, one of the defendant firms, declared in a statement the suit "just doesn't

U. S. Asks Moscow To Halt Execution Of Nikola Petkov

Intercedes In Behalf Of Bulgar Anti-Red

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18, (AP) — The United States pressed its campaign of protest against Communist tactics in the Balkans today by appealing to Russia to halt Bulgaria's execution of Nikola Petkov, outspoken Bulgarian opposition leader.

With British support, the American representative on the three-power Allied Control Commission for occupied Bulgaria charged that Petkov's conviction in Sofia Saturday of "plotting" against the Communist fatherland front government was a "miscarriage of justice" which might have "repercussions on peace and order" in a country for which the commission is supervisory authority.

Plea For Kovacs Failed

The Soviet chairman was urged to direct the Bulgarian government without delay to suspend the sentence and transfer Petkov's case to the commission for review.

But Moscow already has made plain that Russia deems any such interference with the Communist governments of Eastern Europe to be infringement of their sovereignty.

Similar United States efforts in behalf of Bela Kovacs, anti-Communist leader in Hungary, were brushed aside by the Russian commander at Budapest on that ground.

U. S. Denounced Arrest

The plea for Petkov was announced here by the State Department which in June had denounced his arrest as in "Complete disregard" of the wartime Yalta agreement.

Petkov was convicted of having "inspired" certain Bulgarian army officers to found a military union which plotted to overthrow the fatherland front government. He also was convicted on certain other counts such as encouraging disaffection in the army by his articles in the opposition press.

Four co-defendents, who testified against him, escaped with sentences ranging from five to 15 years each, while Petkov was sentenced to death.

Unapproved Equipment Blamed For Mine Blast

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18. (AP)—The Bureau of Mines today tentatively blamed unauthorized use of unapproved equipment for the August 14 explosion in the New Orient mine at West Frankfort, Ill., in which three men were killed.

Sen. Bilbo Gains Ground In Fight For His Life

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18, (AP) — Sen. Theo G. Bilbo (D-Miss) apparently gained ground today in his fight against a complication of diseases.

A late bulletin from Foundation Hospital, where he was placed on the list of serious ill Saturday, described the condition of the 69-year-old unseated senator as "very good."

Princess Elizabeth, "Poor Little Rich Girl," Won't Have Trousseau

LONDON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth, cast by her country's troubles in the role of a "poor little rich girl," has been denied the heart's desire of every bride-to-be—a new trousseau.

In accord with the wishes of King George and Queen Elizabeth, and "owing to present day conditions," Buckingham Palace announced tonight, the Princess will go on her honeymoon without a single new traveling outfit, pair of bedroom slippers or frothy negligee.

The only "something new" when she marries Lt. Philip Mountbatten in Westminster Abbey next November 20 will be her wedding dress, a Norman Hartnell creation which the Princess selected from several designs with the counsel of her fun-loving fiance.

It's not a question of money—Elizabeth gets $2,000 a month allowance and has the prospect of much more when she marries— but of the clothing shortage. Dresses, shoes, stockings—practically everything—are strictly rationed. With some exceptions, the ruling against the Princess appeared to disappoint Londoners.

"I can see their majesties' point—they want the Princess to get along like everybody else, but it's a little rough on her, don't you think?" asked a middle-aged married woman. "She's sort of being punished in this way simply because she is an heiress to the throne."

As usual, nobody gave so much as a passing thought as to what the bridegroom would wear.

Mexican Landslides Kill At Least 12 Persons, Wipe Out Two Villages

TAMAZUNCHALE, Mexico, Aug. 16 (AP)—At least 12 persons were killed and two villages were wiped out by a series of landslides which rumbled down from peaks of East Central Mexico Friday during hurricane rains, city officials here reported today.

Ten of the known dead were at Tamal, eight and one half miles south of here, where a roaring slide wiped out 43 houses Friday night. Nineteen miles north of Tamazunchale, in a less rugged region, a landslide hit the village of Villa Cerrada and buried nearly two miles of highway under tons of earth. Two bodies have been recovered.

Tamazunchale, known to thousands of American tourists as "Thomas and Charley," is 536 miles south of the United States border at Laredo, Tex., and 236 miles north of Mexico City.

Southward from Tamazunchale, for almost 100 miles, the Pan-American Highway winds over one of the most spectacular mountain routes of the world. For 60 miles of this route, to Jacala and Beyond, occurred a series of slides that blocked off the road to all traffic.

Rescue work is hampered by a lack of earth moving machinery—workers are using shovels to dig for bodies and to clear the highway. Only a thread of communication with the area remains.

From Laredo, Coches Salon Del Norte, a bus company, said it had been notified by the American Department of Communications at Mexico City that three buses had been trapped by a landslide and pitched into a river but that no one had been hurt.

Highway workers said it probably would be days before it would be known if any automobiles were buried.

TIRE PRICE-FIXING PLOT CHARGED

Albania, Mongolia Bids Are Rejected

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Soviet Union cast its twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth vetoes in the Security Council late today to reject applications from Ireland, Portugal and Trans-Jordan for membership in the United Nations.

The council also rejected Soviet-supported Albania and Outer Mongolia.

It then voted unanimously to recommend the admission of the Arab Kingdom of Yemen and the new Dominion of Pakistan. The two Moslem states will become the 56th and 57th members when given routine sanction by the General Assembly meeting in New York September 16.

Nine Support Applications

It was the second time in a year that Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromkyo had invoked the special big power privilege in the council to upset majority votes which would have added Ireland, Portugal and Trans-Jordan to the roster.

Poland joined Russia in opposing Portugal but abstained on Ireland and Trans-Jordan. The other nine of the 11 council members supported the three.

Applications from Albania and Outer Mongolia were rejected by their failure to win the necessary seven out of 11 council votes—just as they failed in 1946 when first offered.

The United States and Britain opposed both Albania and Outer Mongolia but the veto did not apply in this case because neither mustered the seven affirmative votes required for approval. Both of them were supported only by Russia, Poland and Syria.

Soviet Demand Rejected

The delegates then rejected a Russian demand for postponement of applications from Austria, Italy, Rumania, Hungary and Bulgaria on the grounds that the peace treaties had not been ratified. They will be taken up Thursday.

The United States, spearheading the drive for consideration of the four former Axis countries and Austria immediately, was supported by France, Brazil and Belgium while the others abstained.

Indonesian Session Moved Up

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 18 (AP)—An emergency session of the United Nations Security Council was called for tomorrow morning on the Indonesian question after Russia insisted in an implied slap at the United States late today that speedy action was imperative to thwart "diplomatic pressure."

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko told the council that the situation was serious not only because fighting had broken out anew but because pressure were being exerted to force the Indinesians to accept decisions "by-passing the Security Council."

The council was originally scheduled to resume debate on the Indonesian dispute Thursday, but in view of Gromyko's statement and a similar appeal for speed by Australian Delegate Col. W. R. Hodgson the meeting was moved up to 10:30 a. m. (EDT) tomorrow.

State Rests In Trial Of Heiress, Boy Friend

SANTA ANA, Calif., Aug. 18. (AP)—The state rested its case today against Louise Overell, 18-year-old heiress, and her husky boy friend, George Gollum, 21, accused of slaying her parents.

As the state concluded its case the jury was excused until next Thursday.

Otto Jacobs, chief of the girl's defense, quickly launched into arguments to strike certain portions of testimony in the 13-week trial which he claimed pertained only to Gollum, not to his client.

Before the state rested, Prosecutor Eugene D. Williams said he wished to review testimony as to the clothing Gollum wore the morning of March 15. Financier and Mrs. Walter E. Overell were found dead after a blast that night which wrecked their yacht.

Idea Of One Overseas Airline Turned Down

Truman Group Says Competition Needed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 — (AP) — President Truman's air co-ordinating committee today rejected the idea of a single airline for all American commercial flying abroad.

The so-called "chosen instrument" plan, subject of sharp exchanges in the recent Senate committee investigation of Howard Hughes' plane contracts, was turned down by the administration officials on three grounds:

1. That competition stimulates development;

2. That the single line plan would allow a small group of individuals to "interfere in policies of great national interest; and

3. That there is no national security need for it.

Figured In Hughes Hearing

The "chosen instrument" policy figured in the Hughes hearing when the California plane builder and movie producer accused Sen. Brewster (R-Me.), chairman of the Senate War Investigating Committee, of offering to call off the inquiry if Hughes would merge his Trans World Airline with Pan American Airways and support the one-international-line plan. Brewster, one of the sponsors of a bill for a single international airline, denied he had made any such proposition.

The White House made public today's lengthy committee statement on aviation policy without comment from Mr. Truman.

It was prepared as an advisory document at his request by the coordinating committee, made up of high-level government officials, and transmitted to the temporary air policy commission, a non-government group created by the President last July to aid him in formulating general air policy.

The document called for "continuation of competition among United States airlines in the international field," and added:

Competition Offers Stimulus

"Competition offers the greatest stimulus to development by the United States of new operating techniques and equipment, and the only means of keeping from the hands of one small management group the power to interfere in policies of great national interest.

"From the point of view of national defense, there are no factors making necessary a step toward the so-called 'chosen instrument' at this time."

The statement asserted the United States should maintain aviation forces strong and effective enough to repel any attack and "to launch an air offensive which will cripple any aggression at its source."

'Gas-Hungry' B-17 Motor Is Blamed For Ocean Crash

Air And Sea Search For Atcheson Futile

HONOLULU, Aug. 18, (AP) — The navigator of the Army B-17, which crashed at sea Saturday midnight and apparently cost the lives of Ambassador George Atcheson, Jr., and nine others, blamed the disaster today on a "gas-hungry" engine and head winds that exhausted the fuel.

Fifteen planes and 12 ships continued their search of the crash area some 65 miles west of Pearl Harbor all day today in futile hunt for the bodies of Atcheson and three Army men still unaccounted for.

Capt. T. L. Rider, one of three survivors, meanwhile gave the first full account of the pre-crash minutes of tense decision.

A resident of Ponca City, Okla., he is in the 147th General Hospital with a broken arm.

He had navigated the same B-17 over the same route several times without incident.

Couldn't See Surface of Water

Rider said the pilot, Capt. K. R. Still, considered trying to reach the island of Kauai, northwest of Oahu and trying to land on the beach, but abandoned this idea and instead chanced "ditching" the gasless plane.

He said that in the murky, squally night, none of the crew could see the surface of the water and knew nothing of surface wave and wind conditions.

Of the 13 men aboard the B-17 when it ran out of fuel en route from Tokyo to Washington, five bodies were recovered Sunday, another was seen to sink, and three survivors were rescued. This made a total of six known dead and four, including Atcheson, not accounted for.

No Letup In Search

The men participating in the intensive search said frankly that they held no hope of finding anyone alive in the tossing, shark-infested waters.

On the remote possibility, however, the Hawaiian Sea Frontier continued without letup the hunt which began when the pilot sent his first distress signal while still in the air Saturday night.

The missing were not identified, aside from Atcheson, who with the rank of ambassador was Gen. MacArthur's political adviser in the Japanese occupation and chairman of the four-power council for Japan.

Waitress' Story Of Rape Checked

NILES, Mich., Aug. 18. (AP)—State police today investigated the story of a 22-year-old waitress that she was kidnaped by a "very polite" negro who raped her four times during five hours of captivity.

Police Sgt. Paul Fredericks said the account was given by Miss Jean Myers who he said told of being forced at 3 a. m. from a car in which she was parked with Sherman Frizzell, 22, on a road south of the city limits.

The young woman returned to her home this morning but was taken later to the state police post for questioning, officers said.

Sgt. Fredericks said she was not bruised or otherwise mistreated except for the reported assaults. She submitted to her captor, he quoted her, because "he threatened to beat me if I tried to get away." She said he did not display a gun.

She described the negro as about 32, tall and sturdily built, and said he was "very polite" and "pretty nice" to her except during the attacks, Fredericks said.

Fredericks said the negro was declared to have tied up Frizzell and left him on the ground after robbing him of his watch and a billfold containing $16, then driving off with Miss Myers in his own car.

Navy Reports Adm. King's Condition Still Serious

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The condition of Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King remained serious tonight.

The wartime chief of naval operations and commander-in-chief of the fleet has hardening of the arteries and indications of a mild stroke without paralysis.

The Navy this morning issued this statement:

"Fleet Adm. King rested well during the night. His general condition remains unchanged, still considered serious."

Late in the day the Navy said there had been no change.

Jamboree Mishap

MOISSON, France, Aug. 18 (AP)—Eight Belgian boys were injured today in the collision of two miniature trains which marred the official closing day of the World Boy Scout Jamboree.

Hospital authorities said one boy suffered such a severe leg injury that doctors at first considered an amputation necessary. It was decided later not to remove the leg.

Terror Threat Is Not Carried Out In Vienna

Deadline Passes; Buildings Guarded

VIENNA, Tuesday, Aug. 19. (AP)—American security troops stood guard at four buildings in the American zone of Vienna early today as the result of a telephoned tip that Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground organization, would attempt to blow up the buildings at 12:05 a. m., but at 1 a. m. no sign of any attackers had been seen.

An anonymous call to an Austrian policeman said Irgun members planned to plant explosives in the United States Legation and two power stations in the American zone of the city, and to discharge them at five minutes after midnight.

Notification of military police brought a heavy guard to those buildings and to the home of United States Minister John G. Erhardt an hour before the reported deadline.

Operations were directed from military police headquarters opposite one of the threatened power plants.

Anti-British Terrorism

This was the first terrorist threat against American installation in Austria, although a British army leave train was derailed while passing through the American zone on August 12 and a British officer's hotel billet was damaged by a bomb earlier.

Col. H. B. Hurless, United States Provost Marshal for Vienna, said an unknown person telephoned an Austrian civilian policeman at approximately 9 p. m. local time, with the information of the impending attacks.

The policeman immediately informed American military police headquarters.

In addition to regular military police, the special investigation section of the Criminal Investigation Department and the counter intelligence units also were alerted.

Irgun Zvai Leumi has its headquarters in Palestine, where it has carried on a campaign against British authority for months and claimed credit for dozens of acts of anti-British terrorism, but is known to have agents and operators throughout Western Europe.

An American military spokesman said Saturday that United States authorities were confident the attacks on British forces in Austria were the work of Irgunists and that the organization was operating among displaced persons camps in the American zone.

DPs Have More Freedom

He explained that the American authorities have given displaced persons in their zone more freedom of action than the other occupying powers have permitted in theirs.

A number of Jewish displaced persons are known to have travelled to Palestine and returned to Austria recently, he said.

The spokesman indicated that the American occupation authorities in Austria were contemplating stringent measures to suppress anti-British terrorism in their zone.

The Americans arrested Gosior Henoch, a Polish Jew believed to have organized the attack on the British train, but were unable to prevent the attack itself.

Henoch still is being held by the Americans, who have declined to release him to the British on the ground that his case should be handled on a high government level.

15 Senators Sail Oct. 1 To Check U. S. Aid Results

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Chairman Bridges (R-NH), of the Senate Appropriations Committee, announced tonight that 15 members are going to Europe to size up results of America's foreign aid expenditures and "determine the need for the continued large outlay."

Nine Republicans and six Democrats will sail October 1 to tour all occupied areas, Greece, Turkey, Italy, the Balkan countries, France, England and the Netherlands.

"The purpose of the trip," Bridges said in a statement, "is to review the results of expenditures made to date and to determine the need for th continued large outlay of Unitd States taxpayers' funds for the stabilization of Europe."

Ban On Economic Aggression Asked By Cuban Envoy

Hemisphere Military Agency Urged By U. S.

QUITANDINHA, Brazil, Aug. 18 (AP)—Cuba submitted a formal demand today to the Inter-American Conference that any mutual defense treaty adopted by the 20 nations include a clause against "economic aggression."

In a plenary session speech, Dr. Guillermo Belt, Cuban Ambassador to the United States, declared that "simple notification which one state makes against another that it will apply sanctions, or means of economic, financial, or commercial coercion if the other nation does not accede to its demands, should be considered a menace."

U. S. Urges Military Agency

The Cuban move followed an earlier proposal by the United States to a conference committee for immediate conference discussion of a military agency to back a treaty for mutual defense of the hemisphere.

The adoption of such a treaty was the prime purpose for calling the conference.

The American plan called for discussions on the "creation of a military agency and supply of forces," and included a proposal for broadening the discussion of armed attacks to include "other acts and threats of aggression."

Dr. Belt viewed economic measures taken by one country against another as coming within this category.

Sugar Act Protested

The Cuban, who has been protesting vigorously against the 1948 United States Sugar Act, expressed confidence that the conference would unanimously support his demand.

Cuba objects to the provision in the Sugar Act which gives the Secretary of Agriculture power to withdraw or withhold an increase in sugar quotas if foreign countries do not give United States citizens fair and equal treatment. President Truman, in signing the measure, released a letter from United States Secretary of State Marshall asserting that the smaller countries had nothing to fear from the act.

Wyche Leaves To Inspect Lt. Gen. Lee's Command

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18. (AP) — Maj. Gen. Ira T. Wyche, War Department Inspector General, left today by plane to look into published reports of low troop morale and high living by officers in the Mediterranean theater command of Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee.

Wyche is making the inspection trip at the direction of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Chief of Staff. On his arrival here Saturday from a trip to Alaska, Eisenhower told reporters that stories published in this country that Lee was living in lavish fashion would be looked into. The stories were written by Robert Ruark, an American correspondent.

MANY BELIEVED DEAD IN TERRIFIC ARSENAL BLAST AT CADIZ, SPAIN

SEVILLA, Spain, Tuesday, Aug. 19 (AP)—An undetermined number of persons was believed killed last night when a heavy explosion occurred in an arsenal in the southeastern section of Cadiz and unconfirmed reports said Cadiz hospitals were filled with victims of the blast.

Authorities were said to believe that a number of persons were trapped in summer homes along the Bay of Cadiz near the arsenal.

The Sevilla radio issued appeals for owners of ambulances and private automobiles to go to Cadiz, 60 miles southwest of Sevilla, to assist rescue workers, and it was reported that the naval captain general of Cadiz had appealed to nearby ships to render assistance.

British Present Loan Statement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 — (AP) — The Anglo-American conference on England's dollar crisis opened today with a British explanation of why her $3,750,000,000 loan already is more than three-fourths exhausted.

A brief Treasury Department statement at the close of the initial 90-minute session made only glancing reference to the acknowledged theme of the negotiations—the possible easing of British obligations under the loan agreement—but it declared:

"The British officials sketched, in general, the economic developments of the British since the signing of the loan agreement."

This tallied with pre-conference reports that Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, chief American negotiator, wanted an accounting for Britain's spending of the borrowed dollars as well as a blueprint of future economic policies, before talking about any concessions.

Sir Wilfrid Eady, chief of the London delegation, did not disclose the nature of his remarks inside the conference room. He spoke for perhaps half an hour after Snyder called on him for a statement of the British situation. The facts he presented, an official said, were "pretty well known" to the American side of the table.

The Briton, it was said, gave no clue to the type of relief which England is seeking. The delegates on both sides, it appeared, are not planning to get down to brass tacks until technical discussions are held on such problems as England's lagging export trade, the slowness of her production rise, and such plans as may be in mind for balancing her budget.

Midwest Temperatures Are Like Prices--High

[By The Associated Press]

The Midwest's temperatures were just like prices today—high and looking as if they'd stay that way for some time.

For the third successive week, a heat wave greeted week enders returning to their jobs and "unusually high" humidities added to the discomfort through most sections gripped by the heat wave.

The heat wave was in full control of a wide area, including the Southern Great Plains, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Lower Michigan and Southern Wisconsin, with temperatures reaching between 95 and 100.

No relief was in sight before Wednesday night or Thursday.

U. S. Asks Moscow To Halt Execution Of Nikola Petkov

Intercedes In Behalf Of Bulgar Anti-Red

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18, (AP) — The United States pressed its campaign of protest against Communist tactics in the Balkans today by appealing to Russia to halt Bulgaria's execution of Nikola Petkov, outspoken Bulgarian opposition leader.

With British support, the American representative on the three-power Allied Control Commission for occupied Bulgaria charged that Petkov's conviction in Sofia Saturday of "plotting" against the Communist fatherland front government was a "miscarriage of justice" which might have "repercussions on peace and order" in a country for which the commission is supervisory authority.

Plea For Kovacs Failed

The Soviet chairman was urged to direct the Bulgarian government without delay to suspend the sentence and transfer Petkov's case to the commission for review.

But Moscow already has made plain that Russia deems any such interference with the Communist governments of Eastern Europe to be infringement of their sovereignty.

Similar United States efforts in behalf of Bela Kovacs, anti-Communist leader in Hungary, were brushed aside by the Russian commander at Budapest on that ground.

U. S. Denounced Arrest

The plea for Petkov was announced here by the State Department which in June had denounced his arrest as in "Complete disregard" of the wartime Yalta agreement.

Petkov was convicted of having "inspired" certain Bulgarian army officers to found a military union which plotted to overthrow the fatherland front government. He also was convicted on certain other counts such as encouraging disaffection in the army by his articles in the opposition press.

Four co-defendents, who testified against him, escaped with sentences ranging from five to 15 years each, while Petkov was sentenced to death.

Unapproved Equipment Blamed For Mine Blast

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18. (AP)—The Bureau of Mines today tentatively blamed unauthorized use of unapproved equipment for the August 14 explosion in the New Orient mine at West Frankfort, Ill., in which three men were killed.

Information Is Filed Against 19 Defendants

Conspiracy Began In 1935, U. S. Says

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—The federal government, charging a 12-year-old conspiracy to fix tire prices and limit production, filed a criminal information today against 19 defendants including the nation's principal tire manufacturers.

The information, filed in Federal District Court by the Justice Department's anti-trust division, said the defendants eliminated price competition by agreeing "on prices, discounts, allowances, bonuses, classification of customers, uniform warranties, guarantees and adjustment policies, allocation of sales to state, county and municipal government agencies."

Officials of several of the defendant firms quickly denied the government allegations and declared they would contest the suit vigorously.

The alleged conspiracy to fix prices began in May, 1935, the information stated. One of the defendants, the Rubber Manufacturers Association, Inc., of New York, is a tire manufacturers' trade association which, the information said, was maintained "as a means by which the prices of tires and tubes were fixed."

The association said its files on tires were subpoenaed by the Justice Department more than a year ago, but declined comment on the anti-trust suit.

Color Films Anti-Trust Suit

Meanwhile, in Los Angeles, another anti-trust suit was filed charging a conspiracy in production of color motion pictures, with the Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation and Eastman Kodak Company named as defendants.

William C. Dickson, chief of the West Coast anti-trust division, said that if the government won the civil action, it "should make possible an early and substantial increase in color motion pictures for the public."

The information in the tire suit said the yearly production of tires and tubes immediately prior to January 1, 1942, averaged 50,000,000 tires and tubes each, with a combined value of $1,000,000,000.

Since 1942, the productive capacity of the tire and tube industry and annual sales of the products have more than doubled, the government said.

The defendant companies, which include the industry's "Big Four," Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and United States produce more than 90 per cent of the tires and tubes made in the United States, the information said.

John Ford Baecher, first assistant in the Anti-Trust Division, said in Washington the suit was filed after an investigation following receipt of numerous complaints from independent tire dealers.

He added that "the recent decline in the price of tires occurred about 14 months after the issuing of subpoenas and at a time when the investigation was making progress.

Doesn't Make Sense To O'Neil

"The price change occurred also at a time when there had developed a surplus of tires in excess of demand, and was accomplished in part by reduction in list prices and dealers' discounts. The small business dealers alleged that they absorbed much of the price reductions."

William O'Neil, president of General Tire and Rubber Company, one of the defendant firms, declared in a statement the suit "just doesn't

Sen. Bilbo Gains Ground In Fight For His Life

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18, (AP) — Sen. Theo G. Bilbo (D-Miss) apparently gained ground today in his fight against a complication of diseases.

A late bulletin from Foundation Hospital, where he was placed on the list of serious ill Saturday, described the condition of the 68-year-old unseated senator as "very good."

Princess Elizabeth, "Poor Little Rich Girl," Won't Have Trousseau

LONDON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth, cast by her country's troubles in the role of a "poor little rich girl," has been denied the heart's desire of every bride-to-be—a new trousseau.

In accord with the wishes of King George and Queen Elizabeth, and "owing to present day conditions," Buckingham Palace announced tonight, the Princess will go on her honeymoon without a single new traveling outfit, pair of bedroom slippers or frothy negligee.

The only "something new" when she marries Lt. Philip Mountbatten in Westminster Abbey next November 20 will be her wedding dress, a Norman Hartnell creation which the Princess selected from several designs with the counsel of her fun-loving fiance.

It's not a question of money—Elizabeth gets $2,000 a month allowance and has the prospect of much more when she marries— but of the clothing shortage. Dresses, shoes, stockings—practically everything—are strictly rationed. With some exceptions, the ruling against the Princess appeared to disappoint Londoners.

"I can see their majesties' point—they want the Princess to get along like everybody else, but it's a little rough on her, don't you think?" asked a middle-aged married woman. "She's sort of being punished in this way simply because she is an heiress to the throne."

As usual, nobody gave so much as a passing thought as to what the bridegroom would wear.

Mexican Landslides Kill At Least 12 Persons, Wipe Out Two Villages

TAMAZUNCHALE, Mexico, Aug. 16 (AP)—At least 12 persons were killed and two villages were wiped out by a series of landslides which rumbled down from peaks of East Central Mexico Friday during hurricane rains, city officials here reported today.

Ten of the known dead were at Tamal, eight and one half miles south of here, where a roaring slide wiped out 43 houses Friday night. Nineteen miles north of Tamazunchale, in a less rugged region, a landslide hit the village of Villa Cerrada and buried nearly two miles of highway under tons of earth. Two bodies have been recovered.

Tamazunchale, known to thousands of American tourists as "Thomas and Charley," is 536 miles south of the United States border at Laredo, Tex., and 236 miles north of Mexico City.

Southward from Tamazunchale, for almost 100 miles, the Pan-American Highway winds over one of the most spectacular mountain routes of the world. For 60 miles of this route, to Jacala and Beyond, occurred a series of slides that blocked off the road to all traffic.

Rescue work is hampered by a lack of earth moving machinery—workers are using shovels to dig for bodies and to clear the highway. Only a thread of communication with the area remains.

From Laredo, Coches Salon Del Norte, a bus company, said it had been notified by the American Department of Communications at Mexico City that three buses had been trapped by a landslide and pitched into a river but that no one had been hurt.

Highway workers said it probably would be days before it would be known if any automobiles were buried.

Bank President Found Dead With Bullet In Chest

Thwarted Romance Indicated By Notes

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 18, (AP)—Claude A. Adams, 66, president of the $2,000,000 Hollywood State Bank, was found shot to death in his home today, leaving notes which detectives said indicated a thwarted romance with his 33-year-old private secretary.

Police investigators said a .38 caliber pistol was in Adams' left hand. There was one bullet wound in the left chest. He was a widower and lived alone.

Detective Lt. E. W. Smith said one note was addressed to Miss Merna Lassen, employed at the bank for 13 years as Adams' secretary, who resigned last June. Smith said the note was dated at 7 a. m. today and read:

"Merna—We could have been so happy had you continued to have me. I have your picture before me. I will look at it for the last time. I do love you so much—to think you are now in the arms of another man—is more than I can stand. Remember the wonderful times we have had, kindly. Goodbye, my darling, I love you."

Smith said another note addressed to "Merna" chided her for having a boy friend described as "arrogant" and "conceited" and "no good."

Walter G. Danielson, attorney for Adams and the bank, in a statement said Adams' death was "strictly a personal matter, and not in any way the result of conditions in the bank."

Adams, widely known in Southern California banking circles, came to California in 1902 from North Carolina. One of his beliefs was in loaning money on character and he said borrowers had never let him down.

He had been married twice. He was divorced from his first wife and his second, Mildred, was killed in 1942 in a traffic accident during a wartime blackout.

Walter H. Oakes, director of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (CIO), said picket lines at the repair yard will be removed at midnight.

CROONER PERRY COMO STOPS SHOW BUT NOT IN HOPED-FOR MANNER

CHICAGO, Aug. 18—(AP)—Perry Como, the crooner, stopped the show at the Chicago Theater yesterday, but not the way an entertainer dreams of doing it.

Como called for house lights in the middle of his second song, "Dream, Dream, Dream" after an unidentified member of the audience struck Como on the temple with a piece of hard candy.

The crooner publicly invited the marksman "and all his friends" to step up on the stage for a face-to-face encounter. The heckler did not accept and Como sang another number.

Man Charged With Firing At Bricker Found Insane

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—A Federal Court jury today returned a verdict of insanity against William L. Kaiser, 49, former Capitol policeman, who is under indictment on charges of firing two shots at Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) in the Senate subway July 12.

Justice Richmond B. Keech, presiding at the lunacy hearing, ordered Kaiser committed to a mental hospital.

Dr. Amino Perretti, psychiatrist, testified that Kaiser is suffering from a serious mental disorder and an organic brain disease. He said Kaiser may need an operation.

Kaiser was indicted on charges of assault with intent to kill and assault with a dangerous weapon. Both shots missed Bricker.

He said tires were selling 2.4 per cent below prewar levels and "on the basis of present living costs as compared with 1941 the price of tires is down almost 54 per cent."

"The rubber tire industry is one of the few in the country which despite constantly increasing costs has not advanced the price of tires," O'Neil said.

O'Neil asserted "we shall fight through the courts every charge of unfair dealing."

A similar statement was made by E. J. Thomas, Goodyer president, who said the government action "seems utterly preposterous," and added:

"We certainly are going to fight these charges to the limit."

If convicted, the defendants would face possible maximum penalties of a $5,000 fine or one year of imprisonment or both.

Gov. Warren's Daughter Disclaims Any Romance With Alabama Governor

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Aug. 18—(AP)—Virginia Warren, 18-year-old daughter of California's Governor said today Gov. James E. Folsom, of Alabama, was flying west for a vacation and she planned to see him, but disclaimed any romance.

"My goodness," she exclaimed, "I've only seen him three times."

Virginia and her mother, Mrs. Earl Warren, said Folsom had telephoned of his plans but had not advised Virginia that he was arriving this afternoon. A police car spent the morning outside the Warrens' summer home, however.

Mrs. Warren commented that Folsom, 38-year-old widower and the father of two children, had wired Virginia flowers after they met at a recent governors' conference in Salt Lake City and he squired her to several social affairs.

The Alabaman is a Democrat while Warren has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the 1948 nomination for President on the Republican ticket.

Gov. Folsom, stepping out of his National Guard plane, had no comment on the situation, as he headed quickly for a taxi and a hotel.

"Of course, I'll see Gov. Warren," he replied to a query.

"Will you marry Virginia?" he was asked.

"No comment."

"Have you proposed?"

"No comment."

"Will you propose?"

"I never comment on affairs of the heart."

He did say, however, that he planned to spend two days in Southern California.

Child Granted $160,000 For Loss Of Both Arms

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 18, (AP)—District Federal Judge Ben Moore entered a final order today granting 4-year-old Charles Daniel Armentrout $160,000 for the loss of both arms in a railroad accident.

Before doing so, the judge overruled motions by attorneys for the defendant, the Virginian Railway Company, to set the verdict aside or reduce the amount of it.

At a previous trial, the jury brought in a verdict of $100,000 but this was set aside by the United States Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals.

The verdict has been described by attorneys as the largest ever returned for an individual in a damage suit in this state.

Adams, widely known in Southern California banking circles, came to California in 1902 from North Carolina. One of his beliefs was in loaning money on character and he said borrowers had never let him down.

He had been married twice. He was divorced from his first wife and his second, Mildred, was killed in 1942 in a traffic accident during a wartime blackout.

CROONER PERRY COMO STOPS SHOW BUT NOT IN HOPED-FOR MANNER

CHICAGO, Aug. 18—(AP)—Perry Como, the crooner, stopped the show at the Chicago Theater yesterday, but not the way an entertainer dreams of doing it.

Como called for house lights in the middle of his second song, "Dream, Dream, Dream" after an unidentified member of the audience struck Como on the temple with a piece of hard candy.

The crooner publicly invited the marksman "and all his friends" to step up on the stage for a face-to-face encounter. The heckler did not accept and Como sang another number.

He said tires were selling 24 per cent below prewar levels and "on the basis of present living costs as compared with 1941 the price of tires is down almost 54 per cent."

"The rubber tire industry is one of the few in the country which despite constantly increasing costs has not advanced the price of tires," O'Neil said.

O'Neil asserted "we shall fight through the courts every charge of unfair dealing."

A similar statement was made by E. J. Thomas, Goodyer president, who said the government action "seems utterly preposterous," and added:

"We certainly are going to fight these charges to the limit."

If convicted, the defendants would face possible maximum penalties of a $5,000 fine or one year of imprisonment or both.

Gov. Warren's Daughter Disclaims Any Romance With Alabama Governor

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Aug. 18—(AP)—Virginia Warren, 18-year-old daughter of California's Governor said today Gov. James E. Folsom, of Alabama, was flying west for a vacation and she planned to see him, but disclaimed any romance.

"My goodness," she exclaimed, "I've only seen him three times."

Virginia and her mother, Mrs. Earl Warren, said Folsom had telephoned of his plans but had not advised Virginia that he was arriving this afternoon. A police car spent the morning outside the Warrens' summer home, however.

Mrs. Warren commented that Folsom, 38-year-old widower and the father of two children, had wired Virginia flowers after they met at a recent governors' conference in Salt Lake City and he squired her to several social affairs.

The Alabaman is a Democrat while Warren has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the 1948 nomination for President on the Republican ticket.

Gov. Folsom, stepping out of his National Guard plane, had no comment on the situation, as he headed quickly for a taxi and a hotel.

"Of course, I'll see Gov. Warren," he replied to a query.

"Will you marry Virginia?" he was asked.

"No comment."

"Have you proposed?"

"No comment."

"Will you propose?"

"I never comment on affairs of the heart."

He did say, however, that he planned to spend two days in Southern California.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 18, (AP)—District Federal Judge Ben Moore entered a final order today granting 4-year-old Charles Daniel Armentrout $160,000 for the loss of both arms in a railroad accident.

Before doing so, the judge overruled motions by attorneys for the defendant, the Virginian Railway Company, to set the verdict aside or reduce the amount of it.

At a previous trial, the jury brought in a verdict of $100,000 but this was set aside by the United States Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals.

The verdict has been described by attorneys as the largest ever returned for an individual in a damage suit in this state.

Blamed On Flood Water

Since the stone was laid, flood waters at least once have engulfed it and the decay of the stone's contents was attributed yesterday to moisture resulting from high water. Some of the papers were still damp. R. E. Lee Taylor, of the Baltimore architectural firm of Taylor and Fisher, was present when the cornerstone was toppled, and he is considering the possibility of using the stone, 30 by 19½ inches and 14 inches deep, in the new telephone exchange building.

Built at a cost of $15,600, the church building was sold in 1876 for $1,500 and later acquired by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Humbird who in 1888 sold the structure to Christ Reformed Episcopal Church. Acquisition of the property by St. Paul's Lutheran Church came in 1907, a quarter of a century after the members of St. Paul's congregation withdrew and organized a new church, later acquiring the church building at South Centre and Union Streets.

CHEMISTS SURVEY RIVER CONDITION

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 18 (AP)—The State Water Pollution Control Commission will meet in Baltimore tomorrow for a fresh briefing on conditions in Baltimore harbor and tidewater areas.

Dr. Robert H. Riley, state health director, at whose office the meeting will be held, will relate his finding of tidewater pollution. His department was requested to make the study by Chairman John F. Clark of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission, who cited a threat to the state's shellfish industry.

The pollution commission also will hear a report of a meeting last month among Federal, state and shipping firm representatives on bilge waste in Baltimore harbor.

Paul W. McKee, executive secretary, said the state is now planning charges against two vessels suspected of causing oil pollution in the harbor.

With the commission's two chemists, Guy E. Lerner and John G. Walters, McKee returned Saturday from a trip to Allegany County where they looked into Potomac River pollution. McKee paired that area with Baltimore harbor as the "two worst problems in the state."

The Western Maryland trip was primarily to familiarize commission agents more fully with the nature of sewage disposal in the Potomac by industries and municipalities.

City Prepares Reply To Salvage Claim

City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett prepared yesterday to meet any action which a group of Decatur Street property owners protesting a recent assessment in connection with street paving might take as a result of any Allegany County Circuit Court decision last week.

The property owners sought an allowance for brick and other material salvaged from the street. The court termed the claim novel and added some allowance might be made if it could be shown a substantial amount was realized by the city.

Heskett said that the brick salvaged had no commercial value. It is understood that no one offered to buy the bricks and that the city used some of them in building manholes.

Street Commissioner Myers G. Light yesterday took under advisement an appeal for construction of a 30-foot long and 15-foot high retaining wall on a Valley Street lot.

The appeal was made at the meeting of the Mayor and Council by Mrs. Clara Mullan, 524 Valley Street, on behalf of Mrs. Etta M. Price, who recently purchased the lot from the Mullans.

Mrs. Mullan contended that almost 20 yeras ago the city constructed a catch basin on the property and that in return for that right the city should build a wall to make the land usable.

City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett explained later that the city built the catch basin on what it thought was county property with county permission, in connection with governing the flow of water in Dry Run.

Mrs. Mullan also attacked City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer for his "requirement" that buildings on the lots in the section must be erected 20 feet back from the street, contending that the lots do not have sufficient depth. Light explained that Rizer is only carrying out provisions of the zoning law in restricting buildings.

CHEMISTS SURVEY RIVER CONDITION

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 18 (AP)—The State Water Pollution Control Commission will meet in Baltimore tomorrow for a fresh briefing on conditions in Baltimore harbor and tidewater areas.

Dr. Robert H. Riley, state health director, at whose office the meeting will be held, will relate his finding of tidewater pollution. His department was requested to make the study by Chairman John F. Clark of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission, who cited a threat to the state's shellfish industry.

The pollution commission also will hear a report of a meeting last month among Federal, state and shipping firm representatives on bilge waste in Baltimore harbor.

Paul W. McKee, executive secretary, said the state is now planning charges against two vessels suspected of causing oil pollution in the harbor.

With the commission's two chemists, Guy E. Lerner and John G. Walters, McKee returned Saturday from a trip to Allegany County where they looked into Potomac River pollution. McKee paired that area with Baltimore harbor as the "two worst problems in the state."

The Western Maryland trip was primarily to familiarize commission agents more fully with the nature of sewage disposal in the Potomac by industries and municipalities.

City Prepares Reply To Salvage Claim

City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett prepared yesterday to meet any action which a group of Decatur Street property owners protesting a recent assessment in connection with street paving might take as a result of any Allegany County Circuit Court decision last week.

The property owners sought an allowance for brick and other material salvaged from the street. The court termed the claim novel and added some allowance might be made if it could be shown a substantial amount was realized by the city.

Heskett said that the brick salvaged had no commercial value. It is understood that no one offered to buy the bricks and that the city used some of them in building manholes.

State Police Deliver Emergency Message

Maryland State Police and members of the State Forestry Department combined Saturday to deliver an important message to Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Lee, Baltimore, at their cabin in the state recreation area five miles west of Oakland.

The Lee's had left their baby in Sparrow Point while they took a week's vacation in the forest area and the baby suddenly became seriously ill. The forestry office here was contacted, and it in turn tried to contact the camp by telephone.

The telephone service, however, was out of order, and State Police drove to the Lee cabin and delivered the message.

City Asked To Build Retaining Wall

Street Commissioner Myers G. Light yesterday took under advisement an appeal for construction of a 30-foot long and 15-foot high retaining wall on a Valley Street lot.

The appeal was made at the meeting of the Mayor and Council by Mrs. Clara Mullan, 524 Valley Street, on behalf of Mrs. Etta M. Price, who recently purchased the lot from the Mullans.

Mrs. Mullan contended that almost 20 yeras ago the city constructed a catch basin on the property and that in return for that right the city should build a wall to make the land usable.

City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett explained later that the city built the catch basin on what it thought was county property with county permission, in connection with governing the flow of water in Dry Run.

Mrs. Mullan also attacked City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer for his "requirement" that buildings on the lots in the section must be erected 20 feet back from the street, contending that the lots do not have sufficient depth. Light explained that Rizer is only carrying out provisions of the zoning law in restricting buildings.

NLRB To Hold Election

The National Labor Relations Board will conduct an election today and tomorrow to determine the bargaining agent for employes of American Stores, Inc., in this area. Local 886, Retail Clerks Union, AFL, and Local 322, Meat Cutters Union are the unions seeking bargaining rights.

Motor Hearings Held

Robert E. Garrett, license reviewer of the Department of Motor Vehicles, yesterday conducted several hearings between 1 and 4 p. m. in the Court House on cases of revoked operators permits and motor violations. Results of the hearings were not revealed.

August 27 Will Be "Cumberland Day"

Requesting that business firms follow suit, the Mayor and Council yesterday designated Wednesday, August 27, as "Cumberland Day" at the Cumberland Fair, authorizing the closing of city offices at noon on that day.

The offer of $150 by Harold T. Shaffer for Lot 213, Central Avenue, was accepted.

The bid of $8,825 by the Elgin Sweeper Company for a sweeper was accepted.

Water consumption for the weekly period ending Sunday was 86,656,000 gallons. The daily average was 12,322,000 gallons as compared to 11,044,000 for the same period last year. Lake Gordon is five inches below the crest and Lake Koon three feet below.

Stump To Address Frostburg Elks

Charles M. Stump, Los Angeles, Calif., past exalted ruler of Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B.P.O. Elks, will be guest speaker at the monthly meeting of Frostburg Lodge No. 470 in the Elks Home, Main Street, Frostburg, tonight at 8 o'clock.

Stump, who is visiting his father, John J. Stump, 120 South Lee Street, this city, was also district president of the Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia Elks Association while residing in Cumberland.

After Mr. Stump's address, Capt. Laurence M. Bairstow and Lt. George J. Goecke of the local Army Recruiting station will present American Defense and Victory Medals to 18 Frostburg and George's Creek area ex-servicemen. The recruiters will also show an Army combat film, "Westward to Bataan".

Make Good Start

The annual August "No Accident" campaign of men and women of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company was reported off to a good start here by company officials yesterday with no accidents reported in the first two weeks of the month.

The company said that from Aug. 1 to 15 there was not one accident resulting in time lost from work. Company officials were enthusiastic in their praise for the safe manner in which employes have carried out their daily duties.

Two Years Of Work Lost By Another Truman Veto

President Truman's "regretful" veto of the bill passed by Congress to set up a National Science Foundation has touched off a controversy in which much can be, and has been, said on both sides. There is pretty general agreement that the national security and the public welfare in this scientific age requires Federal support of types of basic research beyond the resources of private enterprise. Congress spent two years drafting a program, with the advice of many eminent scientists. Now all that work has gone over the dam.

The President's argument against the bill is that scientists who look to the Government for support are no more immune to public control than any other beneficiary of public funds. Specially, he argued that the President, under the bill could exercise no control over the Foundation except through his power to name a part-time board of leading scientists. The board could appoint a director and the heads of the various divisions, who would henceforth be answerable only to the board.

The scientists wanted this arrangement because of their fear of political interference. The President could argue that many governmental scientific agencies, like the Bureau of Standards, the Naval Observatory and the Geological Survey are free from political control or influence.

On the other hand, the scientists could retort that the Foundation board, the directors and the heads of divisions would have to look to Congress for every dollar needed to carry on their research and training programs, and that congressional appropriations would be subject to the White House veto. Thus, democratic control of the enterprise would be assured.

The debate should not be allowed to go on indefinitely. Since the President has repeatedly asked for such a Foundation and since Congress is clearly eager to establish one, it is hoped that an acceptable program can be worked out early in the next session.

One group of scientists declares America has nothing to fear from the atomic bomb, and Prexy Hutchins says it will wipe out the country. Is it possible that Hutchins, who is always wrong, could make a mistake?

Immediate Grave Problem Is More Coal From The Ruhr

In conversations which begin at Washington today, the United States and Great Britain will try to work out a plan to increase the output of coal in Germany's Ruhr Valley. That problem is, or should be, at the top of Europe's economic list. Neither the Marshall Plan nor any other plan for European recovery can work without more coal for Europe's industries and homes. The cheapest and handiest source of coal on the Continent is the Ruhr.

Under British administration since the war's end, the output of Ruhr coal has been about one-half of prewar. The United States is now urging drastic changes in that administration. We would put the responsibility for efficient management on the Germans themselves, perhaps under an experienced, non-Nazi executive who would serve as a trustee under the Anglo-American control. Everything connected with coal mining, including equipment, transportation, miners' housing and food, would be given top priority.

We are already footing the bill for most of the occupation costs in western Germany. As things now are going in Britain we will soon have to pay even more. The U. S. Ruhr plan would probably cost little if any more than we are now paying, and largely wasting, for food and raw material imports.

There are two main obstacles to the plan. One is the fear of France that restoring the German economy would revive the menace of German militarism. Secretary Marshall believes, on the contrary, that expanding Ruhr coal output would benefit Germany's neighbors more than herself, and that the greatest threat to France and to every other country in western Europe is the political chaos that would result from economic paralysis.

A more immediate threat to the American plan is the dogmatic insistence of the British Labor government that the Ruhr industries be nationalized. One would suppose that their own recent experience in socialistic controls would make the British chary of foisting their system upon another country. But experience and logic have little to do with the British official attitude. It is a political response to left-Laborite pressure.

The United States bluntly opposes the British socialistic demand. We feel that the question of state or private control of the Ruhr is omething for the Germans to answer for themselves after Europe has got back on her feet. The immediate and grave problem is to revive the whole European economy, which happens to depend to a very large extent upon more coal from the Ruhr.

A scientist says he has discovered that noise does not disturb sleepers, which is poor information to put out for neighbor consumption.

Garrett Co. Hits Jackpot For Judges Of Livestock

It must have given farming communities in Garrett county a feling of much pride to learn that five sons of tillers of their soil had been chosen, in competition with others from throughout Maryland, for championship awards during the previous year for outstanding accomplishments in various forms of activities directly associated with farming.

Members of this favored quintet, all high school students associated with the Future Farmers of America, have, as a result of special vocational agricultural courses, as part of their high school education, made such splendid advancements along lines of being capable of detecting the fine and poor points in livestock that they are to have the opportunity to test their skills in the American Royal Livestock Show at Kansas City, Missouri, October 20.

That is their reward for being acclaimed the champion judges of best swine, dairy cattle and poultry in the Maryland championship contests conducted during the Frederick Fair in 1946.

Their achievements are noteworthy, and the knowledge acquired can not but prove valuable to them when some day, they take up the breeding of livestock as their own business undertaking. Congratulations!

HOSPITAL COSTS

HOSPITALS are rarely money making institutions and the great majority find it difficult to stay out of the red. Any one who has just paid a hospital bill may doubt this statement; nevertheless, it is a well established fact.

Most organizations of this type are on a nonprofit basis and have no owners in the sense that this word is used by private enterprise. They are usually managed thru a trusteeship and are built to afford services that are vital to the public welfare. Many receive their initial capital as a gift, and donations are required annually to make up the deficit. Every patient, therefore, has the original philanthropist to thank for absorbing part of his expenses. In any other business venture, the sale of the commodity takes into account the cost of the capital employed but in hospitals, the money paid by the guest goes for current expenses.

Hospital care is expensive and it is easy to understand why the undertaking is seldom lucrative. But few of us take into consideration what the same service would cost if duplicated by a well run hotel. Three meals are served in the room each day, with supplementary beverages in between. Trained nurses, present on each floor, can be summoned by pressing a button. In addition to attending to the needs of the ill — administering medicine, bathing, making beds, and giving backrubs—hours are spent by each shift in keeping records of each patient. Furthermore, supervisors and superintendents of nurses are on the pay roll. To give more efficient service, large laboratories are essential for X-rays and studies of the blood and tissues.

As with any other building, overhead costs are tremendous. Management includes executives, accountants, cashiers, stenographers, and admission clerks. There are also elevator boys, telephone operators, janitors, window washers, and cleaning women. The large amount of equipment calls for purchasing agents; and the serving of meals means cooks, waitresses, and dietitians.

As a rule, beds are provided for the indigent, from which no income is received. Moreover, many run an outpatient department to handle emergencies. When everything is added up, statistics show that hospitals have more workers than patients and institutions of any size generally run up to one and one-half employes for each bed. These expenses do not include physicians' fees; internes receive board and room but are seldom paid.

Hospitals are crowded today but originally they were built to maintain a year round occupancy of 80 per cent. In this way rooms are always available for emergencies and catastrophes. Illnesses are seasonal and there must be beds to meet the peak demands at any time. This greater occupancy increases revenue but may be dangerous from the standpoint of the needs of the community.

Hospitals have human beings as their only commodity. In reality, they are owned by the public and used by physicians as workshops.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

We needn't worry about the price of gas going up any longer. Science has come to the rescue. Three California chemists have perfected a substitute fuel processed from the hulls of almonds. Yes sir, we won't carry a monkey wrench in the car any longer . . . just a nutcracker.

When you drive into a service station and tell the attendant to fill her up, he will probably ask, "Do you want it with or without chocolate?"

It has its point, though. We will be able to tell who's been syphoning our gas. He will be the one picking his teeth.

They have a Grade B gas also. They just dilute the stuff with shells. But there's one thing wrong with the whole idea. Every time you get into your car it's bound to head for a plantation in Brazil.

One guy tried to use Indian nuts, but his exhaust pipe kept giving off smoke signals.

The big trailer trucks will probably use coconuts, but I don't think the idea has a chance. It would sound pretty silly if you were driving with your girl in the moonlight and told her you ran out of almonds.

But if you do use the new fuel, remember to grease it every thousand miles and feed it bicarbonate every hundred.

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—Latest mystery flustering inner Capital circles is a very hush-hush federal grand jury in New York that is apparently probing another New Deal trail.

This much has been definitely learned:

The jury is made up of a highly select group.

Two Justice Department attorneys are directing the proceedings.

More than 25 witnesses have already been interrogated.

Practically all these witnesses are Government employees or former employees, connected with the Treasury, Foreign Economic Administration, and the Office of Strategic Services.

The investigation has nothing to do with the atomic bomb.

Significant clue on the big-name individuals the grand jury is interested in is indicated by some of the questions tossed at witnesses. They have been asked—

"Do you know Henry Morgenthau?" (Former Secretary of the Treasury and close intimate of the late President Roosevelt.)

"Do you know General William J. Donovan?" (Congressional Medal of Honor winner in World War I, founder and commander of the OSS in World War II, and a trusted Roosevelt adviser on foreign problems.)

"Do you know Bernard Baruch?" (World War I production czar, close Roosevelt friend and adviser, and author of the U. S. plan for international control of the A-bomb.)

"Do you know Harry White?" (Assistant Treasury Secretary under Morgenthau, brilliant monetary expert, and master-mind of the Bretton Woods Conference that resulted in the establishment of the World Bank.)

Another mysterious question asked witnesses who were former OSS men was: "Did General Donovan ever warn you that you might be investigated some time and tell you never to divulge anything about the OSS?"

Most of the witnesses have departed from the jury room knowing little more than when they entered as to just what is being probed. However, several have reached this conclusion:

That the investigation is directed at the Morgenthau Plan, under which Germany's industry (and war potential) would be cut to the bone and the country's economy put on an agricultural basis. Roosevelt approved this plan over the opposition of the State Department and powerful business and banking interests.

Fatalist

Biggest Secret Service headache in guarding President Truman is his insistence on traveling by plane. The Secret Service is very uneasy about this; constantly is trying to figure out ways to keep Truman on the ground.

Reason they've had no luck is his fatalism.

He has an unshakable view on that. He explained it to a friend.

"When your number's up," the President said, smiling, "it makes no difference whether you are in a plane, a train, an auto, or a skiff. If it's up, it's up and that's that."

Busy Talker

Tall, friendly Attorney General Tom Clark got himself smash headlines throughout the country with his announcement of a Justice Department probe of high prices. But the moot question arises when the amiable Texan will find the time to make his probe.

In recent weeks, he has spent much of his time traveling about the country making speeches.

A Wise Man

Kim Ho, leader of the Korean Legislative Assembly, has made a profound discovery. He has uncovered what makes governments go round. He explained it to Maj. Gen. Archer Lerch, U. S. Military Governor of Korea.

"I have learned," said Kim Ho, "that it takes a lot of talk to run a government."

Army Boner

With the loyalty check of Government employees in full stride, the Army is unhappily sitting on an awkward wartime boner. It has discovered that it drafted a Soviet citizen and kept him in the service for a year.

Actually, it wasn't the Army's fault. It was a mistake due to the carelessness of a local draft board and, apparently, the ignorance of the Russian.

He was a native of Big Diomede, and at the time was visiting on little Diomede. Both are islands, about ten miles apart, off the coast of Alaska. But there is this big difference between them: Big Diomede belongs to the Soviets; Little Diomede to the U. S.

When the draft board arrived at Little Diomede it found no records available on which to act. So the board simply lined up the ten huskiest young men and told them "you're it." The Russian from Big Diomede, apparently, didn't know what it was all about and raised no objection.

He was inducted and served as a U. S. Soldier for a year.

Mr. Truman May Be Stirring Up Useless Fights With Congress

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—President Truman may be stirring up a wholly unnecessary fight with Congress over the subject that has already been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. It is whether the National Relations Board is an "executive" agency in the same sense as a bureau or department or whether it is independent of the President's control.

Mr. Truman discussed the issue in a recent talk with members of the National Labor Relations Board. If the published reports of what he said are correct, the Senate may refuse to confirm any of the members of the new board unless they state forthrightly that they do not accept presidential dictation or influence in making their rulings.

Last week when the members of the board visited the White House, there were reports that President Truman had outlined his belief that the board was an "executive" agency or that it was a part of the "executive branch of the government," and it was stated that Mr. Truman qnoted the members of the board as agreeing with him. This seems incredible.

May Be Quibbling Over Word

Now it's quite possible that Mr. Truman is quibbling about the word "executive," for, of course, there are only three branches of the government and heretofore the independent commissions and boards have always been shown on governmental organization charts as a line stemming from the chief executive. This has been primarily because the President appointed the members of such boards.

Actually these boards and commissions, however, are creatures of Congress and responsible to Congress. The board members cannot be removed except as specified in the statutes setting up such agencies.

The decivive case covering the issue now being raised is known as "Humphrey's Executor vs. U. S." It was handed down by a unanimous Supreme Court on May 27, 1935. It involved the arbitrary removal of William E. Humphrey, Republican, from the Federal Trade Commission by the then chief executive. President Roosevelt had written a letter asking Mr. Humphrey to resign, stating that "the aims and purposes of the administration with respect to the work of the commission can be carried out most effectively with personnel of my own selection." The letter specifically disclaimed any reflection on the commissioner or on his services

When Mr Humphrey refused to resign, he was removed by means of a letter which said: "You will, I know, realize that I do not feel that your mind and my mind go along together on either the policies or the administering of the Federal Trade Commission."

The Supreme Court opinion pointed out that the Federal Trade Commission was created by Congress as "a body which shall be independent of executive authority, except in its selection, and free to exercise its judgment without the leave or hindrance of any other official or any department of the government." The court also said:

"To the extent that it (the commission) exercises any executive function — as distinguished from executive power in the constitutional sense—it does so in the discharge and effectuation of its quasi-legislative or quasi-judicial powers, or as an agency of the legislative or judicial departments of the government."

NLRB Act More Carefully Written

The law creating the National Labor Relations Board is even more carefully written to eliminate executive control than is the Federal Trade Commission Act. For the Taft-Hartley Act, after fixing for definite periods the tenure of the members, says: "Any member of the board may be removed by the President upon notice and hearing, for neglect of duty or malfeasance in office, but for no other cause."

The "duty" and "malfeasance" terms are well recognized as covering behavior or conduct other than the expression of views in formal opinions.

The truth is that Congress has delegated to the National Labor Relations Board quasi-legislative as well as quasi-judicial functions. Presidential interference in those functions was simply never contemplated by the lawmakers, as the debates will show.

Congress, on the other hand, cannot interfere with the day-by-day operations or functioning of the board. It is certain that published reports that the joint congressional labor committee would run the board or direct its rulings are merely the imagination of those who want to discredwit the congressional committee. The latter, however, will have the right to make investigations of the work who want to discredit the congressional committees have in the past.

Europe's Plight And Need For Money Raise Many Questions

By MARK SULLIVAN

During the coming week in Washington, officials of our Treasury will confer with British officials about Britain's need for financial help. Later, probably about September 10, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder will go to London, where there will be further and broader discussion of Britain's economic condition, a so to speak full-dress survey of the whole situation.

The first help needed is urgent. It is to enable Britain to tide over the impending crisis, arising from the coming toward an end of the 3¾ billion dollars we loaned her about a year ago. This urgent help can be arranged in large part by our officials, through technical changes in the loan contract, so as to ease the burden on Britain and permit what she has left of the 3¾ billions to last longer.

But beyond this Britain needs additional money, to an amount such that it can only be provided by Act of Congress. Congress normally will not be in session until January. Some of our officials, thoroughly informed and deeply concerned, believe that, if collapse of Britain is to be averted, she must have some money as early as November. Information from Britain says that for one special purpose, prevention of collapse of the value of the British pound in international trade, it is imperative that Britain have financial aid at an early date.

Realize Britain's Early Need

Our officials realize Britain's early need. They believe also that some other countries in which crisis impends, including France and Italy, will need money during the Fall. Consequently these officials believe that a special session of Congress will be necessary.

As to this, and as to the whole situation, including the basic Marshall plan for the recovery of Europe, Congress will receive light of its own. The light will come from the Select Committee on Foreign Aid which expects to spend part of September and October in Europe. Congress and its leaders are thoroughly aware of the impending crisis in Europe and of the concern it is to us. It is with Congress that the ultimate answer lies, for only Congress can appropriate money.

Let us state the condition as a question. Would Congress, reflecting American opinion and responsible to it and limited by it, be willing to make large loans to Britain, and other large loans and grants to other countries? Anyone who recalls or now reviews the debate in Congress at the time of the original loan to Britain of 3¾ billion dollars in July of last year, might readily answer no.

Clarity may be helped by seeing a distinction between different meanings of the word "we." We as taxpayers would be reluctant to let the government take money from us and then loan or give the money to European countries. But we as individual citizens saving money and investing it, have a different point of view. We would be willing to turn our savings over to banks and institutions, which in turn would loan the money to European industries or governments, the money to be returned with interest to the American citizen who provided it.

Our Eagerness Demonstrated

Our willingness, even eagerness to do this, is shown by something that took place last month. Some hundreds of thousands of us, acting individually or through banks and insurance companies, bought a quarter of a billion dollars of bonds from the World Bank. The World Bank will use the proceeds to make loans to European industries, institutions and governments, with strict stipulations that the money be used for productive purposes. In due course the money is to be returned to the American investors with interest at 3 per cent. The widespread willingness of our people to engage in this sort of enterprise is shown by the fact that the World Bank bonds were sold in every state except two.

Our officials realize the reluctance of our people as taxpayers to make gifts, accompanied by their willingness as savers and investors to make loans. Our whole official program for relief to Europe, including the Marshall plan, takes account of this. In the present stage, because it is a case of emergency, it is contemplated that there be loans, and large ones, from the Treasury and the taxpayers. Later, it is contemplated that the bulk of the money for European recovery be provided through ordinary mechanisms of lending and trading, including loans by private American investors, banks and other private institutions, credit extending by American industries to European industries and institutions.

Lending by private American investors to foreign industries needing funds is the system of free enterprise and capitalism operating internationally. An impediment for it is created in the case of Britain by the Labor government's program of taking over industry on a basis of Socialism. This condition explains in large part Winston Churchill's grim warning to Britain last week that its salvation calls for abandonment of the Labor Party program and return to free enterprise and capitalism.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Times Do Change

"LAND of the Soviets" was published by the Webster Publishing Company and widely distributed during the war. With some difficulty, I obtained a copy. W. P. Johnson, president of the Webster Publishing Company, wrote me:

"'Land of the Soviets' is out of date. It was written in 1942 when our attitude toward Russia was that of a friendly ally, and it should be reviewed, if reviewed at all, with that point of view in mind."

Of course, I cannot view a book from the standpoint that it was published in 1942 or 1492. Its contents are either true or false. Apparently, Mr. Johnson's warning to me is based on the assumption that there are things in the book which, in 1947, are incorrect and untrue but which somebody wanted to have said in 1942, whether true or false.

Recently, somebody criticized me because I did not see the world through tinted glasses. That is in line with Mr. Johnson's word of caution. For instance, the book opens with this paragraph:

"Although few Americans realize it, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is one of our closest neighbors—closer to American territory than the island of Cuba or the city of Montreal. Less than five miles of water in the Bering Strait separates the Little Diomede, owned by the United States, from the Big Diomede Island, a part of the Soviet Union."

This is literally true but wholly distorted because whereas the Little Diomede Island is American territory, its geographical, political, population, economic and cultural measurements give it no consideration whatsoever. Did you ever hear of the Little Diomede Island before? But you have heard of Washington, New York, Philadelphia, Hollywood and lots of other American cities. In fact, Cuba is more American than that Little Diomede Island.

Then I came across this paragraph:

"Because these Soviets were the organ which represented the people most widely at that time, they grew rapidly in influence and respect during the troubled months of 1917 until, on November 7, they became the government."

This is a lie. I was in Russia 1917-18 and at the Constituent Assembly in Petrograd when the Bolsheviks finally made themselves the government of Russia by abolishing all other parties. At the time, the party of Lenin represented less than two percent of the representatives of the Russian people. When they walked out of the Constituent Assembly, they were so few that their empty seats were hardly noticeable.

The people of Russia had nothing to do with this seizure of power. It was done by a small minority by force. It was an act of revolution by a small, armed party.

The question that arises is, Why did anyone think it important in 1942 to tell our soldiers what was untrue then, was untrue in 1917 and is untrue today in 1947? Was it necessary to misinform our troops to get them to fight? For Instance, there is a picture of the Dneiper Dam in this book with lots of talk about how wonderful it all is, but not one word that it was built under the direction of an American engineer, Hugh Cooper. Would it not have made our boys proud of their country and their countrymen to tell them that?

The entire pamphlet, which was written by Marguerite Ann Stewart and edited by Maxwell S. Stewart and published with the cooperation of the American Council, Institute of Pacific Relations, justifies Mr. Johnson's caution to me not, in 1947, to take it as seriously as I should have in 1942. But it was distributed among American troops. It was part of the orientation material that was being used to inform them what they were fighting for.

It is this "comparative" approach to truth that has so desperately complicated the problems of our people. They have been fed the pabulum of war propaganda and while a publisher can withdraw a outdated book from the market and caution a writer that 1947 is not 1942, the stuff that went into the minds of our boys and girls continues to confuse and betray them. It may have been propaganda but it was not the truth.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAM

MATURITY

In nature there is order, deliberation, and rhythm. The plant, the shrub, the tree, all take their own time in which to grow and mature. Man is the only animal who is in a hurry. As a child he thinks nothing of it, but as boy or maid, it is different—either wants to ape the higher one up in years and maturity.

The tree, in time, matures, and if fruit-bearing gives forth its substance, and so does man mature. His body and mind, both—but never does the mind reach its final maturity. That is something left to the will of the owner of that mind. The late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who lived into his ninety-had a richness and maturity of mind that glowed like a fresh light to the very end. One of the reasons for this was that he always kept a young man as one of his assistants and companions — a lawyer, of course. Youth stimulated his mind.

That's the way it goes — Youth looks up to the mature mind, and the mature mind looks back to Youth. Each supplements the other.

The happiest years of one's life are undoubtedly those during which a period, after large experience, when there is full maturity of mind, and when the judgment is evenly seasoned. We feel a sense of peace within us—a mental and spiritual calmness. Excitement doesn't disturb us, only ideas, love, loyalty, and rare courage. We dismiss bitterness and now long back in our memory what hates we onsce harbored, having left small trace of their departure.

The very world, in which we live and have our being, is far from reaching maturity. It will never reach that until universal peace rules over all mankind, and there is a sense of trust, a strange and fierce loyalty toward all peoples, no matter what their origin or condition, so long as they are human beings. No condition is secure until love has bound it.

We are always looking forward to some sort of maturity. The gardener and farmer to their ripened vegetables, fruits, and grains. Each of us has his objective ever before him, like a vision. And when we meet it, we look upon it with satisfaction, because it suggests our own maturity of both mind and heart.

Two Years Of Work Lost By Another Truman Veto

President Truman's "regretful" veto of the bill passed by Congress to set up a National Science Foundation has touched off a controversy in which much can be, and has been, said on both sides. There is pretty general agreement that the national security and the public welfare in this scientific age requires Federal support of types of basic research beyond the resources of private enterprise. Congress spent two years drafting a program, with the advice of many eminent scientists. Now all that work has gone over the dam.

The President's argument against the bill is that scientists who look to the Government for support are no more immune to public control than any other beneficiary of public funds. Specially, he argued that the President, under the bill could exercise no control over the Foundation except through his power to name a part-time board of leading scientists. The board could appoint a director and the heads of the various divisions, who would henceforth be answerable only to the board.

The scientists wanted this arrangement because of their fear of political interference. The President could argue that many governmental scientific agencies, like the Bureau of Standards, the Naval Observatory and the Geological Survey are free from political control or influence.

On the other hand, the scientists could retort that the Foundation board, the directors and the heads of divisions would have to look to Congress for every dollar needed to carry on their research and training programs, and that congressional appropriations would be subject to the White House veto. Thus, democratic control of the enterprise would be assured.

The debate should not be allowed to go on indefinitely. Since the President has repeatedly asked for such a Foundation and since Congress is clearly eager to establish one, it is hoped that an acceptable program can be worked out early in the next session.

One group of scientists declares America has nothing to fear from the atomic bomb, and Prexy Hutchins says it will wipe out the country. Is it possible that Hutchins, who is always wrong, could make a mistake?

Immediate Grave Problem Is More Coal From The Ruhr

In conversations which begin at Washington today, the United States and Great Britain will try to work out a plan to increase the output of coal in Germany's Ruhr Valley. That problem is, or should be, at the top of Europe's economic list. Neither the Marshall Plan nor any other plan for European recovery can work without more coal for Europe's industries and homes. The cheapest and handiest source of coal on the Continent is the Ruhr.

Under British administration since the war's end, the output of Ruhr coal has been about one-half of prewar. The United States is now urging drastic changes in that administration. We would put the responsibility for efficient management on the Germans themselves, perhaps under an experienced, non-Nazi executive who would serve as a trustee under the Anglo-American control. Everything connected with coal mining, including equipment, transportation, miners' housing and food, would be given top priority.

We are already footing the bill for most of the occupation costs in western Germany. As things now are going in Britain we will soon have to pay even more. The U. S. Ruhr plan would probably cost little if any more than we are now paying, and largely wasting, for food and raw material imports.

There are two main obstacles to the plan. One is the fear of France that restoring the German economy would revive the menace of German militarism. Secretary Marshall believes, on the contrary, that expanding Ruhr coal output would benefit Germany's neighbors more than herself, and that the greatest threat to France and to every other country in western Europe is the political chaos that would result from economic paralysis.

A more immediate threat to the American plan is the dogmatic insistence of the British Labor government that the Ruhr industries be nationalized. One would suppose that their own recent experience in socialistic controls would make the British chary of foisting their system upon another country. But experience and logic have little to do with the British official attitude. It is a political response to left-Laborite pressure.

The United States bluntly opposes the British socialistic demand. We feel that the question of state or private control of the Ruhr is omething for the Germans to answer for themselves after Europe has got back on her feet. The immediate and grave problem is to revive the whole European economy, which happens to depend to a very large extent upon more coal from the Ruhr.

A scientist says he has discovered that noise does not disturb sleepers, which is poor information to put out for neighbor consumption.

Garrett Co. Hits Jackpot For Judges Of Livestock

It must have given farming communities in Garrett county a feling of much pride to learn that five sons of tillers of their soil had been chosen, in competition with others from throughout Maryland, for championship awards during the previous year for outstanding accomplishments in various forms of activities directly associated with farming.

Members of this favored quintet, all high school students associated with the Future Farmers of America, have, as a result of special vocational agricultural courses, as part of their high school education, made such splendid advancements along lines of being capable of detecting the fine and poor points in livestock that they are to have the opportunity to test their skills in the American Royal Livestock Show at Kansas City, Missouri, October 20.

That is their reward for being acclaimed the champion judges of best swine, dairy cattle and poultry in the Maryland championship contests conducted during the Frederick Fair in 1946.

Their achievements are noteworthy, and the knowledge acquired can not but prove valuable to them when some day, they take up the breeding of livestock as their own business undertaking. Congratulations!

HOSPITAL COSTS

HOSPITALS are rarely money making institutions and the great majority find it difficult to stay out of the red. Any one who has just paid a hospital bill may doubt this statement; nevertheless, it is a well established fact.

Most organizations of this type are on a nonprofit basis and have no owners in the sense that this word is used by private enterprise. They are usually managed thru a trusteeship and are built to afford services that are vital to the public welfare. Many receive their initial capital as a gift, and donations are required annually to make up the deficit. Every patient, therefore, has the original philanthropist to thank for absorbing part of his expenses. In any other business venture, the sale of the commodity takes into account the cost of the capital employed but in hospitals, the money paid by the guest goes for current expenses.

Hospital care is expensive and it is easy to understand why the undertaking is seldom lucrative. But few of us take into consideration what the same service would cost if duplicated by a well run hotel. Three meals are served in the room each day, with supplementary beverages in between. Trained nurses, present on each floor, can be summoned by pressing a button. In addition to attending to the needs of the ill — administering medicine, bathing, making beds, and giving backrubs—hours are spent by each shift in keeping records of each patient. Furthermore, supervisors and superintendents of nurses are on the pay roll. To give more efficient service, large laboratories are essential for X-rays and studies of the blood and tissues.

As with any other building, overhead costs are tremendous. Management includes executives, accountants, cashiers, stenographers, and admission clerks. There are also elevator boys, telephone operators, janitors, window washers, and cleaning women. The large amount of equipment calls for purchasing agents; and the serving of meals means cooks, waitresses, and dietitians.

As a rule, beds are provided for the indigent, from which no income is received. Moreover, many run an outpatient department to handle emergencies. When everything is added up, statistics show that hospitals have more workers than patients and institutions of any size generally run up to one and one-half employes for each bed. These expenses do not include physicians' fees; internes receive board and room but are seldom paid.

Hospitals are crowded today but originally they were built to maintain a year round occupancy of 80 per cent. In this way rooms are always available for emergencies and catastrophes. Illnesses are seasonal and there must be beds to meet the peak demands at any time. This greater occupancy increases revenue but may be dangerous from the standpoint of the needs of the community.

Hospitals have human beings as their only commodity. In reality, they are owned by the public and used by physicians as workshops.

There may be no relationship between surgery and the ability to gain or lose flesh. The chief factors are appetite and activity unless the operation was done to correct an abnormality which interfered with digestion.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

We needn't worry about the price of gas going up any longer. Science has come to the rescue. Three California chemists have perfected a substitute fuel processed from the hulls of almonds. Yes sir, we won't carry a monkey wrench in the car any longer . . . just a nutcracker.

When you drive into a service station and tell the attendant to fill her up, he will probably ask, "Do you want it with or without chocolate?"

It has its point, though. We will be able to tell who's been syphoning our gas. He will be the one picking his teeth.

They have a Grade B gas also. They just dilute the stuff with shells. But there's one thing wrong with the whole idea. Every time you get into your car it's bound to head for a plantation in Brazil.

One guy tried to use Indian nuts, but his exhaust pipe kept giving off smoke signals.

The big trailer trucks will probably use coconuts, but I don't think the idea has a chance. It would sound pretty silly if you were driving with your girl in the moonlight and told her you ran out of almonds.

But if you do use the new fuel, remember to grease it every thousand miles and feed it bicarbonate every hundred.

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—Latest mystery flustering inner Capital circles is a very hush-hush federal grand jury in New York that is apparently probing another New Deal trail.

This much has been definitely learned:

The jury is made up of a highly select group.

Two Justice Department attorneys are directing the proceedings.

More than 25 witnesses have already been interrogated.

Practically all these witnesses are Government employees or former employees, connected with the Treasury, Foreign Economic Administration, and the Office of Strategic Services.

The investigation has nothing to do with the atomic bomb.

Significant clue on the big-name individuals the grand jury is interested in is indicated by some of the questions tossed at witnesses. They have been asked—

"Do you know Henry Morgenthau?" (Former Secretary of the Treasury and close intimate of the late President Roosevelt.)

"Do you know General William J. Donovan?" (Congressional Medal of Honor winner in World War I, founder and commander of the OSS in World War II, and a trusted Roosevelt adviser on foreign problems.)

"Do you know Bernard Baruch?" (World War I production czar, close Roosevelt friend and adviser, and author of the U. S. plan for international control of the A-bomb.)

"Do you know Harry White?" (Assistant Treasury Secretary under Morgenthau, brilliant monetary expert, and master-mind of the Bretton Woods Conference that resulted in the establishment of the World Bank.)

Another mysterious question asked witnesses who were former OSS men was: "Did General Donovan ever warn you that you might be investigated some time and tell you never to divulge anything about the OSS?"

Most of the witnesses have departed from the jury room knowing little more than when they entered as to just what is being probed. However, several have reached this conclusion:

That the investigation is directed at the Morgenthau Plan, under which Germany's industry (and war potential) would be cut to the bone and the country's economy put on an agricultural basis. Roosevelt approved this plan over the opposition of the State Department and powerful business and banking interests.

Fatalist

Biggest Secret Service headache in guarding President Truman is his insistence on traveling by plane. The Secret Service is very uneasy about this; constantly is trying to figure out ways to keep Truman on the ground.

Reason they've had no luck is his fatalism.

He has an unshakable view on that. He explained it to a friend.

"When your number's up," the President said, smiling, "it makes no difference whether you are in a plane, a train, an auto, or a skiff. If it's up, it's up and that's that."

Busy Talker

Tall, friendly Attorney General Tom Clark got himself smash headlines throughout the country with his announcement of a Justice Department probe of high prices. But the moot question arises when the amiable Texan will find the time to make his probe.

In recent weeks, he has spent much of his time traveling about the country making speeches.

A Wise Man

Kim Ho, leader of the Korean Legislative Assembly, has made a profound discovery. He has uncovered what makes governments go round. He explained it to Maj. Gen. Archer Lerch, U. S. Military Governor of Korea.

"I have learned," said Kim Ho, "that it takes a lot of talk to run a government."

Army Boner

With the loyalty check of Government employees in full stride, the Army is unhappily sitting on an awkward wartime boner. It has discovered that it drafted a Soviet citizen and kept him in the service for a year.

Actually, it wasn't the Army's fault. It was a mistake due to the carelessness of a local draft board and, apparently, the ignorance of the Russian.

He was a native of Big Diomede, and at the time was visiting on little Diomede. Both are islands, about ten miles apart, off the coast of Alaska. But there is this big difference between them: Big Diomede belongs to the Soviets; Little Diomede to the U. S.

When the draft board arrived at Little Diomede it found no records available on which to act. So the board simply lined up the ten huskiest young men and told them "you're it." The Russian from Big Diomede, apparently, didn't know what it was all about and raised no objection.

He was inducted and served as a U. S. Soldier for a year.

Mr. Truman May Be Stirring Up Useless Fights With Congress

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—President Truman may be stirring up a wholly unnecessary fight with Congress over the subject that has already been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. It is whether the National Relations Board is an "executive" agency in the same sense as a bureau or department or whether it is independent of the President's control.

Mr. Truman discussed the issue in a recent talk with members of the National Labor Relations Board. If the published reports of what he said are correct, the Senate may refuse to confirm any of the members of the new board unless they state forthrightly that they do not accept presidential dictation or influence in making their rulings.

Last week when the members of the board visited the White House, there were reports that President Truman had outlined his belief that the board was an "executive" agency or that it was a part of the "executive branch of the government," and it was stated that Mr. Truman qnoted the members of the board as agreeing with him. This seems incredible.

May Be Quibbling Over Word

Now it's quite possible that Mr. Truman is quibbling about the word "executive," for, of course, there are only three branches of the government and heretofore the independent commissions and boards have always been shown on governmental organization charts as a line stemming from the chief executive. This has been primarily because the President appointed the members of such boards.

Actually these boards and commissions, however, are creatures of Congress and responsible to Congress. The board members cannot be removed except as specified in the statutes setting up such agencies.

The decivive case covering the issue now being raised is known as "Humphrey's Executor vs. U. S." It was handed down by a unanimous Supreme Court on May 27, 1935. It involved the arbitrary removal of William E. Humphrey, Republican, from the Federal Trade Commission by the then chief executive. President Roosevelt had written a letter asking Mr. Humphrey to resign, stating that "the aims and purposes of the administration with respect to the work of the commission can be carried out most effectively with personnel of my own selection." The letter specifically disclaimed any reflection on the commissioner or on his services

When Mr Humphrey refused to resign, he was removed by means of a letter which said: "You will, I know, realize that I do not feel that your mind and my mind go along together on either the policies or the administering of the Federal Trade Commission."

The Supreme Court opinion pointed out that the Federal Trade Commission was created by Congress as "a body which shall be independent of executive authority, except in its selection, and free to exercise its judgment without the leave or hindrance of any other official or any department of the government." The court also said:

"To the extent that it (the commission) exercises any executive function — as distinguished from executive power in the constitutional sense—it does so in the discharge and effectuation of its quasi-legislative or quasi-judicial powers, or as an agency of the legislative or judicial departments of the government."

NLRB Act More Carefully Written

The law creating the National Labor Relations Board is even more carefully written to eliminate executive control than is the Federal Trade Commission Act. For the Taft-Hartley Act, after fixing for definite periods the tenure of the members, says: "Any member of the board may be removed by the President upon notice and hearing, for neglect of duty or malfeasance in office, but for no other cause."

The "duty" and "malfeasance" terms are well recognized as covering behavior or conduct other than the expression of views in formal opinions.

The truth is that Congress has delegated to the National Labor Relations Board quasi-legislative as well as quasi-judicial functions. Presidential interference in those functions was simply never contemplated by the lawmakers, as the debates will show.

Congress, on the other hand, cannot interfere with the day-by-day operations or functioning of the board. It is certain that published reports that the joint congressional labor committee would run the board or direct its rulings are merely the imagination of those who want to discredwit the congressional committee. The latter, however, will have the right to make investigations of the work who want to discredit the congressional committees have in the past.

Europe's Plight And Need For Money Raise Many Questions

By MARK SULLIVAN

During the coming week in Washington, officials of our Treasury will confer with British officials about Britain's need for financial help. Later, probably about September 10, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder will go to London, where there will be further and broader discussion of Britain's economic condition, a so to speak full-dress survey of the whole situation.

The first help needed is urgent. It is to enable Britain to tide over the impending crisis, arising from the coming toward an end of the 3¾ billion dollars we loaned her about a year ago. This urgent help can be arranged in large part by our officials, through technical changes in the loan contract, so as to ease the burden on Britain and permit what she has left of the 3¾ billions to last longer.

But beyond this Britain needs additional money, to an amount such that it can only be provided by Act of Congress. Congress normally will not be in session until January. Some of our officials, thoroughly informed and deeply concerned, believe that, if collapse of Britain is to be averted, she must have some money as early as November. Information from Britain says that for one special purpose, prevention of collapse of the value of the British pound in international trade, it is imperative that Britain have financial aid at an early date.

Realize Britain's Early Need

Our officials realize Britain's early need. They believe also that some other countries in which crisis impends, including France and Italy, will need money during the Fall. Consequently these officials believe that a special session of Congress will be necessary.

As to this, and as to the whole situation, including the basic Marshall plan for the recovery of Europe, Congress will receive light of its own. The light will come from the Select Committee on Foreign Aid which expects to spend part of September and October in Europe. Congress and its leaders are thoroughly aware of the impending crisis in Europe and of the concern it is to us. It is with Congress that the ultimate answer lies, for only Congress can appropriate money.

Let us state the condition as a question. Would Congress, reflecting American opinion and responsible to it and limited by it, be willing to make large loans to Britain, and other large loans and grants to other countries? Anyone who recalls or now reviews the debate in Congress at the time of the original loan to Britain of 3¾ billion dollars in July of last year, might readily answer no.

Clarity may be helped by seeing a distinction between different meanings of the word "we." We as taxpayers would be reluctant to let the government take money from us and then loan or give the money to European countries. But we as individual citizens saving money and investing it, have a different point of view. We would be willing to turn our savings over to banks and institutions, which in turn would loan the money to European industries or governments, the money to be returned with interest to the American citizen who provided it.

Our Eagerness Demonstrated

Our willingness, even eagerness to do this, is shown by something that took place last month. Some hundreds of thousands of us, acting individually or through banks and insurance companies, bought a quarter of a billion dollars of bonds from the World Bank. The World Bank will use the proceeds to make loans to European industries, institutions and governments, with strict stipulations that the money be used for productive purposes. In due course the money is to be returned to the American investors with interest at 3 per cent. The widespread willingness of our people to engage in this sort of enterprise is shown by the fact that the World Bank bonds were sold in every state except two.

Our officials realize the reluctance of our people as taxpayers to make gifts, accompanied by their willingness as savers and investors to make loans. Our whole official program for relief to Europe, including the Marshall plan, takes account of this. In the present stage, because it is a case of emergency, it is contemplated that there be loans, and large ones, from the Treasury and the taxpayers. Later, it is contemplated that the bulk of the money for European recovery be provided through ordinary mechanisms of lending and trading, including loans by private American investors, banks and other private institutions; credit extending by American industries to European industries and institutions.

Lending by private American investors to foreign industries needing funds is the system of free enterprise and capitalism operating internationally. An impediment for it is created in the case of Britain by the Labor government's program of taking over industry on a basis of Socialism. This condition explains in large part Winston Churchill's grim warning to Britain last week that its salvation calls for abandonment of the Labor Party program and return to free enterprise and capitalism.

THESE DAYS

By George E. Sokolsky

Times Do Change

"LAND of the Soviets" was published by the Webster Publishing Company and widely distributed during the war. With some difficulty, I obtained a copy. W. P. Johnson, president of the Webster Publishing Company, wrote me:

"'Land of the Soviets' is out of date. It was written in 1942 when our attitude toward Russia was that of a friendly ally, and it should be reviewed, if reviewed at all, with that point of view in mind."

Of course, I cannot view a book from the standpoint that it was published in 1942 or 1492. Its contents are either true or false. Apparently, Mr. Johnson's warning to me is based on the assumption that there are things in the book which, in 1947, are incorrect and untrue but which somebody wanted to have said in 1942, whether true or false.

Recently, somebody criticized me because I did not see the world through tinted glasses. That is in line with Mr. Johnson's word of caution. For instance, the book opens with this paragraph:

"Although few Americans realize it, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is one of our closest neighbors—closer to American territory than the island of Cuba or the city of Montreal. Less than five miles of water in the Bering Strait separates the Little Diomede, owned by the United States, from the Big Diomede Island, a part of the Soviet Union."

This is literally true but wholly distorted because whereas the Little Diomede Island is American territory, its geographical, political, population, economic and cultural measurements give it no consideration whatsoever. Did you ever hear of the Little Diomede Island before? But you have heard of Washington, New York, Philadelphia, Hollywood and lots of other American cities. In fact, Cuba is more American than that Little Diomede Island.

Then I came across this paragraph:

"Because these Soviets were the organ which represented the people most widely at that time, they grew rapidly in influence and respect during the troubled months of 1917 until, on November 7, they became the government."

This is a lie. I was in Russia 1917-18 and at the Constituent Assembly in Petrograd when the Bolsheviks finally made themselves the government of Russia by abolishing all other parties. At the time, the party of Lenin represented less than two percent of the representatives of the Russian people. When they walked out of the Constituent Assembly, they were so few that their empty seats were hardly noticeable.

The people of Russia had nothing to do with this seizure of power. It was done by a small minority by force. It was an act of revolution by a small, armed party.

The question that arises is, Why did anyone think it important in 1942 to tell our soldiers what was untrue then, was untrue in 1917 and is untrue today in 1947? Was it necessary to misinform our troops to get them to fight? For Instance, there is a picture of the Dneiper Dam in this book with lots of talk about how wonderful it all is, but not one word that it was built under the direction of an American engineer, Hugh Cooper. Would it not have made our boys proud of their country and their countrymen to tell them that?

The entire pamphlet, which was written by Marguerite Ann Stewart and edited by Maxwell S. Stewart and published with the cooperation of the American Council, Institute of Pacific Relations, justifies Mr. Johnson's caution to me not, in 1947, to take it as seriously as I should have in 1942. But it was distributed among American troops. It was part of the orientation material that was being used to inform them what they were fighting for.

It is this "comparative" approach to truth that has so desperately complicated the problems of our people. They have been fed the pabulum of war propaganda and while a publisher can withdraw an outdated book from the market and caution a writer that 1947 is not 1942, the stuff that went into the minds of our boys and girls continues to confuse and betray them. It may have been propaganda but it was not the truth.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MATURITY

In nature there is order, deliberation, and rhythm. The plant, the shrub, the tree, all take their own time in which to grow and mature. Man is the only animal who is in a hurry. As a child he thinks nothing of it, but as boy or maid, it is different—either wants to ape the higher one up in years and maturity.

The tree, in time, matures, and if fruit-bearing gives forth its substance, and so does man mature. His body and mind, both—but never does the mind reach its final maturity. That is something left to the will of the owner of that mind. The late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who lived into his ninety-had a richness and maturity of mind that glowed like a fresh light to the very end. One of the reasons for this was that he always kept a young man as one of his assistants and companions — a lawyer, of course. Youth stimulated his mind.

That's the way it goes — Youth looks up to the mature mind, and the mature mind looks back to Youth. Each supplements the other.

The happiest years of one's life are undoubtedly those during a period, after large experience, when there is full maturity of mind, and when the judgment is evenly seasoned. We feel a sense of security within us—a mental and spiritual calmness. Excitement doesn't excite us, only ideas, love, loyalty, and rare courage. We dismiss bitterness and now long back in our memory what hates we onsce harbored, having left small trace of their departure.

The very world, in which we live and have our being, is far from reaching maturity. It will never reach that until universal peace rules over all mankind, and there is a sense of trust, a strange and fierce loyalty toward all peoples, no matter what their origin or condition, so long as they are human beings. No condition is secure until love has bound it.

We are always looking forward to some sort of maturity. The gardener and farmer to their ripened vegetables, fruits, and grains. Each of us has his objective ever before him, like a vision. And when we meet it, we look upon it with satisfaction, because it suggests our own maturity of both mind and heart.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 — Prohibition was eventually to doom the two famous Bustanoby cafes, on 39th St. and Columbus Circle, as it did most of New York's finer dining establishments. Foreign restaurateurs, and there were none other in those days, insisted that wines and liquors were necessary not only as an adjunct to the meal but were equally essential in its preparation. But long before this the chefs were complaining bitterly that dinner dancing had already ruined their business. They served fine dishes, they claimed, only to see them spoiled while cafe patrons cavorted on the dance floor to the strains of the tango, maxixe, one-step, hesitation waltz, etc. The afternoon tea dances—"tay don-songs," as pronounced—had already ruined the digestion of the public. But by now cafe dancing was more important than food and if it consigned many a great chef to oblivion it catapulted to fame and fortune a new and odd variety of public characters—band leaders, dancing teachers, professional dancing partners and gigolos. Of the latter, the most famous was to be Rudolph Valentino, who had won a dance contest at Bustanoby's while working there as a bus boy. Many other restaurants have claimed since to have "discovered" him, but since Mrs. Jacques Bustanoby, the former Doris Easton, helped him win his first dance contest, her word should be authoritative. His career was to outlast the period that launched him.

Valentino was and still is something of a mystery man. Even today, his background is largely legendary. It is, incidentally, just 21 years ago—Aug. 23, to be exact—that his untimely death shocked the nation and plunged a world of movie fans into mourning . . . Born in Castellaneta, Italy, he claimed afterward that his father was a cavalry officer but that the family decided against a military career and sent him instead to Italy's Royal Academy of Agriculture, thence to Paris to continue his agrarian studies. All he learned in Paris was to dance and spend money, so the family shipped him off to America. He landed in New York Dec. 23, 1913, speaking fluent Italian, French and Spanish but no English . . . Whether or not, he spent his money in the expensive cafes in the company of Count Alex Salm, Count Otto Salm and George Ragni, as claimed, he wound up broke and working as a gardener's assistant on the estate of Cornelius Bliss Jr. at Jericho, Long Island, and a few spots in New Jersey. But the rural life was not for him. Back in the city, he was reduced to pawning his clothes, sleeping on park benches, eating free lunches in saloons, washing automobiles, sweeping out stores and washing dishes in restaurants. He started at Bustanoby's as a porter.

The dance craze that preceded World War I was a gold mine for any personable young man who could dance and wear clothes well. Valentino could do both, but he had higher ambitions. He got nowhere applying to theatrical agencies but through a friend met Bonnie Glass, a lovely professional dancer who needed a new partner because her own was quitting. So Rudy succeeded Clifton Webb at $50 a week and felt himself lucky. After a tour, Miss Glass married and retired and Valentino for a time teamed up with Joan Sawyer. Then he joined the cast of a touring musical comedy, "The Masked Model." This opus folded in San Francisco and our hero found himself once again, quite literally, on the town. A wealthy young San Franciscan who later became a screen star, Norman Kerry, suggested that Valentino try the movies. Because his travelling show had a special car, making one-nite stands, Al Jolson was able to offer him a free ride to Los Angeles . . . Kerry joined Valentino in Los Angeles—in those days Hollywood was merely a smart residential suburb of that sprawling city — and introduced him around the studios. Except for a few $5-a-day extra jobs, however, nothing happened, so Rudy returned to his first love, dancing. At Baron Long's Watts Tavern — what Mocambo is today —he earned $35 a week and meals.

Meanwhile, if you can believe the Valentino history that producer Edward Small has assembled as a basis for the forthcoming screen biography, Rudolph tried to sign up with the Italian Army but was rejected for poor vision. Later he tried the French and British aviation forces, having somehow learned to fly at Mineola, Long Island, but was again turned down. His fourth and final effort to do his bit in World War I was an attempt to join the Royal Canadian Flying Corps, also unsuccessful . . In Los Angeles, director Emmett Flynn gave him his first acting job. His first real role was in an independent quickie playing the "heavy," an Italian Count. The film company ran into financial trouble, the picture was tied up and not released until long after, when Valentino, by now famous, was embarrassed to find himself the star of a celluloid horror titled "The Married Virgin." Rudy's first real break was when director Robert Z. Leonard, whom he had met in New York, teamed him on the screen with Mae Murray, then Mrs. Leonard in private life.

Officials of the crop-insurance program in Maryland revealed today that bills for the 1947 insurance on wheat, originally scheduled to be mailed June 30, are being sent to farmers this week.

A new method of revealing the age of prehistoric bones by chemical analysis has been perfected, anthropologists say.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Any unabsorbed polish left on the surface of furniture or woodwork will cloud the surface and pick up dust. Give it the "finger test" after polishing. Place the tip of the finger on the surface, and if you have applied the polish properly, no trace of your fingertip will remain.

Paul Livengood Weds Miss Betty Lou Taylor

Ceremony Performed In Bride's Home

Miss Betty Lou Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Taylor, Oakland, formerly of Pinto, became the bride of Paul Livengood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Livengood, Pinto, Saturday.

The ceremony was solemnized at 2 o'clock before an improvised altar in the home of the bride's parents, with Rev. Chester Helmick, pastor of the Pinto Merronite Church, of which both are members, officiating. Two seven branch candelabra, bouquets of white gladioli and asters and ferns decorated the altar. The same motif was carried out in the white gladioli and asters decorating the home.

Preceding the ceremony "I Love You Truly," and "Because" were played as well as the traditional wedding march from Lohengrin, and following the exchange of vows the "Lord's Prayer" was sung by the father of the bridegroom.

Miss Doris Livengood, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor and Norma Jean Taylor was her sister's junior bridesmaid while Betty Jane Yoder, cousin of the bridegroom, was flowergirl. Harold Ours, Harrisonburg, Va., served as Mr. Livengood's best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white satin bridal gown, fashioned with a square lace yoke embroidered in beads, long lily point sleeves and full sweeping skirt. Her fingertip length veil was held by a coronet of braided lace and beads and she carried a white Bible with white orchid and shower of white forget-me-nots.

400 Horses Arrive, Races Start Today

MUTUEL MANAGER — E. I. "Jim" Langford, native of Baltimore, is the manager of the parti mutuel department at Fairgo for the second straight year. He has been associated with racing since 1914 and in addition to his position at the local half mile oval he directs wagering in Hagerstown and two milers, Delaware Park, Stanton, Delaware, and Harve De Grace, Md. Langford refers to his crew of approximately 150 men now at Fairgo as the "most efficient" he has ever handled.

ONIGOSH, THOSE PRICES!—There's a lot of mazuma shown in lights on the above Tote board at Fairgo but don't get excited because it's not a real payoff. This photograph was taken yesterday during the period the board was being tested so that the mechanism will be in working order for the opening of the 10-day session today. How would you like to have a coupla bucks riding on the "long shots" noted on the board?

NEW SECRETARY—John Turner, Jr., of Baltimore, will make his debut as racing secretary and handicapper for the Cumberland Fair Association today. He served in a similar capacity at the 36-day meeting at the Monmouth Park track, Oceanport, N. J., which ended July 30, and was steward at Hagerstown before taking over his duties here. Eddie Brennan, who was secretary here from 1925 through 1945, is the general manager at Monmouth Park. Turner was secretary at Wheeling last year and has served in various positions at Fairgo in the past. His chief aide is Bill Trundle who is well known here.

IN FIRST FEATURE—Tap Lightly, a five-year-old gelding by Stepenfetchit and Light Ripple out of Light Brigade, is listed among the entries in the initial feature race of the 1947 season at Fairgo—The Duncan R. Sloan Memorial. Tap Lightly won two races at Charles Town, W. Va., where he ran a dead heat with Colored Boy for top money. This thoroughbred won at Pimlico and Delaware Park last year and earned $5,000 for his owner. William Pell, son of the owner, George Pell, of near Washington, D. C., is shown above with the good looking horse.

MIRROR HELPS—This long, narrow mirror erected across the track at the finish line at Fairgo is not to be used by those desiring to powder their noses. It's the latest addition to Photochart and is in use on most major tracks throughout the country. Heretofore the chart pictured the finish from the grandstand side of the track. The mirror reflects and now shows the reverse side of the finish in all races, helping to settle many arguments.

Dodgers Beat Cards Twice, Fatten Lead

Brooklyn Chalks Up 7-5 And 12-3 Wins

BROOKLYN, Aug. 18 (AP)—The league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers threw back the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals twice today, walloping the Cards 12-3 in a night game after clipping them 7-5 in the daylight. The double win stretched the Brooks' margin to 6½ games over the Cards and assured them of at least a split in the vital four-game series.

Before a sellout crowd of 33,723, the Brooks blasted Harry (The Cat) Brecheen off the mound in the third inning of the night affair with a four-hit, five run spurt that gave them a 7-1 lead. And after the Cards got two runs in the sixth on Country Slaughter's homer, the Brooks collected one tally in the sixth, three in the seventh and the 12th in the eighth to ice the tilt.

In the day game, played before 32,781 customers—a total of 66,504 for the two contests—the Brooks walloped the Cards' ace Lefty, Howie Pollet, in the fifth inning and scored five runs to virtually sew up that contest. Vic Lombardi won that game for the Dodgers with an eight-hit performance although he needed help from Hugh Casey when the Cards got the first two men on base. Casey retired the side while facing only one batter, Bernie Greger being picked off second base and Red Schoendienst hitting into a double play.

Lombardi then returned in the seventh inning of the arclight contest after starter Harry Taylor was sidelined with a strained ligament in his left elbow and held the Cards to one-hit—a single by Stan Musial in the eighth—in his three inning stint. Taylor gave up five hits in winning his 10th game of the year.

Brooklyn collected 14 hits. Boxes:

Yankees Beat Bills

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 18—(AP)—The New York Yankees, last year's eastern division champions of the All-American Conference, struck twice within the opening two minutes of play for touchdowns, then went on to pound out a 29-7 victory over their intra-league rivals, the Buffalo Bills, in an exhibition before a crowd of 11,000 at Ruppert Stadium tonight.

Baltimore Colts Planning To Use Upsy-Downsy Line

Plan Something New In Buffalo Battle

HERSHEY, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP) — Coach Cliff Battles and his Brooklyn Dodgers in the All-America Football Conference can have their no-stoop, no-squat line—that Baltimore Colts are going to use a new one called the "upsy-downsy" line.

Coach Cecil Isbell, at present whipping the newest member of the conference into shape here says he's going to show something new in football when the Colts meet the Buffalo Bills in an exhibition game at Hershey Stadium Friday night.

The upsy-downsy line really is simple, Isbell explains. The linemen don't move their feet, as in a shift, but raise and lower their bodies at odd moments between the time they line up for play and the snapping of the ball.

It is calculated to disturb the peace of mind of opposing linemen, and might draw them offside if they're not careful.

The quarterback will control the thing, giving instructions in the huddle. One or several linemen may do the upsy-downsy business. The linemen might be up, and start down, or be down and raise up—or just assume the orthodox stance and stay that way until the ball is snapped.

There'll be no rhythm that an opponent could figure out and follow.

Isbell says the only trouble is that the Colts sometimes have fooled even themselves with the up and down manipulations. He expects them to have it mastered, however, before long.

Freak shifts that befuddle opposing linemen have been ruled out, but the rules say nothing about this upsy-dowsy business, declares Isbell.

Brooklyn linemen are bending only enough to put their hands on their knees, and Battles believes his "high line" permits his players to charge faster and get downfield quicker.

Two Colts Injured In Stiff Scrimmage

HERSHEY, Pa., Aug. 18. (AP) — Coach Cecil Isbell sent his Baltimore Colts through a stiff scrimmage that sidelined two with injuries today in preparing for the squad's first outside competitive tussle here Friday night against Buffalo.

Quarterback Owen Goodnight suffered a dislocated hip that will keep him out of action for at least one month. Guard Bill Hempel wrenched a knee which will decommission him for a week to ten days.

Coach Isbell left after the practice for Newark, N. J., where he scouted Buffalo tonight in an exhibition game with the New York Yankees, thus giving him a chance to see two of the Colts' opponents in the All-America Professional Conference.

Detroit Lions Are Through Playing Dead

Dorais Comes Up With New Attack For 1947

By FRANK KENESSON

DETROIT, Aug. 18—(AP)—National Football League clubs expecting to mop up again this season with a Detroit Lion eleven that won only once in 11 games a year ago can heed the storm warnings of mild-mannered Coach Charles E. (Gus) Dorais, who says enough of the NFL basement is too much.

"The Lions are through playing dead for the rest of the league," Dorais declared today. "Anybody who thinks we'll be the soft touch we proved to be last season can roll up his sleeves and get set for a few surprises."

Dorais, has come up with a brand new attack for 1947.

The Lions are jumping headlong into a "T" formation this fall that Dorais believes will make the rest of the league take notice. Gus calls it the "Detroit T" or for brevity's sake, the (D-T).

Principal variation is an unbalanced line up front, which Dorais and his strategy corps are convinced will lend more power to the running attack.

Detroit, with recently acquired Bill Dudley who twice led the league in ground gaining while a member of the Pittsburgh Steelers, does figure to have a running threat this fall.

Roy Zimmerman, transplanted former engineer of the Philadelphia Eagles' "T" attack, will divide the Lions' quarterbacking with rookie Clyde Leforce of Tulsa, a triple-threat recruit.

Dudley will split the running assignment with Leforce, holdover Halfback Dave Ryan and the Lions' three crashing "W" men at fullback. Bob Westfall, Camp Wilson and newcomer Bob Wiese of Michigan.

Duncan Sloan Memorial Tops Opening Day Card

Purses Are $82,300; Post Time Is 2:30

Four hundred thoroughbreds were quartered in the barns at Fairgo yesterday at 5 p. m., on the eve of the opening of the Cumberland Fair Association's annual ten-day race meeting, according to John Turner, Jr., of Baltimore, who is making his bow here as racing secretary.

The familiar cry of "They're Off" will resound throughout the local racing plant as Starter Bill Schamehorn starts the first field of eight horses on their way at 2:30 p. m.

30 Shut Out Of Opener

The entry list was so large for the opening race that it was necessary to shut out 30 horses after the field of eight and six also eligibles was programmed.

Featuring the initial day's card will be The Duncan R. Sloan Memorial, fifth event, over 6½ furlongs. This race is for three-year-olds and up and a topnotch field will go postward seeking the first $1,200 purse of the meeting.

A total of $82,300 is being offered the horsemen for the 40 races to be run here. This represents an all-time high for the local track.

Eighty-two owners and trainers have racers stabled on the grounds. Among the larger stables are those handled by C. P. Chenoweth (15), Johnny Morris (14), Mike Johnson (14), Palmer Sowers, Everett F. Brining, J. K. Fockler, William Irvine and Dan Chamblin, 10 each, Col. B. M. Creel 7, John R. Bringhurst 8, George Pearce 8 and J. R. Tucker 6.

Receiving Barn In Use

Among the innovations noted at Fairgo are the "receiving barns"—a new arrangement made compulsory by the Marylad Racing Commission in its drive to curb the doping of race horses. The 42-stall barn, formerly used for stabling the horses, is enclosed by a heavy wire and is in charge of operatives of the Pinkerton Detective Agency. Horses are taken to the large barn two hours before they are scheduled to run for the so-called pre-race test.

The "receiving barn" idea has met with the approval of a majority of horsemen.

Snodgrass Supplants Bennett

Arthur Snodgrass, of Wheeling, W. Va., is the new custodian of the jockeys' room. He holds a similar position at Marlboro, Bowie and Timonium. Snodgrass replaces Jesse Bennett, the veteran custodian, who died last winter while en rounte to the Sunshine Park track in Tampa, Fla.

Clifton W. White, president and general manager, is enthused over the prospects of another banner meeting.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Bobby Thomson and Johnny Mize combined to even up the Mayor O'Dwyer Trophy series as the New York Giants defeated the New York Yankees 4-1 before 22,184 fans tonight. A third game will not be played on account of scchedule difficulties.

Mize hit a home run to start the scoring, while Thomson homered with Buddy Kerr on to give the Giants a 3-0 lead.

Thomson scored the final Giant run on his triple and Mize's fly.

Sheldon Jones, late of Jersey City, went the route for the winners keeping six Yankee hits well scattered. Johnny Lindell homered to rob him of a shutout.

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 18. (AP) — Eight of the 36 state champions broke 100 targets in a row at 16 yards today in the feature event of the 48th grand American trapshoot's opening day, requiring a shoot off for the "champion of champions" title.

Registering perfect scores were Mercer Tennille of Shreveport, La.; Vic Reinders of Waukesha, Wis.; Julius Petty of England, Ark.; H. L. Cheek of Clinton, Ind.; Grant Ilsenl of Waco, Tex.; Roy G. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 18 Frank Brilando of Chicago, pedalling 48 miles over rain-slippery Black Horse Pike, finished four lengths ahead of Al Stiller of Chicago today to win the annual Camden to Atlantic City bicycle race in two hours, one minute and 33 1-5 seconds.

Fifteen of the 62 cyclists cracked up on the way as they bucked rain and wind on the wet highway. None was seriously hurt.

Browns' Camp To Open Here This Morning

Players 17-23 Years Invited To Tryouts

Ballplayers between the ages of 17 and 23 will have an opportunity to demonstrate their potential professional baseball ability and also receive playing instructions under the supervision of major league scouts during the St. Louis Browns' tryout camp being held this week at Community Park.

The camp is scheduled to open this morning at 10 o'clock with Scouts John Maher and Joe Mauk in charge.

Mauk stresses the fact that a boy does not necessarily need be an outstanding player to be selected for professional ball.

"It's what we think a boy is capable of doing say three or four years from now that influences us in selecting young talent," Mauk stated. "A young player who can throw hard, run fast, and hit a long ball has the mechanical ability to become a good player regardless of how he is doing at present."

All that is required is that prospective players report and register this morning, or as soon thereafter as it is possible for them to report. They need bring only their spikes, gloves and uniforms (if available). Balls, bats, etc., will be furnished by the Browns. In the event a boy is signed to a contract in the Browns' organization, the expenses incurred in attending the camp will be refunded.

The public is invited to witness the tryout sessions at the local park.

400 Horses Arrive, Races Start Today

MUTUEL MANAGER — E. I. "Jim" Langford, native of Baltimore, is the manager of the parti mutuel department at Fairgo for the second straight year. He has been associated with racing since 1914 and in addition to his position at the local half mile oval he directs wagering in Hagerstown and two milers, Delaware Park, Stanton, Delaware, and Harve De Grace, Md. Langford refers to his crew of approximately 150 men now at Fairgo as the "most efficient" he has ever handled.

ONIGOSH, THOSE PRICES!—There's a lot of mazuma shown in lights on the above Tote board at Fairgo but don't get excited because it's not a real payoff. This photograph was taken yesterday during the period the board was being tested so that the mechanism will be in working order for the opening of the 10-day session today. How would you like to have a coupla bucks riding on the "long shots" noted on the board?

NEW SECRETARY—John Turner, Jr., of Baltimore, will make his debut as racing secretary and handicapper for the Cumberland Fair Association today. He served in a similar capacity at the 36-day meeting at the Monmouth Park track, Oceanport, N. J., which ended July 30, and was steward at Hagerstown before taking over his duties here. Eddie Brennan, who was secretary here from 1925 through 1945, is the general manager at Monmouth Park. Turner was secretary at Wheeling last year and has served in various positions at Fairgo in the past. His chief aide is Bill Trundle who is well known here.

IN FIRST FEATURE—Tap Lightly, a five-year-old gelding by Stepenfetchit and Light Ripple out of Light Brigade, is listed among the entries in the initial feature race of the 1947 season at Fairgo—The Duncan R. Sloan Memorial. Tap Lightly won two races at Charles Town, W. Va., where he ran a dead heat with Colored Boy for top money. This thoroughbred won at Pimlico and Delaware Park last year and earned $5,000 for his owner. William Pell, son of the owner, George Pell, of near Washington, D. C., is shown above with the good looking horse.

MIRROR HELPS—This long, narrow mirror erected across the track at the finish line at Fairgo is not to be used by those desiring to powder their noses. It's the latest addition to Photochart and is in use on most major tracks throughout the country. Heretofore the chart pictured the finish from the grandstand side of the track. The mirror reflects and now shows the reverse side of the finish in all races, helping to settle many arguments.

Dodgers Beat Cards Twice, Fatten Lead

Brooklyn Chalks Up 7-5 And 12-3 Wins

BROOKLYN, Aug. 18 (AP)—The league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers threw back the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals twice today, walloping the Cards 12-3 in a night game after clipping them 7-5 in the daylight. The double win stretched the Brooks' margin to 6½ games over the Cards and assured them of at least a split in the vital four-game series.

Before a sellout crowd of 33,723, the Brooks blasted Harry (The Cat) Brecheen off the mound in the third inning of the night affair with a four-hit, five run spurt that gave them a 7-1 lead. And after the Cards got two runs in the sixth on Country Slaughter's homer, the Brooks collected one tally in the sixth, three in the seventh and the 12th in the eighth to ice the tilt.

In the day game, played before 32,781 customers—a total of 66,504 for the two contests—the Brooks walloped the Cards' ace Lefty, Howie Pollet, in the fifth inning and scored five runs to virtually sew up that contest. Vic Lombardi won that game for the Dodgers with an eight-hit performance although he needed help from Hugh Casey when the Cards got the first two men on base. Casey retired the side while facing only one batter, Bernie Greger being picked off second base and Red Schoendienst hitting into a double play.

Lombardi then returned in the seventh inning of the arclight contest after starter Harry Taylor was sidelined with a strained ligament in his left elbow and held the Cards to one-hit—a single by Stan Musial in the eighth—in his three inning stint. Taylor gave up five hits in winning his 10th game of the year.

Brooklyn collected 14 hits. Boxes:

Yankees Beat Bills

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 18—(AP)—The New York Yankees, last year's eastern division champions of the All-American Conference, struck twice within the opening two minutes of play for touchdowns, then went on to pound out a 29-7 victory over their intra-league rivals, the Buffalo Bills, in an exhibition before a crowd of 11,000 at Ruppert Stadium tonight.

Baltimore Colts Planning To Use Upsy-Downsy Line

Plan Something New In Buffalo Battle

HERSHEY, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP)—Coach Cliff Battles and his Brooklyn Dodgers in the All-America Football Conference can have their no-stoop, no-squat line—that Baltimore Colts are going to use a new one called the "upsy-downsy" line.

Coach Cecil Isbell, at present whipping the newest member of the conference into shape here says he's going to show something new in football when the Colts meet the Buffalo Bills in an exhibition game at Hershey Stadium Friday night.

The upsy-downsy line really is simple, Isbell explains. The linemen don't move their feet, as in a shift, but raise and lower their bodies at odd moments between the time they line up for play and the snapping of the ball.

It is calculated to disturb the peace of mind of opposing linemen, and might draw them offside if they're not careful.

The quarterback will control the thing, giving instructions in the huddle. One or several linemen may do the upsy-downsy business. The linemen might be up, and start down, or be down and raise up—or just assume the orthodox stance and stay that way until the ball is snapped.

There'll be no rhythm that an opponent could figure out and follow.

Isbell says the only trouble is that the Colts sometimes have fooled even themselves with the up and down manipulations. He expects them to have it mastered, however, before long.

Freak shifts that befuddle opposing linemen have been ruled out, but the rules say nothing about this upsy-dowsy business, declares Isbell.

Brooklyn linemen are bending only enough to put their hands on their knees, and Battles believes his "high line" permits his players to charge faster and get downfield quicker.

Two Colts Injured In Stiff Scrimmage

HERSHEY, Pa., Aug. 18. (AP)—Coach Cecil Isbell sent his Baltimore Colts through a stiff scrimmage that sidelined two with injuries today in preparing for the squad's first outside competitive tussle here Friday night against Buffalo.

Quarterback Owen Goodnight suffered a dislocated hip that will keep him out of action for at least one month. Guard Bill Hempel wrenched a knee which will decommission him for a week to ten days.

Coach Isbell left after the practice for Newark, N. J., where he scouted Buffalo tonight in an exhibition game with the New York Yankees, thus giving him a chance to see two of the Colts' opponents in the All-America Professional Conference.

Detroit Lions Are Through Playing Dead

By FRANK KENESSON

DETROIT, Aug. 18—(AP)—National Football League clubs expecting to mop up again this season with a Detroit Lion eleven that won only once in 11 games a year ago can heed the storm warnings of mild-mannered Coach Charles E. (Gus) Dorais, who says enough of the NFL basement is too much.

"The Lions are through playing dead for the rest of the league," Dorais declared today. "Anybody who thinks we'll be the soft touch we proved to be last season can roll up his sleeves and get set for a few surprises."

Dorais, has come up with a brand new attack for 1947.

The Lions are jumping headlong into a "T" formation this fall that Dorais believes will make the rest of the league take notice. Gus calls it the "Detroit T" or for brevity's sake, the (D-T).

Principal variation is an unbalanced line up front, which Dorais and his strategy corps are convinced will lend more power to the running attack.

Detroit, with recently acquired Bill Dudley who twice led the league in ground gaining while a member of the Pittsburgh Steelers, does figure to have a running threat this fall.

Roy Zimmerman, transplanted former engineer of the Philadelphia Eagles' "T" attack, will divide the Lions' quarterbacking with rookie Clyde Leforce of Tulsa, a triple-threat recruit.

Dudley will split the running assignment with Leforce, holdover Halfback Dave Ryan and the Lions' three crashing "W" men at fullback, Bob Westfall, Camp Wilson and newcomer Bob Wiese of Michigan.

Duncan Sloan Memorial Tops Opening Day Card

Purses Are $82,300; Post Time Is 2:30

Four hundred thoroughbreds were quartered in the barns at Fairgo yesterday at 5 p. m., on the eve of the opening of the Cumberland Fair Association's annual ten-day race meeting, according to John Turner, Jr., of Baltimore, who is making his bow here as racing secretary.

The familiar cry of "They're Off" will resound throughout the local racing plant as Starter Bill Schamehorn starts the first field of eight horses on their way at 2:30 p. m.

30 Shut Out Of Opener

The entry list was so large for the opening race that it was necessary to shut out 30 horses after the field of eight and six also eligibles was programmed.

Featuring the initial day's card will be The Duncan R. Sloan Memorial, fifth event, over 6½ furlongs. This race is for three-year-olds and up and a topnotch field will go postward seeking the first $1,200 purse of the meeting.

A total of $82,300 is being offered the horsemen for the 40 races to be run here. This represents an all-time high for the local track.

Eighty-two owners and trainers have racers stabled on the grounds. Among the larger stables are those handled by C. P. Chenoweth (15), Johnny Morris (14), Mike Johnson (14), Palmer Sowers, Everett F. Brining, J. K. Fockler, William Irvine and Dan Chamblin, 10 each, Col. B. M. Creel 7, John R. Bringhurst 8, George Pearce 8 and J. R. Tucker 6.

Receiving Barn In Use

Among the innovations noted at Fairgo are the "receiving barns"—a new arrangement made compulsory by the Marylad Racing Commission in its drive to curb the doping of race horses. The 42-stall barn, formerly used for stabling the horses, is enclosed by a heavy wire and is in charge of operatives of the Pinkerton Detective Agency. Horses are taken to the large barn two hours before they are scheduled to run for the so-called pre-race test.

The "receiving barn" idea has met with the approval of a majority of horsemen.

Snodgrass Supplants Bennett

Arthur Snodgrass, of Wheeling, W. Va., is the new custodian of the jockeys' room. He holds a similar position at Marlboro, Bowie and Timonium. Snodgrass replaces Jesse Bennett, the veteran custodian, who died last winter while en rounte to the Sunshine Park track in Tampa, Fla.

Clifton W. White, president and general manager, is enthused over the prospects of another banner meeting.

Players 17-23 Years Invited To Tryouts

Ballplayers between the ages of 17 and 23 will have an opportunity to demonstrate their potential professional baseball ability and also receive playing instructions under the supervision of major league scouts during the St. Louis Browns' tryout camp being held this week at Community Park.

The camp is scheduled to open this morning at 10 o'clock with Scouts John Maher and Joe Mauk in charge.

Mauk stresses the fact that a boy does not necessarily need be an outstanding player to be selected for professional ball.

"It's what we think a boy is capable of doing say three or four years from now that influences us in selecting young talent," Mauk stated. "A young player who can throw hard, run fast, and hit a long ball has the mechanical ability to become a good player regardless of how he is doing at present."

All that is required is that prospective players report and register this morning, or as soon thereafter as it is possible for them to report. They need bring only their spikes, gloves and uniforms (if available). Balls, bats, etc., will be furnished by the Browns. In the event a boy is signed to a contract in the Browns' organization, the expenses incurred in attending the camp will be refunded.

The public is invited to witness the tryout sessions at the local park.

Missing Keyser Youths Are Found On Camping Trip At Deep Creek

Were Living In Makeshift Lean-to

By MRS. JOSEPH H. TAYLOR

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 18 — The two Keyser boys who had been reported missing since last night were returned to their homes tonight after they had been found camping in a lean-to which they had constructed on the shores of Deep Creek Lake.

The 14-year-olds, Bruce Wiley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce O. Wiley, 95 Maryland Street, and Douglas Davey, son of Mrs. Stanley Fink, hitchhiked from their homes to the lake Sunday night, arriving during the heavy rain last night.

They slept in a car belonging to friends the Wiley youth had met two weeks earlier on a trip there. This morning they constructed a make shift lean-to from boughs of trees and leaves on the shore of the lake a short distance from Stone Tavern.

Mr. Wiley stated that the boys had decided to make the outing without notifying their parents for fear they would not be allowed to go. He also said the youths had "raided" the family cupboards for their food.

The boys were found after Mr. Wiley had suspected that they would go to Deep Creek and phoned the management of Stone Tavern who recognized the youngsters today.

22-Year-Old Missing

City Police are also asked to look for Larry Rachella, Route 3, age 22, 5 feet, 8 inches tall, and weighing 135 pounds. When last seen he was marching in the Firemen's parade Thursday evening, wearing an Army suntan uniform.

Held On Delinquency Charge

Mrs. Hulda Evans, Keyser, was given a hearing today before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of her three minor children by going away and leaving them alone for long periods of time. She was ordered held for action of the October Grand Jury under a bond of $500.

Police Seek Driver In Woman's Death

West Virginia State Police last night were continuing their search for a vehicle, possibly a truck, that allegedly struck Mrs. Viola Luck, 46, Galloway, W. Va., on the highway, near the Mouth of Seneca August 10 and resulted in her death.

Pendleton County Prosecutor Don Cunningham said recent evidence, examined by authorities, establishes definitely the fact that the woman, who was believed enroute to Petersburg from Elkins, was the victim of a hit-run driver.

The woman's body was found by a Pennsylvania motorist about midnight on August 9-10 in the middle of the traffic lane on the right side of the highway. At first report, it was said the woman had been killed elsewhere and her body dumped on the highway.

With the information now on hand, Cunningham said, a "break can be expected at any time."

Mrs. Luck, according to authorities, made her home in Galloway, Barbour county, W. Va., and also in Katy Lick, W. Va. She had more recently claimed Clarksburg as her home. Early in the summer she joined a carnival and had been touring the tri-state area.

When the body was found, police said, a pocketbook nearby contained $6 and part of a pint of liquor.

By MRS. JOSEPH H. TAYLOR

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 18 — The two Keyser boys who had been reported missing since last night were returned to their homes tonight after they had been found camping in a lean-to which they had constructed on the shores of Deep Creek Lake.

The 14-year-olds, Bruce Wiley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce O. Wiley, 95 Maryland Street, and Douglas Davey, son of Mrs. Stanley Fink, hitchhiked from their homes to the lake Sunday night, arriving during the heavy rain last night.

They slept in a car belonging to friends the Wiley youth had met two weeks earlier on a trip there. This morning they constructed a make shift lean-to from boughs of trees and leaves on the shore of the lake a short distance from Stone Tavern.

Mr. Wiley stated that the boys had decided to make the outing without notifying their parents for fear they would not be allowed to go. He also said the youths had "raided" the family cupboards for their food.

The boys were found after Mr. Wiley had suspected that they would go to Deep Creek and phoned the management of Stone Tavern who recognized the youngsters today.

22-Year-Old Missing

City Police are also asked to look for Larry Rachella, Route 3, age 22, 5 feet, 8 inches tall, and weighing 135 pounds. When last seen he was marching in the Firemen's parade Thursday evening, wearing an Army suntan uniform.

Held On Delinquency Charge

Mrs. Hulda Evans, Keyser, was given a hearing today before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of her three minor children by going away and leaving them alone for long periods of time. She was ordered held for action of the October Grand Jury under a bond of $500.

L. Worthington, who resigned to take the position of chief engineer of roads for the reconstruction section of the American and Mission to Greece. Cavendish has been with the Road Commission since 1933, and has most recently been chief maintenance engineer. (Associated Press photo).

Police Seek Driver In Woman's Death

West Virginia State Police last night were continuing their search for a vehicle, possibly a truck, that allegedly struck Mrs. Viola Luck, 46, Galloway, W. Va., on the highway, near the Mouth of Seneca August 10 and resulted in her death.

Pendleton County Prosecutor Don Cunningham said recent evidence, examined by authorities, establishes definitely the fact that the woman, who was believed enroute to Petersburg from Elkins, was the victim of a hit-run driver.

The woman's body was found by a Pennsylvania motorist about midnight on August 9-10 in the middle of the traffic lane on the right side of the highway. At first report, it was said the woman had been killed elsewhere and her body dumped on the highway.

With the information now on hand, Cunningham said, a "break can be expected at any time."

Mrs. Luck, according to authorities, made her home in Galloway, Barbour county, W. Va., and also in Katy Lick, W. Va. She had more recently claimed Clarksburg as her home. Early in the summer she joined a carnival and had been touring the tri-state area.

When the body was found, police said, a pocketbook nearby contained $6 and part of a pint of liquor.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18—Freddie March, last year's Academy Award winner, has made his movie choice. He and Florence Eldridge arrive in Hollywood in October to co-star in "Another Part Of the Forest". That's the Lillian Hellman play, an unusual sequel to "The Little Foxes" in that it flashes back to those backbiting characters when they were young.

In fact, Ann Blyth plays the daughter of Freddie and Florence, the role Tallulah Bankhead played on the stage. If this sounds complicated don't blame me. It isn't my fault that Miss Hellman writes her sequels backwards.

The Marches play those aristocratic southern highbinders, Marcus and Lavinia, younger than they were in "The Little Foxes" but just as unscrupulous. Of course, it's for Bill Goetz and Universal-International, who bought the rights to "Another Part of the Forest" months ago.

Chatter in Hollywood: Well, maybe Cornel Wilde is waking up. Maybe he knows the way to win a lady is to stop being too attentive to her. Instead of mooning over Patricia Knight, he's now stepping out with other gals.

He went to Ciro's with beautiful Corrinne Calvay, and believe me, she's lovely. If Patricia doesn't look out and be a little more thoughtful of Cornel, she'll lose him altogether. You know the old adage of water wearing away stone, and a worm turning—well, this may be it, Patricia.

Just before Niven Busch and Teresa Wright took off for the Ronald Coleman ranch at Montecito, Niven told someone that his contract gives him the radio rights to "Duel In The Sun".

He said that nobody knew, when he sold the right to his book, "Duel In The Sun", that it was going to be such a big picture. This will be a little embarrassing to David Selznick, who supposed, of course, that he owned the radio rights since he's made several important commitments.

On the other hand, "Duel" cannot possibly do Niven any good without the stars, and they all belong to David, so maybe they can get together.

Here's another Hollywood racket, and I thought I'd heard of them all. There's a secret organization known as the studio underground, which promises, for $5, to furnish the telephone number of a star, with the additional promise that the star will answer the telephone personally. Of all the nonsense!

The reason I know about this is that one of the teen-agers telephoned me and when I refused to five her the telephone number of a certain star, she replied, "Oh, never mind, I'll get it through the studio underground.

"What's that?" I asked, and then she explained. I hope no other young fan will be foolish enough to waste money on such a ridiculous scheme.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:—Eddie Cantor's daughter, Edna, will marry Cy Howard. Nan Wynn, who is Cy's ex, has broken her engagement to Milton Pickman, and Milton is consoling himself with lovely Adele Jergens.

Bill Perlberg is coming home from Europe, but "Escape" will nevertheless, be made there. When he left here, Bill didn't plan to remain in Europe.

Orrin Lehman, the wealthy New York boy, who was reported engaged to Lady Iris Mountbatten before she had check trouble, is in town.

At Zachary Scott's birthday party for his wife, he had the orchestra play "Silver Threads Among The Gold". Mrs. Scott didn't care much for the tune. Among those at the Scott party were the John Hodiaks, Ann Southern and Bob Sterling.

Was that Magda Gabor with John Loder at Chanteclair? It looked like her and she's been the one he's been taking places.

The Ian Hunters are back in Hollywood after five years in England, and very glad they are to get back.

Johnny Weissmuller, who is making a picture in Mexico City, is still waiting for that divorce and getting very impatient. But with three children, Mrs. W. up to now, hasn't gone into court.

Helen Walker selected a wonderful basket of liquor as a gift to her make-up man on "Nightmare Alley". Was her face red when she found out he owns a liquor store.

Frances and Sam Goldwyn have issued invitations to a dinner dance, September 6, in honor of their son.

The Cabana Club will probably be sold, and it would make a wonderful hotel site since it covers a lot of valuable Santa Monica beach property.

Dan Dailey was very funny when he had dinner with his agent who brought one of his clients—one of the very pretty members of the younger generation. Said Dan, when he stopped at our table. "Now all I need is for someone to say I was having dinner with Miss so-and-so, and have my wife read it." The Daileys expect their baby this month.

That's all today.

An estimated 105,000,000 days were lost through off-the-job accidents last year.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Even Small Children Can Help Around The House

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been married for 12 years and have five children. I have always been a good companion to my husband and children up to the point where I have neglected my housework. Now my husband complains about things not being done right. I get very little help from the children, since the two oldest are boys, and I seldom get out as it is so much trouble getting them all ready.

Should I quit giving my husband and children so much attention and give more to my home? Please advise me what to do, as it has to be one or the other.

Dear "S. M. T.":

I certainly don't see how a woman who has to take care of five children, all of whom must be pretty young, could have a great deal of time left over for meticulous housekeeping. At the same time, perhaps, even though your two oldest are boys, you should be able to get a certain amount of help around the house from them. There is no reason why boys should not lend their mother a hand with chores just as much as girls.

Making beds, washing dishes, dusting, picking things up off the floor, and making a room tidy, are none of them very hard things to do, and I think you should begin teaching these younger children how to do such things.

I don't see why your husband shouldn't give you a hand now and then with a few chores, either—the dishes, for instance. It might make him understand how long it takes to do them. And why can't he help dress the very small children, especially if that would give you a chance to get away from housekeeping once in a while? I should think he might even stay home some evenings, or Saturday or Sunday afternoon, and give you a day off.

If you would like a pamphlet containing suggestions on teaching children to help around the house, please send me your name and address.

There's a secret organization known as the studio underground, which promises, for $5, to furnish the telephone number of a star, with the additional promise that the star will answer the telephone personally. Of all the nonsense!

The reason I know about this is that one of the teen-agers telephoned me and when I refused to five her the telephone number of a certain star, she replied, "Oh, never mind, I'll get it through the studio underground.

"What's that?" I asked, and then she explained. I hope no other young fan will be foolish enough to waste money on such a ridiculous scheme.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Even Small Children Can Help Around The House

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been married for 12 years and have five children. I have always been a good companion to my husband and children up to the point where I have neglected my housework. Now my husband complains about things not being done right. I get very little help from the children, since the two oldest are boys, and I seldom get out as it is so much trouble getting them all ready.

Should I quit giving my husband and children so much attention and give more to my home? Please advise me what to do, as it has to be one or the other.

Dear "S. M. T.":

I certainly don't see how a woman who has to take care of five children, all of whom must be pretty young, could have a great deal of time left over for meticulous housekeeping. At the same time, perhaps, even though your two oldest are boys, you should be able to get a certain amount of help around the house from them. There is no reason why boys should not lend their mother a hand with chores just as much as girls.

Making beds, washing dishes, dusting, picking things up off the floor, and making a room tidy, are none of them very hard things to do, and I think you should begin teaching these younger children how to do such things.

I don't see why your husband shouldn't give you a hand now and then with a few chores, either—the dishes, for instance. It might make him understand how long it takes to do them. And why can't he help dress the very small children, especially if that would give you a chance to get away from housekeeping once in a while? I should think he might even stay home some evenings, or Saturday or Sunday afternoon, and give you a day off.

If you would like a pamphlet containing suggestions on teaching children to help around the house, please send me your name and address.

British Royalty To See U. S. Film

LONDON—(AP)—Britain's movie makers will choose an American film to be shown for the royal family at this year's royal command film performance.

The final choice for the Nov. 25 showing in a large London theater will be announced before the end of September, according to the committee of film executives planning the event.

Crowds mobbed the king and queen in their cars before last year's inaugural royal film program which featured a British picture.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

A Dissenting Opinion

It is my regrettable duty today to turn in a dissenting opinion on Robert Q. Lewis, a comedian, whom the Columbia Broadcasting System, for inscrutable reasons it has not yet divulged, has given a total of two hours and 55 minutes of network time a week. Lewis, who may be heard Mondays through Fridays at 7 p. m. EDT and again on Saturdays at 8 p. m. EDT, is a former disk jockey who pokes fun at radio programs, sponsors, movies, song lyrics, feminine fashions and a lot of other things that could stand a little kidding. His heart is pure all right but his aim frequently isn't so hot.

Robt. Q. Lewis

Let's sort out these programs a little. The five-a-week show is an informal affair consisting of about 50 per cent songs and music and 50 per cent ad libs by Lewis. The songs are contributed by Cathy Norman, a young lady who sounds vaguely under-nourished, but who also, I'm happy to report, has a habit of reviving some of those old popular numbers that have dropped out of sight. Besides Miss Norman, there is also a quartet of instrumentalists—organ, vibraphone, guitar and clarinet — which performs nicely enough.

In between these offerings, Mr. Lewis ad libs vaguely about life in general. Some of it is good but, I'm afraid much of it isn't. Right here I'd like to say that an attempt to be funny is extremely painful when it doesn't come off. Lewis' sallies frequently don't. Also Mr. Lewis has an irritating habit of leaving sentences unfinished. That, my friend, is an art that takes great practice and even more polish than a finished sentence.

Also, he giggles more than is quite necessary and once in awhile chatters away in what sounds like baby talk. Informality is what Mr. Lewis is aiming at, I guess, and he's succeeded beyond his wildest expectations. The show is so loose-limbed it's in danger of coming apart at the joints.

Lewis "Little Show," the Saturday night one, is a more formal affair, though not necessarily a more successful one. To pick out just one example at random, Lewis opened one program with a long, elaborate mock commercial. He piled into it virtually everything you'll ever hear in an ordinary commercial and the result just wasn't funny. I don't mean it wasn't terribly funny; it wasn't at all funny. Lewis also has a habit of tearing apart current movies with malice but only intermittent wit.

I hate to be so disagreeable about Mr. Lewis because the topics he selects for satire are excellent and there should be someone around like him. But nothing is funny just in itself. A certain spark of imagination or wit or just plain nonsense is required to set it off. The Lewis material just doesnt ignite. Also, all these shows have an unfinished air; the material is there but it hasnt been properly exploited. There are a mass of good ideas in each show and it seems a shame to waste them.

In all fairness, I ought to inform you that my opinion is not shared by Mr. Lewis studio audience which goes into fits of uncontrollable laughter at everything he says. In fact that studio audience may ruin him if he's not careful. A studio audience, those pushovers, will laugh at almost anything, and anyone who has spent much time in front of one may be pardoned for falling under the misapprehension that he's quite a funny fellow. This sort of impression needs to be corrected by outside sources.

Thats why we have radio columns.

Plane Replaces Autos On Lincoln Highway

PAOLI, Pa., Aug. 18—(AP)—Traffic on busy Lincoln Highway was stopped for 20 minutes yesterday to allow a light airplane to taxi down the highway and through town to a satisfactory takeoff spot.

The plant, piloted by Jesse Bortell, 26, Huntington, W. Va., was forced down during the morning by fog, landing in a recently cleared 30-acre tract prepared for a housing project.

Bortell said he landed normally but found that overhead telephone wires made a takeoff hazardous.

Telephone facilities installed in the U. S. War Dept. Pentagon Building in Washington would serve a city of 125,000 people.

Early watches were too large to carry in the pocket and were usually hung from the girdle.

British Royalty To See U. S. Film

LONDON—(AP)—Britain's movie makers will choose an American film to be shown for the royal family at this year's royal command film performance.

The final choice for the Nov. 25 showing in a large London theater will be announced before the end of September, according to the committee of film executives planning the event.

Crowds mobbed the king and queen in their cars before last year's inaugural royal film program which featured a British picture.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

A Dissenting Opinion

It is my regrettable duty today to turn in a dissenting opinion on Robert Q. Lewis, a comedian, whom the Columbia Broadcasting System, for inscrutable reasons it has not yet divulged, has given a total of two hours and 55 minutes of network time a week. Lewis, who may be heard Mondays through Fridays at 7 p. m. EDT and again on Saturdays at 8 p. m. EDT, is a former disk jockey who pokes fun at radio programs, sponsors, movies, song lyrics, feminine fashions and a lot of other things that could stand a little kidding. His heart is pure all right but his aim frequently isn't so hot.

Robt. Q. Lewis

Let's sort out these programs a little. The five-a-week show is an informal affair consisting of about 50 per cent songs and music and 50 per cent ad libs by Lewis. The songs are contributed by Cathy Norman, a young lady who sounds vaguely under-nourished, but who also, I'm happy to report, has a habit of reviving some of those old popular numbers that have dropped out of sight. Besides Miss Norman, there is also a quartet of instrumentalists—organ, vibraphone, guitar and clarinet — which performs nicely enough.

In between these offerings, Mr. Lewis ad libs vaguely about life in general. Some of it is good but, I'm afraid much of it isn't. Right here I'd like to say that an attempt to be funny is extremely painful when it doesn't come off. Lewis' sallies frequently don't. Also Mr. Lewis has an irritating habit of leaving sentences unfinished. That, my friend, is an art that takes great practice and even more polish than a finished sentence.

Also, he giggles more than is quite necessary and once in awhile chatters away in what sounds like baby talk. Informality is what Mr. Lewis is aiming at, I guess, and he's succeeded beyond his wildest expectations. The show is so loose-limbed it's in danger of coming apart at the joints.

Lewis "Little Show," the Saturday night one, is a more formal affair, though not necessarily a more successful one. To pick out just one example at random, Lewis opened one program with a long, elaborate mock commercial. He piled into it virtually everything you'll ever hear in an ordinary commercial and the result just wasn't funny. I don't mean it wasn't terribly funny; it wasn't at all funny. Lewis also has a habit of tearing apart current movies with malice but only intermittent wit.

I hate to be so disagreeable about Mr. Lewis because the topics he selects for satire are excellent and there should be someone around like him. But nothing is funny just in itself. A certain spark of imagination or wit or just plain nonsense is required to set it off. The Lewis material just doesnt ignite. Also, all these shows have an unfinished air; the material is there but it hasnt been properly exploited. There are a mass of good ideas in each show and it seems a shame to waste them.

In all fairness, I ought to inform you that my opinion is not shared by Mr. Lewis studio audience which goes into fits of uncontrollable laughter at everything he says. In fact that studio audience may ruin him if he's not careful. A studio audience, those pushovers, will laugh at almost anything, and anyone who has spent much time in front of one may be pardoned for falling under the misapprehension that he's quite a funny fellow. This sort of impression needs to be corrected by outside sources.

Thats why we have radio columns.

Plane Replaces Autos On Lincoln Highway

PAOLI, Pa., Aug. 18—(AP)—Traffic on busy Lincoln Highway was stopped for 20 minutes yesterday to allow a light airplane to taxi down the highway and through town to a satisfactory takeoff spot.

The plant, piloted by Jesse Bortell, 26, Huntington, W. Va., was forced down during the morning by fog, landing in a recently cleared 30-acre tract prepared for a housing project.

Bortell said he landed normally but found that overhead telephone wires made a takeoff hazardous.

Telephone facilities installed in the U. S. War Dept. Pentagon Building in Washington would serve a city of 125,000 people.

Early watches were too large to carry in the pocket and were usually hung from the girdle.

Textile Workers Sign No Strike Contracts

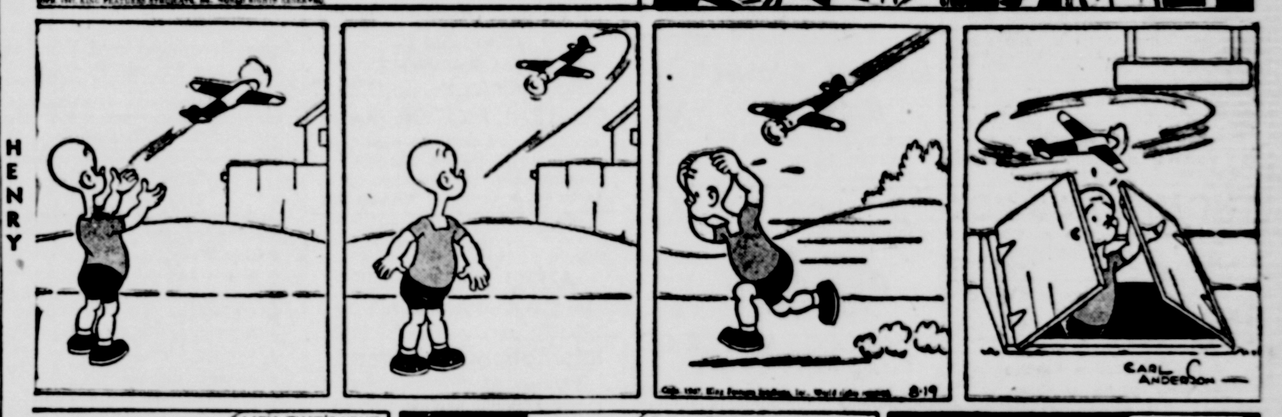

NEW YORK, Aug. 18. (AP)—The Textile Workers Union of America (CIO) has announced it had signed more than 100 contracts which include modified "no-strike" clauses exempting the union from suits under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Emil Rieve, union president, said the contracts involved 122,000 workers.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of Mrs. John Wesley Porter, who passed away fifteen years ago today, August 19, 1932. She was the wife of J. Wesley Porter, Rt. 5, Cumberland, and the mother of J. Marshall Porter, Mrs. Bertie Lewis, and Mrs. Lillian P. Yoder.

Fifteen years have passed away
Since our dear mother was called one day.
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.
This day in August brings sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And those who think of her today,
Are the ones who love her best.
All is dark within our dwelling,
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever passed away.
To her lonely grave we go
And the flowers try to sow,
Then we see the shining shore
Where we shall part no more.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all,
And though years be many or few
They are filled with sweet memories of you.

HUSBAND and CHILDREN.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and relatives who sent flowers and donated the use of their cars during our recent bereavement, the death of son and brother, Johnny Foreman.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of Mrs. John Wesley Porter, who passed away fifteen years ago today, August 19, 1932. She was the wife of J. Wesley Porter, Rt. 5, Cumberland, and the mother of J. Marshall Porter, Mrs. Bertie Lewis, and Mrs. Lillian P. Yoder.

Fifteen years have passed away
Since our dear mother was called one day.
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.
This day in August brings sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And those who think of her today,
Are the ones who love her best.
All is dark within our dwelling,
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever passed away.
To her lonely grave we go
And the flowers try to sow,
Then we see the shining shore
Where we shall part no more.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all,
And though years be many or few
They are filled with sweet memories of you.

HUSBAND and CHILDREN.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and relatives who sent flowers and donated the use of their cars during our recent bereavement, the death of son and brother, Johnny Foreman.

HIS MOTHER, FATHER & SISTERS.

1. Veterans of World Wars I and II, who were discharged under conditions other than dishonorable, shall be granted a preference, in the order of applications received, to purchase said lots over other offerors.

2. No person shall be permitted to purchase more than one lot.

3. All such Veterans mentioned who, prior to the publication of this advertisement, applied in writing to said County Commissioners to purchase one or more of said lots, shall be accorded a preference to purchase one of the same in the order of time their previous applications were filed with the County Commissioners, provided the Veteran makes an offer on a particular lot in accordance with the first paragraph of this advertisement at its stipulated price.

4. If two or more Veterans with equal preference rights to purchase one of said lots, offer to purchase the same lot, the sale will be made to that one of the two or more of said Veterans who is given the right to purchase said lot in writing by the other Veteran or Veterans making the same offer to the County Commissioners, and the said offering Veterans may choose their own method of selecting the one who is to get the lot.

5. If the above happens, the Veteran or Veterans failing to get the lot of first choice will hold his or their priority and be given an opportunity to purchase a second choice lot or a third choice lot and so on.

6. Any lots remaining unsold after two months from the first publication of this advertisement shall be offered to the general public and sold at public sale to the highest bidders.

CHARLES N. WILKINSON,

IMPORTANT NOTE. All Veterans mentioned above who, prior to the publication of this advertisement, applied in writing to said County Commissioners to purchase one or more of said lots, must now offer in writing to purchase one particular lot at its designated price as set forth in the first paragraph of the aforegoing advertisement or they will lose their priority rights previously established by their former applications.

Leading Stocks, For Fifth Monday In Row, Retreat; Pressure Lacking

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP) — For the fifth Monday in a row leading stocks today generally sought lower levels although exceptions were plentiful and real market pressure never was in evidence.

Charges of price-fixing against the steel industry by the Federal Trade Commission chilled enthusiasm a bit but issues in this group maintained their equilibrium to a certain extent. Bethlehem was off one point at 88½, United States Steel five-eighths at 72⅞ and Republic Steel one-half at 27¼.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .2 of a point at 65.9. The market narrowed to 890 issues of which 375 fell and 319 rose.

Gains were shown for Goodrich, Southern Railway, Chesapeake and Ohio, and International Harvester.

On the retreating side were American Can, Westinghouse, General Electric, and Standard Oil (NJ).

Improved in the Curb were Elliott Company and Sunbeam Corporation. Turnover here was 170,000 shares.

The bond market centered its attention upon the Treasury Department's announcement of the refunding in the next few weeks of more than $6,500,000,000 of the national debt.

Corporate issues moved narrowly on the exchange with gains and losses about evenly divided, while long-term government bonds eligible for commercial bank purchase rose 1-32 to 5-32 in over-the-counter trading.

Turnover in the market was limited to $2,290,000 against $3,230,000 last Friday.

Local Bank Is Charged With Pass Book Violation

A suit charging the Cumberland Savings Bank with violating the provisions of one of its form contracts and asking for $1,000 was filed yesterday in Circuit Court by Hazel L. Owens, 509 East First Street.

The figure asked for in the suit for judgment covers an alleged balance due of $707.58 in a savings account and courts costs,etc., involved in the action.

Mrs. Owens' suit, filed by Attorney John M. Robb, states that on or about March 22, 1947, the account contained, according to the bank book in her possession, $707.58. In April, she applied at the bank for the balance due, and was refused with the bank stating that Charles R. Owens had withdrawn the money despite the fact that the bank book was never out of her possession, according to the plaintiff.

The action is based upon a section of the printed contract contained in the book which states:

"5. That no deposits for entry in this book, or upon the terms herein set forth, and no money deposited in said bank, and entered in this book shall be withdrawn unless this book is produced at the bank at the same time and the proper entry is made therein by some authorized employe of said bank."

The account was opened in January, 1946, with a deposit of more than $600 and subsequent deposits and withdrawals left the balance mentioned above on March 22, 1947. It was opened in the names of Charles R. Owens, Sr., or Hazel L. Owens or Charles Roy Owens, Jr.

According to the papers filed, Mrs. Owens had maintained constant possession of the bank book and assumed that the defendant bank was carrying out its obligation according to the contract.

Leading Stocks, For Fifth Monday In Row, Retreat; Pressure Lacking

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP) — For the fifth Monday in a row leading stocks today generally sought lower levels although exceptions were plentiful and real market pressure never was in evidence.

Charges of price-fixing against the steel industry by the Federal Trade Commission chilled enthusiasm a bit but issues in this group maintained their equilibrium to a certain extent. Bethlehem was off one point at 88½, United States Steel five-eighths at 72⅞ and Republic Steel one-half at 27¼.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .2 of a point at 65.9. The market narrowed to 890 issues of which 375 fell and 319 rose.

Gains were shown for Goodrich, Southern Railway, Chesapeake and Ohio, and International Harvester.

On the retreating side were American Can, Westinghouse, General Electric, and Standard Oil (NJ).

Improved in the Curb were Elliott Company and Sunbeam Corporation. Turnover here was 170,000 shares.

The bond market centered its attention upon the Treasury Department's announcement of the refunding in the next few weeks of more than $6,500,000,000 of the national debt.

Corporate issues moved narrowly on the exchange with gains and losses about evenly divided, while long-term government bonds eligible for commercial bank purchase rose 1-32 to 5-32 in over-the-counter trading.

Turnover in the market was limited to $2,290,000 against $3,230,000 last Friday.

"Framework" Of City's Master Plan Outlined

No Time Limit Set For Executing Plans

Representatives of industry, utilities, civic organizations and some private citizens turned out last night to hear Gustav Requardt and A. Russell Vollmer, of Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Baltimore engineering firm, outline their report on a "framework" of a master plan for Cumberland's future development.

Called by the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission to whom the engineers submitted the report, the public meeting, held in the City Hall council chamber, was attended by half a hundred persons, including Mayor Thomas S. Post and the four members of the City Council.

Already outlined in considerable detail in The Cumberland News, the report was discussed and explained for nearly an hour and a half by Vollmer who said presenting the report must be "merely highlighting because it is so big." His explanation of the report was enhanced by the use of maps and diagrams prepared in conjunction with it.

No Time Limit

In a question and answer period that concluded the two-hour meeting, a man who identified himself only as "private citizen," asked what it would cost the City of Cumberland to carry out the recommendations if they are adopted and over what period of time it is planned to do the work.

Vollmer said a time limit on the plans was not set and explained that all, including flood control, cannot be controlled by the city as to when they will proceed.

Flood control, he estimated, will cost about $10,000,000, with Cumberland's share between $800,000 and $900,000. This project, he said, may now be considered a commitment because of approval given by the city to the Army engineer's deepened channel plan, which calls for deepening of the channel, construction of sloping walls, levees, straightening of the river, and reconstruction of bridges.

Construction of an auxiliary 36-inch water transmission main to Cumberland from the impounding dams and two more settling basins is estimated to cost in the neighborhood of another million dollars, but Vollmer said this will not be a part of the general obligation since much of the money already is on hand. These two projects can be completed in perhaps two years if work is started in the near future, he added, pointing out that plans already are prepared.

Cost of the crosstown viaduct he estimated at $1,900,000, excluding property, and this was placed at about half a million, possibly the entire cost of this to be borne by the city.

Cost To Be Shared

However, the cost of the viaduct structure is expected to be borne by the Public Roads Administration, the State Roads Commission, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, the Western Maryland Railway and the city. The cost to be borne by the city cannot be determined, Vollmer said, until it is determined how much the other groups will contribute.

Sewage treatment on the basis of the primary plan recommended is expected to cost about $1,000,000 with improvements in the Bedford Road area placed at another $50,000.

The selection as to how many of the projects and how much of the work can be done is up to the Mayor and Council, the Planning Commission and the public, Vollmer said.

Requardt added that the questioner appeared to be "overwhelmed by the immensity of the plan," but he pointed out that when a person lives in a city he must constantly think of rebuilding it or it may fall apart at the seams.

Discussing the reasons for having a plan in advance, Requardt said it may be decided soon that no city can pollute a stream, such as Cumberland is now doing by its sewage disposal method.

Pollution Move Possible

The government, commissions studying pollution and the State Board of Health are "all going to have something to say on pollution," and they may direct Cumberland to do something about it, Requardt said.

Joseph M. Miller, superintendent of the Elkins Division of the Western Maryland Railway, asked Vollmer his opinion as to the order of priority, and Vollmer replied again that the city already is committed to the flood control plan by its approval of the project and added that initial approval also has been given of the crosstown viaduct. The additional water transmission main and settling tanks also have been approved, he said, citing these projects as the most important.

Then, perhaps, he added, will come highway improvement and sewage treatment.

To a question by City Commissioner William V. Keegan who inquired if there is not a tendency in large cities to do away with overhead bridges, Requardt admitted that New York took out its elevated railroad, but said a beautiful new overhead road was constructed.

Requardt said many roads are now being constructed so that one crosses another at intersections in order to keep from interrupting the flow of traffic. He pointed out also that Baltimore has a viaduct serving a purpose similar to that to be served by the one proposed for this city, and added that he believes of overhead bridges to come, the "surface has not been scratched."

In his talk preceding the question and answer period, Vollmer discussed flood control, the crosstown viaduct, water supply, sewerage and traffic and parking in some detail, but dealt more briefly with public buildings, recreational facilities, housing, control of areas beyond the city limits, zoning, building code, power and utility conduits and municipal finances.

James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission, presided.

Hampshire County Man Is Struck By Hit-Run Driver

Nelson Kerns Found Helpless In Ditch

A 40-year-old Hampshire County farmer, who West Virginia State police believe was the victim of a hit and run driver, was found yesterday morning lying in a ditch on Bloomery Hollow Road, near the Virginia line in Hampshire County, where he had lain helpless since he regained consciousness yesterday at daybreak.

Trooper F. H. Tribett, Romney, who investigated, identified the victim as Nelson Kerns, and said he lives in Hampshire County but gets his mail on a Rural Route from Whitacre, Va.

He said the injured man was found lying in a ditch off Bloomery Road, about three miles north of Route 50, toward Berkeley Springs, W. Va., by Richard Hawkins and Golden Kerns, both of the Bloomery Hollow section, as the men drove by in a car yesterday about 8 a. m.

Kerns, the trooper said, was conscious when he was discovered but was unable to move due to injuries to his back and hip. The men took him to his home nearby and later yesterday the injured man was taken to a Romney physician for medical treatment.

The man told Trooper Tribett that the car had run over him Sunday about 9 p. m. as he was walking toward his home.

Kerns added the car struck him in the back and threw him forward. He added he did not know anything until it became dawn and then was unable to move due to his injuries, the trooper said. He was struck about 10 feet from the point where he turned off the road to go to his home, about one-fourth of a mile away.

Kerns is reported in a fair condition at his home suffering from undetermined back injuries after he was treated for bruises on the face suffered when he was thrown forward by the impact, and for bruises and lacerations on the back and hip.

Trooper Tribett said the physician has advised that X-rays be taken to determine the extent of injuries.

City Is Not Affected By Exemption Ruling

Two tax exemptions recently granted to Cumberland firms by the Mayor and Council are not affected by the decision of the Allegany County Circuit Court judges in declaring unconstitutional the law under which the County Commissioners granted tax exemptions to three manufacturing firms, according to City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett.

Heskett said the law under which the city exemptions were granted was not tested and that the only way for the two local exemptions to be thrown out would be for the court to declare them void.

During the 1947 session of the General Assembly, an act was passed amending Section 65 of the city charter to authorize the Mayor and Council to grant yearly exemptions to manufacturing concerns already located in the city, and requiring applications for renewal of such exemptions at the end of each one-year period.

Previously, the Mayor and Council were authorized under Section 65 to grant exemptions for periods up to 10 years to any manufacturing company desiring to locate in the city.

The city has granted one-year exemptions on tools and machinery to the Cumberland Undergarment Company and to the National Jet Company.

Area Grocery Workers Will Receive Increase

C. E. Stutzman, business agent for Local 453, Teamsters Union, AFL, reported yesterday that new contracts will be signed this week for employes of three Cumberland area wholesale grocery firms.

He said about 50 drivers, warehousemen and helpers of the Kenneweg, C. D. Kenny and Piedmont Grocery Companies will receive a 10 cent hourly increase, effective October 1, in the agreement which will run until July 1, 1948. Workers will receive $44 for a 40 hour week under the new rate, he added.

The contract with the firms expired May 1 but was extended to July 1 and negotiations began about a month ago, the union said.

Remonstrance Hearing Is Set For Today

A remonstrance hearing will be conducted this morning at 9 o'clock by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board when it considers the application of Charles G. Poisal, Allegany Grove, for a Class "D" on sale beer licenses.

The protest petition was filed by between 30 and 40 residents of Allegany Grove, where Poisal indicated he wanted the license to sell beer at the Grove Recreation Centre.

Applications numbering 16 for both beer and liquor will also be considered this morning by the control board.

Rates Increased

According to the Maryland Fire Underwriters Rating Bureau, a statewide increase in fire insurance rates from 10 to 30 per cent on nearly all types of risks with the exception of dwellings became effective last Thursday and is applicable to new policies and renewals.

The rates on apartments, garages, brick school buildings, lumber yards and stocks in mercantile buildings have been increased 10 per cent; flour and feed mills 30 per cent; hotels and rooming houses and mercantile buildings 20 per cent.

Injured Employe's Condition Reported Good By Hospital

Millard Torbet, 41-year-old construction mechanic, was reported in a "good condition" last night in Memorial Hospital where he was admitted yesterday for treatment of fractures of the right arm and right leg.

Torbet, who lives at 212 South Street and is employed by the George F. Hazelwood construction company, told attaches he was injured when a truck rim blew off.

He was reported injured while repairing a universal crane on a Pennsylvania highway construction job between Ellerslie and Hyndman.

Wilbur Galliher, 5, Little Orleans, was treated in Memorial yesterday for lacerations on the head, after he fell on a bridge.

Jerry Rennie, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rennie, 527 North Centre Street, was treated in Memorial yesterday for a fractured right arm suffered while at play.

Betty Eaton, 9-year-old daughter of Mrs. Rosalie Eaton, 232 West Oldtown Road, was treated in Memorial for a fractured left arm after she fell from a bicycle.

John Pratt, Jr., 28, Mt. Savage, was treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday for a right hand injury. The Cessna Lumber Company worker told attaches he ran a piece of wire into his hand at work.

W. W. Often, 46, 609 Piedmont Avenue, was treated in Allegany yesterday for a left knee injury after he bumped against a truck. X-rays were taken.

Mrs. Cora Dietle, 50, wife of William Dietle, Route 6, Potomac Park, was treated in Allegany yesterday for a laceration of the upper lip and brush burns of the knee suffered in a fall. Also treated were:

Raymond Winner, 22, 408 Decatur Street, in Allegany, after he bumped his hip against a door, and Jerry Barncord, 4, this city, for a laceration of the foot last night.

Several victims of minor accidents were treated at Memorial Hospital. George F. Diggs, 52, 950 Maryland Avenue, an employe of the B. and O. back shops, was treated for lacerations of the face, suffered when a block struck him while he was working. X-rays will be taken today.

Ronald Rice, 11-year-old son of Theodore Rice, Route 2, city, suffered an injury to his right foot when he stepped on a nail. Also treated was Richard Smith, 6, son of Lee Smith, Artemas, Pa., who suffered throat injuries when he jabbed a comb into his mouth. A 5-year-old Ridgeley boy, Ernest Snyder, son of John H. Snyder, was treated for head injuries suffered, attaches said, when he was struck by a pick while playing.

Blue Ridge Driver, Local Man Arrested

A Blue Ridge Bus driver and a local man each posted $10 bond last night for hearings on disorderly conduct that resulted, police said, from an argument over parking space on Frederick Street in front of the Blue Ridge Bus terminal.

Police identified the men as Francis Schultz, Franklin Street, and John Redman, Massachusetts Avenue, the bus driver. Schultz, according to police, attempted to park his car along side of the Eagle building but was blocked by the bus driven by Redman.

Both men left their vehicles and began calling each other names on the street, according to police. They will be given hearings this morning in Police Court.

Divorce Suit Filed

Suit for an absolute divorce was filed yesterday in Circuit Court by George Henry Pough against Louise D. Pough. The bill of complaint, filed by William L. Wilson, attorney, stated that the couple was married November 13, 1942, in this city.

Lerner Employes Agree On Contract

Employes of the Lerner Shops, 134 Baltimore Street, accepted a company contract offer at a meeting held yesterday at 5 p. m. in Teamsters Hall, John L. Saum, Jr., Baltimore, union field representative, reported last night.

He said the contract, which calls for a $2 weekly increase for commissioned and $3 for non commissioned workers, plus a 40 hour work week, has been signed by both the company and the union and added that a completed copy has been mailed to the firm's New York office.

Saum added that employes of the Darling Shop, 101 Baltimore Street, agreed to go along with any offer negotiated with Lerner's. He added he hoped the tentative agreement reached on that contract may be completed soon.

Neither the Cumberland Cloak and Suit Company nor the union reported any developments last night in the contract dispute which led to a strike at that store last Friday, but C. E. Stutzman, business agent, yesterday said the union now wants a week's sick leave and increased commissions in addition to the firm's previous offer.

The Executive Board of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, last night asked members of the Celanese union to respect picket lines of the Retail Clerks union at the Cumberland Cloak and Suit Company, Earl Snyder, vice president, reported following a meeting of the board.

He added further and more complete action may follow when the issue is presented to members of the union at a meeting tomorrow night.

QMC Instructor To Give Lecture Here

The third in a series of lectures on the European battles of World War II will be presented to the public at the City Hall auditorium Thursday night at 8 o'clock by Major Allan William Johnson, senior Quartermaster instructor for the state of Maryland.

Major Johnson's lecture, which will include official Signal Corps films and battle maps, will be entitled "The First Phase of the Italian Campaign."

Major Johnson was commissioned a lieutenant in the QMC, ORC, in 1937 and in 1941 was called to active duty. He served overseas with the 52nd Quartermasters Corps and was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in the Normandy campaign during which his unit was twice cited for outstanding achievements.

In connection with the lecture Col. Carleton Coulter, senior Infantry instructor for Maryland, will present Victory medals to a group of reservists from the local area.

Ex-GI Will Be Turned Over To Sacramento Police

Francis Xavier Grimes, 25, an ex-Army sergeant from Brooklyn who was arrested here May 22 by FBI agents on charges of cashing bogus checks totaling about $3,000 in various sections of the country, has been turned over to Baltimore police for extradition to custody of the Sacramento, Calif., City Police, according to E. Norris Becker, deputy United States marshal in Baltimore.

The Brooklyn man was arrested here on charges preferred by the FBI at Seattle, Wash., in connection with his alleged check passing activities in that state. He was taken to Baltimore early in June.

Becker said Grimes was taken before Baltimore district court under a new law which provides that an accused person may plead guilty in the state where he is apprehended, upon agreement of authorities preferring charges.

The case against the former serviceman was ordered nol prossed by the United States attorney in Seattle, however, and Grimes was turned over to Baltimore police after the court decided it could not handle the case because federal charges had been withdrawn, according to Becker.

Becker said he did not know when Grimes would be taken to Sacramento. FBI agents said at the time of Grimes' arrest that he admitted cashing worthless checks in at least 17 cities across the country, using the money for clothing and traveling to visit former GI buddies.

Arresting agents said that Grimes had a book of partially used blank checks when he was apprehended, adding that the book was on the American Trust Company, Sacramento.

CORNERSTONE OPENED—The cornerstone (above) laid by the Masonic Lodge of this section for the Trinity Independent Methodist Church building on August 18, 1869, was opened yesterday as razing of the structure continued in order to make way for a new Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company office at the corner of Union and South Centre Streets. In the picture at the left, Rev. W. Clark Main (right), pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Grand Avenue, and Jared E. Dawson, 87, 517 Avirett Avenue, look over the badly deteriorated contents of the stone. Dawson saw the cornerstone laid 78 years ago. They are paying particular attention to an old Bible. Some of the spectators are in the background.

Contents Of Church Cornerstone Revealed, 78 Years After Laying

Newspapers, Paper Currency Discovered

Seventy-eight years ago to the day that the cornerstone of Trinity Independent Methodist Church was laid amidst pomp and ceremony, a handful of interested onlookers, including one who watched the service on August 18, 1869, saw the cornerstone toppled and its contents bared yesterday.

On hand to receive the contents of the cornerstone of the old building, recently acquired from St. Paul's Lutheran Church to make way for a new telephone exchange office at South Centre and Union Streets, was Rev. W. Clark Main, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, who intended to turn over the contents to the Methodist Historical Society of the Baltimore Annual Conference.

Rev. Mr. Main along with the others were disappointed, however, when the contents of the stone were found to be so badly decayed they were almost beyond recognition.

Identification Possible

Several articles virtually crumbled at the touch and others fell apart even with a minimum of handling.

However, it was possible to identify a Bible, a hymnal, a copy of the church's discipline, the Constitution of the United States, the Constitution of Maryland, 50 cents, 15 cents and 10 cents in fractional paper currency; a quarter of a dollar gold piece dated 1864, an 1855 half dollar, an 1844 quarter, an 1856 dime, an 1853 half-dime, an 1869 nickel, an 1868 three-cent piece and an 1869 penny.

Three copies of old newspapers, "The Civilian and Telegram," "The Cumberland Alleganian" and "The Times" each devoted a few lines to the laying of the cornerstone to take place within a few days.

Jared E. Dawson, 87, 517 Avirett Avenue, recalled yesterday as the stone was toppled that his father, Isaac, brought him to Cumberland from their home near what is now Fairgo to witness the ceremony.

"I was nine years and five months old then," said Mr. Dawson, who retired eight years ago after working for the Potomac Edison Company for 60 years.

"My father lifted me up and put me in back of a railing across the street so I could see," he said. He says it must have been "a pretty nice day because there was a big crowd present."

Makes Canes From Wood

To some extent, Mr. Dawson's hobby has been making canes from wood taken from old churches as they were being dismantled.

When the old Methodist Church at Cresaptown, which was dedicated in 1798, was torn down, Mr. Dawson got some black walnut wood from the pulpit and made two canes, one of which was given to the Historical Society of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church.

Then when the building preceding the present edifice of St. Paul's Lutheran Church on Baltimore and Centre Streets was torn down, Mr. Dawson got some ash and walnut wood and made four canes, giving all of them to friends.

Now he has some black walnut wood from the old Trinity Methodist Church's altar rail and while he may not be able to make canes from it, he hopes he will be able to make something to make the wood worth keeping.

One of the newspapers taken from the cornerstone yesterday, "The Civilian and Telegram," was edited by Will H. Lowdermilk, who had this to say on Page 3 of the Thursday, August 12, 1869, edition:

Masons Officiated

"The cornerstone of the Independent Methodist Church edifice, now in the course of construction on the corner of Union and South Centre Streets in this city, will be laid on Wednesday morning next by Potomac Lodge No. 100, A. F. and A. M., assisted by visiting lodges."

The assisting lodges, according to "History of Southern Methodism in Cumberland, Maryland," by Rev. John H. Kuhlman, who later was a Southern Methodist minister here, were Piedmont Lodge No. 128; Hiram Lodge No. 103, Lonaconing; Ohr Lodge No. 131, Cumberland; Oakland Lodge No. 133; Salem Arch Chapter No. 18, of the Masons, and Chosen Friends Lodge No. 34, I. O. O. F.

Forming at the Masonic hall on Baltimore Street, the procession "marched out Baltimore Street to and up Front Street to Fulton, and thence to and along Decatur to Bedford, from Bedford they turned into North Centre and down Centre Street to the English Lutheran Church where religious services were held at 11 a. m.," the history relates.

"Then the procession passed down Baltimore Street, to and out South Centre to the foundation of the new church, where the cornerstone was to be laid."

Addresses were delivered by Dr. C. H. Ohr, past grand master of the Masons and at that time the oldest living Mason in Maryland; Patrick

"Some Progress" Noted In Paper Contract Talks

Negotiations Will Resume This Morning

A representative of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, which resumed negotiations with the United Paperworkers of America, CIO, in Washington, D. C., yesterday reported that progress was made at a meeting yesterday and that the contract talks will be resumed this morning at 9 o'clock.

The negotiations which began in Huntingdon, Pa., July 28 and continued in Frostburg August 7 and 8, are on a working agreement for the Luke, Md., Williamsburg, Pa., and Covington, Va., plants to replace contracts which expire tomorrow.

The Luke local last week rejected a company offer of wage increases ranging from five to 12 cents per hour and told the negotiators to "go back and get a good contract before the present agreement expires." Similiar action was taken by the other locals, union officials said.

Yesterday's session began at 9 a. m. and was continued until 5 p. m. The talks will be resumed this morning, a company spokesman said.

The company representative described yesterday's meeting as "harmonious and progressive" and added we "certainly made progress". There was a definite harmonious air at the conference, he added.

Harry Scott, Covington, area director for the union, and James W. Towsen, a representative of the company's New York office, said they did not wish to discuss the negotiations in detail but both indicated progress was being made

Scott said his union represents approximately 4,400 workers in the three plants.

Local 676, United Paperworkers of America, CIO, at Luke said last night that they had been advised at noon yesterday that the union was "progressing a little" in the contract talks.

Naval Reservists To Take Training Duty

Five apprentice seamen in the Cumberland Organized Naval Reserve Division will leave Saturday for two weeks of training at Norfolk, Va., according to Lt. Comdr. Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer.

They are Harry R. Thomas, 70 Linden Street, Frostburg; George C. Martin, 520 Columbia Avenue; Matthew Bridges, Route 2, Flintstone; James M. Rice, Route 2, Frostburg; and Jonathan J. Eckhart, Eckhart Mines.

Comdr. Hedrick also announced that Paul O. Bridges, Mt. Savage, apprentice seaman, has been accepted for membership in the division.

Chief Torpedoman Edgar L. Schrader, local Navy recruiter, said that Andrews Vance Rotruck, Patterson Creek, W. Va., has been sworn into the V-6 inactive naval reserve as a pharmacist's mate second class. Rotruck is a veteran of 23 months' previous service in the Navy.

Nine More Veterans Join VFW Drum Corps

Nine more war veterans from Cumberland and Frostburg joined the drum and bugle corps of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at a meeting of the corps last night.

They are Thomas B. Hott and William H. Hott, Frostburg, and William Steppe, R. Stanton Byer, Clyde Athey, J. A. Jones, C. J. Muir, E. B. McIntosh and R. J. Brown, of Cumberland.

Openings still exist for veterans who need not have seen foreign service, particularly in the fife and drum section which is being organized. Beginners on the fife will be instructed by Ralph L. Rizer.

The corps will participate in the Ridgeley, W. Va., homecoming parade Saturday.

LaVale Residents, Delegates Discuss Sanitary Bill

Preliminary Measure Will Be Drawn Up

Plans were made yesterday at an informal meeting of a group of LaVale residents with members of the Allegany County delegation to draw up a tentative sanitary district bill for presentation at a meeting of the Legislative Council in Baltimore on September 3.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., chairman of the delegation, Delegates Lester B. Reed and John T. Fey, and Senator Robert B. Kimble attended the meeting, held at the office of Miles G. Thompson, who acted as spokesman for the LaVale group.

It was decided to work out a preliminary bill and to submit it to the delegates and Senator Kimble at another meeting in the near future. Whitworth explained that the Legislative Council could take action to clear the measure for consideration by the special session of the General Assembly, scheduled to be held this fall.

During the 1947 session of the General Assembly, a bill proposed to create sanitary districts in the county to provide water supply, sewage and drainage systems to county municipalities outside Cumberland failed to get through because it was amended at the last moment to provide for a referendum and was "lost in the shuffle," Whitworth explained.

The delegation chairman said that bill was also amended to exclude municipal water systems of Frostburg and Westernport because condemnation powers of the proposed three-man sanitary district commission were so broad that it would be almost mandatory for the commission to take over waterworks in municipalities outside Cumberland.

It was proposed to work out a plan whereby Election District No. 29, which comprises the community of LaVale, would be set up as a sanitary district, and questions of the total assessed valuation of property in that area and the bond issue which would be needed in order to set up a water system were discussed.

Whitworth said the delegation is anxious to do all in its power to aid LaVale residents, adding that the Legislative Council may take special action to clear the proposed bill because of the emergency nature of the community's water shortage.

He said he believes the bill should include a referendum because a bond issue would entail taxes and service charges to finance construction and installations.

Cloudiness, Humidity Forecast For Today

Although considerable cloudiness and humidity are forecast for today, with a few scattered thundershowers, Cumberland's six-day heat wave was broken following a heavy downpour late Sunday night and early Monday morning.

Highest temperature reading yesterday was 78 in the afternoon, as compared to the official high of 85 degrees Sunday. The rainfall amounted to 1.05 inches.

Robert R. Golden, weather observer at Constitution Park, reported that the lowest temperature reading during the 24-hour period ending yesterday morning was 68 degrees.

Despite the heavy rain, crops in nearby areas escaped damage because there was no wind, according to Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent.

The downpour of rain that started Sunday night and continued until early yesterday morning flooded all three of the city's subways, but police said traffic continued to use them.

The Greene street subway was filled with about two feet of water at 11:10 p. m. Sunday while the Wineow Street and Virginia Avenue subways became flooded shortly after midnight. Police said the water drained within a few hours.

Properties Get Double Transfer

Deeds recorded in Allegany County Court House show the transfer of a one-half interest in Lot 7, Block 12 on Fairmont Avenue and one half interests in Lots 7, 8, and 9 of Blocks 27 and 32 in Potomac Park Addition from William N. Hay, executor of the will of Harry T. Mullin, to Phyllis Feaga for $300.

Another deed transferred the properties from Miss Feaga to Hay for an undisclosed sum under $500, according to tax stamps affixed.

A lot in the Barton Mining Company Addition to Frostburg sold for $7,500, according to tax stamps. It was sold by John T. Blocher and Rebecca Blocher to Emory G. and Edna Robinette.

Edward J. Ryan, who owned one third of Lots 15, 16, and 17 in McCulloh's Addition, Frostburg, purchased the remaining two thirds for $666.66 from Loraine Eisenberg, executrix of the will of Martha W. Stern, and the widow of Charles Dillon, who owned the other two thirds.

Conference Is Planned On Assault Case

Justice of the Peace C. A. Jewell, Ridgeley, said last night that he will confer with Mineral County authorities in connection with a charge of malicious assault placed against Gerald Barbe, 303 Avirett Avenue, following the injury of Ronald Biller, 40, Route 3, July 13.

Biller, who suffered a fractured skull, Ridgeley authorities said, when struck by Barbe in front of a Ridgeley tavern, was discharged from Memorial Hospital and has been recuperating at his home for about a week, Justice of the Peace Jewell said he was informed last night.

No Thieves There

City Police last night were called to 310 Furnace Street, where a burgler was reported "in the house," but a check proved that children were knocking on the back door, the investigating officers said.

"Framework" Of City's Master Plan Outlined

No Time Limit Set For Executing Plans

Representatives of industry, utilities, civic organizations and some private citizens turned out last night to hear Gustav Requardt and A. Russell Vollmer, of Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Baltimore engineering firm, outline their report on a "framework" of a master plan for Cumberland's future development.

Called by the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission to whom the engineers submitted the report, the public meeting, held in the City Hall council chamber, was attended by half a hundred persons, including Mayor Thomas S. Post and the four members of the City Council.

Already outlined in considerable detail in The Cumberland News, the report was discussed and explained for nearly an hour and a half by Vollmer who said presenting the report must be "merely highlighting because it is so big." His explanation of the report was enhanced by the use of maps and diagrams prepared in conjunction with it.

No Time Limit

In a question and answer period that concluded the two-hour meeting, a man who identified himself only as "private citizen," asked what it would cost the City of Cumberland to carry out the recommendations if they are adopted and over what period of time it is planned to do the work.

Vollmer said a time limit on the plans was not set and explained that all, including flood control, cannot be controlled by the city as to when they will proceed.

Flood control, he estimated, will cost about $10,000,000, with Cumberland's share between $800,000 and $900,000. This project, he said, may now be considered a commitment because of approval given by the city to the Army engineer's deepened channel plan, which calls for deepening of the channel, construction of sloping walls, levees, straightening of the river, and reconstruction of bridges.

Construction of an auxiliary 36-inch water transmission main to Cumberland from the impounding dams and two more settling basins is estimated to cost in the neighborhood of another million dollars, but Vollmer said this will not be a part of the general obligation since much of the money already is on hand. These two projects can be completed in perhaps two years if work is started in the near future, he added, pointing out that plans already are prepared.

Cost of the crosstown viaduct he estimated at $1,900,000, excluding property, and this was placed at about half a million, possibly the entire cost of this to be borne by the city.

Cost To Be Shared

However, the cost of the viaduct structure is expected to be borne by the Public Roads Administration, the State Roads Commission, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, the Western Maryland Railway and the city. The cost to be borne by the city cannot be determined, Vollmer said, until it is determined how much the other groups will contribute.

Sewage treatment on the basis of the primary plan recommended is expected to cost about $1,000,000 with improvements in the Bedford Road area placed at another $50,000.

The selection as to how many of the projects and how much of the work can be done is up to the Mayor and Council, the Planning Commission and the public, Vollmer said.

Requardt added that the questioner appeared to be "overwhelmed by the immensity of the plan," but he pointed out that when a person lives in a city he must constantly think of rebuilding it or it may fall apart at the seams.

Discussing the reasons for having a plan in advance, Requardt said it may be decided soon that no city can pollute a stream, such as Cumberland is now doing by its sewage disposal method.

Pollution Move Possible

The government, commissions studying pollution and the State Board of Health are "all going to have something to say on pollution," and they may direct Cumberland to do something about it, Requardt said.

Joseph M. Miller, superintendent of the Elkins Division of the Western Maryland Railway, asked Vollmer his opinion as to the order of priority, and Vollmer replied again that the city already is committed to the flood control plan by its approval of the project and added that initial approval also has been given of the crosstown viaduct. The additional water transmission main and settling tanks also have been approved, he said, citing these projects as the most important.

Then, perhaps, he added, will come highway improvement and sewage treatment.

To a question by City Commissioner William V. Keegan who inquired if there is not a tendency in large cities to do away with overhead bridges, Requardt admitted that New York took out its elevated railroad, but said a beautiful new overhead road was constructed.

Requardt said many roads are now being constructed so that one crosses another at intersections in order to keep from interrupting the flow of traffic. He pointed out also that Baltimore has a viaduct serving a purpose similar to that to be served by the one proposed for this city, and added that he believes of overhead bridges to come, the "surface has not been scratched."

In his talk preceding the question and answer period, Vollmer discussed flood control, the crosstown viaduct, water supply, sewerage and traffic and parking in some detail, but dealt more briefly with public buildings, recreational facilities, housing, control of areas beyond the city limits, zoning, building code, power and utility conduits and municipal finances.

James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission, presided.

Nelson Kerns Found Helpless In Ditch

A 40-year-old Hampshire County farmer, who West Virginia State police believe was the victim of a hit and run driver, was found yesterday morning lying in a ditch on Bloomery Hollow Road, near the Virginia line in Hampshire County, where he had lain helpless since he regained consciousness yesterday at daybreak.

Trooper F. H. Tribett, Romney, who investigated, identified the victim as Nelson Kerns, and said he lives in Hampshire County but gets his mail on a Rural Route from Whitacre, Va.

He said the injured man was found lying in a ditch off Bloomery Road, about three miles north of Route 50, toward Berkeley Springs, W. Va., by Richard Hawkins and Golden Kerns, both of the Bloomery Hollow section, as the men drove by in a car yesterday about 8 a. m.

Kerns, the trooper said, was conscious when he was discovered but was unable to move due to injuries to his back and hip. The men took him to his home nearby and later yesterday the injured man was taken to a Romney physician for medical treatment.

The man told Trooper Tribett that the car had run over him Sunday about 9 p. m. as he was walking toward his home.

Kerns added the car struck him in the back and threw him forward. He added he did not know anything until it became dawn and then was unable to move due to his injuries, the trooper said. He was struck about 10 feet from the point where he turned off the road to go to his home, about one-fourth of a mile away.

Kerns is reported in a fair condition at his home suffering from undetermined back injuries after he was treated for bruises on the face suffered when he was thrown forward by the impact, and for bruises and lacerations on the back and hip.

Trooper Tribett said the physician has advised that X-rays be taken to determine the extent of injuries.

City Is Not Affected By Exemption Ruling

Two tax exemptions recently granted to Cumberland firms by the Mayor and Council are not affected by the decision of the Allegany County Circuit Court judges in declaring unconstitutional the law under which the County Commissioners granted tax exemptions to three manufacturing firms, according to City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett.

Heskett said the law under which the city exemptions were granted was not tested and that the only way for the two local exemptions to be thrown out would be for the court to declare them void.

During the 1947 session of the General Assembly, an act was passed amending Section 65 of the city charter to authorize the Mayor and Council to grant yearly exemptions to manufacturing concerns already located in the city, and requiring applications for renewal of such exemptions at the end of each one-year period.

Previously, the Mayor and Council were authorized under Section 65 to grant exemptions for periods up to 10 years to any manufacturing company desiring to locate in the city.

The city has granted one-year exemptions on tools and machinery to the Cumberland Undergarment Company and to the National Jet Company.

Area Grocery Workers Will Receive Increase

C. E. Stutzman, business agent for Local 453, Teamsters Union, AFL, reported yesterday that new contracts will be signed this week for employes of three Cumberland area wholesale grocery firms.

He said about 50 drivers, warehousemen and helpers of the Kenneweg, C. D. Kenny and Piedmont Grocery Companies will receive a 10 cent hourly increase, effective October 1, in the agreement which will run until July 1, 1948. Workers will receive $44 for a 40 hour week under the new rate, he added.

The contract with the firms expired May 1 but was extended to July 1 and negotiations began about a month ago, the union said.

Remonstrance Hearing Is Set For Today

A remonstrance hearing will be conducted this morning at 9 o'clock by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board when it considers the application of Charles G. Poisal, Allegany Grove, for a Class "D" on sale beer licenses.

The protest petition was filed by between 30 and 40 residents of Allegany Grove, where Poisal indicated he wanted the license to sell beer at the Grove Recreation Centre.

Applications numbering 16 for both beer and liquor will also be considered this morning by the control board.

Rates Increased

According to the Maryland Fire Underwriters Rating Bureau, a statewide increase in fire insurance rates from 10 to 30 per cent on nearly all types of risks with the exception of dwellings became effective last Thursday and is applicable to new policies and renewals.

The rates on apartments, garages, brick school buildings, lumber yards and stocks in mercantile buildings have been increased 10 per cent; flour and feed mills 30 per cent; hotels and rooming houses and mercantile buildings 20 per cent.

Injured Employe's Condition Reported Good By Hospital

Millard Torbet, 41-year-old construction mechanic, was reported in a "good condition" last night in Memorial Hospital where he was admitted yesterday for treatment of fractures of the right arm and right leg.

Torbet, who lives at 212 South Street and is employed by the George F. Hazelwood construction company, told attaches he was injured when a truck rim blew off.

He was reported injured while repairing a universal crane on a Pennsylvania highway construction job between Ellerslie and Hyndman.

Wilbur Galliher, 5, Little Orleans, was treated in Memorial yesterday for lacerations on the head, after he fell on a bridge.

Marshall Wilson, 56, Cresaptown, was treated in Memorial yesterday after his right hand was struck by a hammer. A splint was applied.

Falls From Bike

John Pratt, Jr., 28, Mt. Savage, was treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday for a right hand injury. The Cessna Lumber Company worker told attaches he ran a piece of wire into his hand at work.

W. W. Often, 46, 609 Piedmont Avenue, was treated in Allegany yesterday for a left knee injury after he bumped against a truck. X-rays were taken.

Mrs. Cora Dietle, 50, wife of William Dietle, Route 6, Potomac Park, was treated in Allegany yesterday for a laceration of the upper lip and brush burns of the knee suffered in a fall. Also treated were:

Raymond Winner, 22, 406 Decatur Street, in Allegany, after he bumped his hip against a door, and Jerry Barncord, 4, this city, for a laceration of the foot last night.

Several victims of minor accidents were treated at Memorial Hospital. George F. Diggs, 52, 950 Maryland Avenue, an employe of the B. and O. back shops, was treated for lacerations of the face, suffered when a block struck him while he was working. X-rays will be taken today.

Ronald Rice, 11-year-old son of Theodore Rice, Route 2, city, suffered an injury to his right foot when he stepped on a nail. Also treated was Richard Smith, 6, son of Lee Smith, Artemas, Pa., who suffered throat injuries when he jabbed a comb into his mouth. A 5-year-old Ridgeley boy, Ernest Snyder, son of John H. Snyder, was treated for head injuries suffered, attaches said, when he was struck by a pick while playing.

Blue Ridge Driver, Local Man Arrested

A Blue Ridge Bus driver and a local man each posted $10 bond last night for hearings on disorderly conduct that resulted, police said, from an argument over parking space on Frederick Street in front of the Blue Ridge Bus terminal.

Police identified the men as Francis Schultz, Franklin Street, and John Redman, Massachusetts Avenue, the bus driver. Schultz, according to police, attempted to park his car along side of the Eagle building but was blocked by the bus driven by Redman.

Both men left their vehicles and began calling each other names on the street, according to police. They will be given hearings this morning in Police Court.

Divorce Suit Filed

Suit for an absolute divorce was filed yesterday in Circuit Court by George Henry Pough against Louise D. Pough. The bill of complaint, filed by William L. Wilson, attorney, stated that the couple was married November 13, 1942, in this city.

Lerner Employes Agree On Contract

Employes of the Lerner Shops, 134 Baltimore Street, accepted a company contract offer at a meeting held yesterday at 5 p. m. in Teamsters Hall, John L. Saum, Jr., Baltimore, union field representative, reported last night.

He said the contract, which calls for a $2 weekly increase for commissioned and $3 for non commissioned workers, plus a 40 hour work week, has been signed by both the company and the union and added that a completed copy has been mailed to the firm's New York office.

Saum added that employes of the Darling Shop, 101 Baltimore Street, agreed to go along with any offer negotiated with Lerner's. He added he hoped the tentative agreement reached on that contract may be completed soon.

Neither the Cumberland Cloak and Suit Company nor the union reported any developments last night in the contract dispute which led to a strike at that store last Friday, but C. E. Stutzman, business agent, yesterday said the union now wants a week's sick leave and increased commissions in addition to the firm's previous offer.

The Executive Board of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, last night asked members of the Celanese union to respect picket lines of the Retail Clerks union at the Cumberland Cloak and Suit Company, Earl Snyder, vice president, reported following a meeting of the board.

He added further and more complete action may follow when the issue is presented to members of the union at a meeting tomorrow night.

QMC Instructor To Give Lecture Here

The third in a series of lectures on the European battles of World War II will be presented to the public at the City Hall auditorium Thursday night at 8 o'clock by Major Allan William Johnson, senior Quartermaster instructor for the state of Maryland.

Major Johnson's lecture, which will include official Signal Corps films and battle maps, will be entitled "The First Phase of the Italian Campaign."

Major Johnson was commissioned a lieutenant in the QMC, ORC, in 1937 and in 1941 was called to active duty. He served overseas with the 52nd Quartermasters Corps and was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in the Normandy campaign during which his unit was twice cited for outstanding achievements.

In connection with the lecture Col. Carleton Coulter, senior Infantry instructor for Maryland, will present Victory medals to a group of reservists from the local area.

Ex-GI Will Be Turned Over To Sacramento Police

Francis Xavier Grimes, 25, an ex-Army sergeant from Brooklyn who was arrested here May 22 by FBI agents on charges of cashing bogus checks totaling about $3,000 in various sections of the country, has been turned over to Baltimore police for extradition to custody of the Sacramento, Calif., City Police, according to E. Norris Becker, deputy United States marshal in Baltimore.

The Brooklyn man was arrested here on charges preferred by the FBI at Seattle, Wash., in connection with his alleged check passing activities in that state. He was taken to Baltimore early in June.

Becker said Grimes was taken before Baltimore district court under a new law which provides that an accused person may plead guilty in the state where he is apprehended, upon agreement of authorities preferring charges.

The case against the former serviceman was ordered nol prossed by the United States attorney in Seattle, however, and Grimes was turned over to Baltimore police after the court decided it could not handle the case because federal charges had been withdrawn, according to Becker.

Becker said he did not know when Grimes would be taken to Sacramento. FBI agents said at the time of Grimes' arrest that he admitted cashing worthless checks in at least 17 cities across the country, using the money for clothing and traveling to visit former GI buddies.

Arresting agents said that Grimes had a book of partially used blank checks when he was apprehended, adding that the book was on the American Trust Company, Sacramento.

CORNERSTONE OPENED—The cornerstone (above) laid by the Masonic Lodge of this section for the Trinity Independent Methodist Church building on August 18, 1869, was opened yesterday as razing of the structure continued in order to make way for a new Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company office at the corner of Union and South Centre Streets. In the picture at the left, Rev. W. Clark Main (right), pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Grand Avenue, and Jared E. Dawson, 87, 517 Avirett Avenue, look over the badly deteriorated contents of the stone. Dawson saw the cornerstone laid 78 years ago. They are paying particular attention to an old Bible. Some of the spectators are in the background.

Contents Of Church Cornerstone Revealed, 78 Years After Laying

Newspapers, Paper Currency Discovered

Seventy-eight years ago to the day that the cornerstone of Trinity Independent Methodist Church was laid amidst pomp and ceremony, a handful of interested onlookers, including one who watched the service on August 18, 1869, saw the cornerstone toppled and its contents bared yesterday.

On hand to receive the contents of the cornerstone of the old building, recently acquired from St. Paul's Lutheran Church to make way for a new telephone exchange office at South Centre and Union Streets, was Rev. W. Clark Main, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, who intended to turn over the contents to the Methodist Historical Society of the Baltimore Annual Conference.

Rev. Mr. Main along with the others were disappointed, however, when the contents of the stone were found to be so badly decayed they were almost beyond recognition.

Identification Possible

Several articles virtually crumbled at the touch and others fell apart even with a minimum of handling.

However, it was possible to identify a Bible, a hymnal, a copy of the church's discipline, the Constitution of the United States, the Constitution of Maryland, 50 cents, 15 cents and 10 cents in fractional paper currency; a quarter of a dollar gold piece dated 1864, an 1855 half dollar, an 1844 quarter, an 1856 dime, an 1853 half-dime, an 1869 nickel, an 1868 three-cent piece and an 1869 penny.

Three copies of old newspapers, "The Civilian and Telegram," "The Cumberland Alleganian" and "The Times" each devoted a few lines to the laying of the cornerstone to take place within a few days.

Jared E. Dawson, 87, 517 Avirett Avenue, recalled yesterday as the stone was toppled that his father, Isaac, brought him to Cumberland from their home near what is now Fairgo to witness the ceremony.

"I was nine years and five months old then," said Mr. Dawson, who retired eight years ago after working for the Potomac Edison Company for 60 years.

"My father lifted me up and put me in back of a railing across the street so I could see," he said. He says it must have been "a pretty nice day because there was a big crowd present."

Makes Canes From Wood

To some extent, Mr. Dawson's hobby has been making canes from wood taken from old churches as they were being dismantled.

When the old Methodist Church at Cresaptown, which was dedicated in 1798, was torn down, Mr. Dawson got some black walnut wood from the pulpit and made two canes, one of which was given to the Historical Society of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church.

Then when the building preceding the present edifice of St. Paul's Lutheran Church on Baltimore and Centre Streets was torn down, Mr. Dawson got some ash and walnut wood and made four canes, giving all of them to friends.

Now he has some black walnut wood from the old Trinity Methodist Church's altar rail and while he may not be able to make canes from it, he hopes he will be able to make something to make the wood worth keeping.

One of the newspapers taken from the cornerstone yesterday, "The Civilian and Telegram," was edited by Will H. Lowdermilk, who had this to say on Page 3 of the Thursday, August 12, 1869, edition:

Masons Officiated

"The cornerstone of the Independent Methodist Church edifice, now in the course of construction on the corner of Union and South Centre Streets in this city, will be laid on Wednesday morning next by Potomac Lodge No. 100, A. F. and A. M., assisted by visiting lodges."

The assisting lodges, according to "History of Southern Methodism in Cumberland, Maryland," by Rev. John H. Kuhlman, who later was a Southern Methodist minister here, were Piedmont Lodge No. 128; Hiram Lodge No. 103, Lonaconing; Ohr Lodge No. 131, Cumberland; Oakland Lodge No. 133; Salem Arch Chapter No. 18, of the Masons, and Chosen Friends Lodge No. 34, I. O. O. F.

Forming at the Masonic hall on Baltimore Street, the procession "marched out Baltimore Street to and up Front Street to Fulton, and thence to and along Decatur to Bedford, from Bedford they turned into North Centre and down Centre Street to the English Lutheran Church where religious services were held at 11 a. m.," the history relates.

"Then the procession passed down Baltimore Street, to and out South Centre to the foundation of the new church, where the cornerstone was to be laid."

Addresses were delivered by Dr. C. H. Ohr, past grand master of the Masons and at that time the oldest living Mason in Maryland; Patrick

"Some Progress" Noted In Paper Contract Talks

Negotiations Will Resume This Morning

A representative of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, which resumed negotiations with the United Paperworkers of America, CIO, in Washington, D. C., yesterday reported that progress was made at a meeting yesterday and that the contract talks will be resumed this morning at 9 o'clock.

The negotiations which began in Huntingdon, Pa., July 28 and continued in Frostburg August 7 and 8, are on a working agreement for the Luke, Md., Williamsburg, Pa., and Covington, Va., plants to replace contracts which expire tomorrow.

The Luke local last week rejected a company offer of wage increases ranging from five to 12 cents per hour and told the negotiators to "go back and get a good contract before the present agreement expires." Similiar action was taken by the other locals, union officials said.

Yesterday's session began at 9 a. m. and was continued until 5 p. m. The talks will be resumed this morning, a company spokesman said.

The company representative described yesterday's meeting as "harmonious and progressive" and added we "certainly made progress". There was a definite harmonious air at the conference, he added.

Harry Scott, Covington, area director for the union, and James W. Towsen, a representative of the company's New York office, said they did not wish to discuss the negotiations in detail but both indicated progress was being made

Scott said his union represents approximately 4,400 workers in the three plants.

Local 676, United Paperworkers of America, CIO, at Luke said last night that they had been advised at noon yesterday that the union was "progressing a little" in the contract talks.

Chief Torpedoman Edgar L. Schrader, local Navy recruiter, said that Andrews Vance Rotruck, Patterson Creek, W. Va., has been sworn into the V-6 inactive naval reserve as a pharmacist's mate second class. Rotruck is a veteran of 23 months' previous service in the Navy.

Nine More Veterans Join VFW Drum Corps

Preliminary Measure Will Be Drawn Up

Plans were made yesterday at an informal meeting of a group of LaVale residents with members of the Allegany County delegation to draw up a tentative sanitary district bill for presentation at a meeting of the Legislative Council in Baltimore on September 3.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., chairman of the delegation, Delegates Lester B. Reed and John T. Fey, and Senator Robert B. Kimble attended the meeting, held at the office of Miles G. Thompson, who acted as spokesman for the LaVale group.

It was decided to work out a preliminary bill and to submit it to the delegates and Senator Kimble at another meeting in the near future. Whitworth explained that the Legislative Council could take action to clear the measure for consideration by the special session of the General Assembly, scheduled to be held this fall.

During the 1947 session of the General Assembly, a bill proposed to create sanitary districts in the county to provide water supply, sewage and drainage systems to county municipalities outside Cumberland failed to get through because it was amended at the last moment to provide for a referendum and was "lost in the shuffle," Whitworth explained.

The delegation chairman said that bill was also amended to exclude municipal water systems of Frostburg and Westernport because condemnation powers of the proposed three-man sanitary district commission were so broad that it would be almost mandatory for the commission to take over waterworks in municipalities outside Cumberland.

It was proposed to work out a plan whereby Election District No. 29, which comprises the community of LaVale, would be set up as a sanitary district, and questions of the total assessed valuation of property in that area and the bond issue which would be needed in order to set up a water system were discussed.

Whitworth said the delegation is anxious to do all in its power to aid LaVale residents, adding that the Legislative Council may take special action to clear the proposed bill because of the emergency nature of the community's water shortage.

He said he believes the bill should include a referendum because a bond issue would entail taxes and service charges to finance construction and installations.

Cloudiness, Humidity Forecast For Today

Although considerable cloudiness and humidity are forecast for today, with a few scattered thundershowers, Cumberland's six-day heat wave was broken following a heavy downpour late Sunday night and early Monday morning.

Highest temperature reading yesterday was 78 in the afternoon, as compared to the official high of 85 degrees Sunday. The rainfall amounted to 1.05 inches.

Robert R. Golden, weather observer at Constitution Park, reported that the lowest temperature reading during the 24-hour period ending yesterday morning was 68 degrees.

Despite the heavy rain, crops in nearby areas escaped damage because there was no wind, according to Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent.

The downpour of rain that started Sunday night and continued until early yesterday morning flooded all three of the city's subways, but police said traffic continued to use them.

The Greene street subway was filled with about two feet of water at 11:10 p. m. Sunday while the Wineow Street and Virginia Avenue subways became flooded shortly after midnight. Police said the water drained within a few hours.

Properties Get Double Transfer

Deeds recorded in Allegany County Court House show the transfer of a one-half interest in Lot 7, Block 12 on Fairmont Avenue and one half interests in Lots 7, 8, and 9 of Blocks 27 and 32 in Potomac Park Addition from William N. Hay, executor of the will of Harry T. Mullin, to Phyllis Feaga for $300.

Another deed transferred the properties from Miss Feaga to Hay for an undisclosed sum under $500, according to tax stamps affixed.

A lot in the Barton Mining Company Addition to Frostburg sold for $7,500, according to tax stamps. It was sold by John T. Blocher and Rebecca Blocher to Emory G. and Edna Robinette.

Edward J. Ryan, who owned one third of Lots 15, 16, and 17 in McCulloh's Addition, Frostburg, purchased the remaining two thirds for $666.66 from Loraine Eisenberg, executrix of the will of Martha W. Stern, and the widow of Charles Dillon, who owned the other two thirds.

Conference Is Planned On Assault Case

Justice of the Peace C. A. Jewell, Ridgeley, said last night that he will confer with Mineral County authorities in connection with a charge of malicious assault placed against Gerald Barbe, 303 Avirett Avenue, following the injury of Ronald Biller, 40, Route 3, July 13.

Biller, who suffered a fractured skull, Ridgeley authorities said, when struck by Barbe in front of a Ridgeley tavern, was discharged from Memorial Hospital and has been recuperating at his home for about a week, Justice of the Peace Jewell said he was informed last night.

No Thieves There

City Police last night were called to 310 Furnace Street, where a burgler was reported "in the house," but a check proved that children were knocking on the back door, the investigating officers said.
